Only 150 Miles an Hour Science Makes Cheap Wheat Mr. Raskob Sees Hope Children as Spies

By Arthur Brisbane

A TERRIFIC WIND, blowing 150 miles an hour and for hours without ceasing, has destroyed Santo Domingo, chief city of the Dominican Republic. The houses of the prosperous class were levelled and the tighter dwellings of the poor were picked up and carried away by the terrific wind.

In Santo Domingo, 50,000 are menaced by hunger, thieves are at work in the ruins, and as this is written, the wind speeds on, headed, it is feared, for the coast of the United States.

It is believed that the speed of this latest destructive hurricane was at times the greatest on record. Yet the modern high speed airplane could easily fly away from it, and around it.

A mail or passenger plane of 200 or 250 miles an hour speed could, with perfect safety, fly ahead and away from the path of such a tornado.

Farmers should know that science is responsible for the surplus crop and low price of wheat. Thirty-two years ago, a great scientist, Sir William Crooke, chief of the British Scientific Association "unless something is done to prevent it, 1931 would see such a lack of wheat as will cause widespread starvation."

And now 1930 sees more wheat than the people can eat.

Prof. Byer tells the British Science Association that science has done more than Sir William Crooke expected. Botany and scientific production of fertilizers, nitrogen especially, have extended the northern limits of wheat production so far that any possibility of shortage vanishes.

Mr. Raskob, manager of Democratic says President Hoover running for office now couldn't be elected, because the "Republicans could not exploit prosperity." They could, however, exploit Protestantism. And while the fact isn't generally mentioned, that had much to do with the Democratic and Republican votes of 1928, the two biggest ever recorded in our history.

Instructing twelve chief prohibition agents in the art of getting evidence, the use of small boys as spies is recommended. Agents are told by their superiors that two small boys can play near the home of the suspect and watch without attracting much attention, whereas a man loitering near would arouse suspicion.

It seems unfortunate to recommend the use of children as spies, even in the cause of virtue. A bad effect on character is certain.

Young girls might be trained to act as spies in the detection of disorderly resorts, but public opinion would not approve it.

Australians and others are impressed by old Solomont, an old Original Australian witch doctor, who predicted rain during rains to end the drouth in the first quarter of the moon."

The dreadful rains came, crops were saved, Solomont a hero, and the weather bureau which saw no rain coming is made ridiculous.

The public, eager to be deceived, hears and cares nothing about the 10,000 witch doctors and other prophets that in the same way predicted things that did not and will not happen.

Capt. Hawks, in Kansas City, criticises the French aviators for using a land plane, unable to alight on water, and calls their flight "a great display of nerve, but a foolish thing."

"If the flight across the ocean had been made in a seaplane something would have been accomplished for aviation."

Something is accomplished by any kind of flight across the ocean. Capt. Hawks some day will wonder why he ever believed a seaplane would be necessary for ocean crossings. Men don't put wheels on ships to enable them to run on land, because they don't expect them to run on land. And they will not put hulls for water landing on transatlantic planes because they won't expect airplanes to land on the water.

A hundred different kinds of little birds, migrating, cross the oceans every year. They could not swim or survive if they should alight on the water. They don't alight on the water. And what small birds can do, men will do.

Washington reports that President Hoover will extend considerably the plans for his coming speechmaking tour. His desire is to help Republican candidates in the House and Senate. Some of them will need help.

Many things worry the Republicans that were not expected to worry them in the prosperity boom times of November, 1928. First, the drop, temporarily, in our gigantic prosperity.

Wilson, Rum Raider, Faces New Shift

GALE LOSS $30,000,000

WILSON AGAIN FACES SHIFT AFTER RAID

Former Boston Dry Leader May Be Punished for Activity in Pittsburgh

Harold D. Wilson, who was ousted as prohibition enforcement chief here after raiding a banquet attended by notables, faces transfer from his present position as prohibition administrator at Pittsburgh as a result of a similar raid, according to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

He is said to have incurred the wrath of political leaders by a raid on the Amen Corner picnic in July, shortly after he assumed charge at Pittsburgh. Several barrels of beer were seized at this picnic, which prominent politicians attended.

Wilson, who was removed from his office here for "temperamental unfitness" in 1922, rejoined the prohibition service last year, after having been a stormy petrel in Republican party politics for several years, during which he ran for several state offices without success.

His removal here followed a raid on a banquet at the old Quincy House. It was said at the time that most of those present did not know a bar was in operation in an adjoining room, but the affair caused a sensation.

Upon rejoining the service he was assigned to the sixth district, comprising 25 counties in Pennsylvania, three in Maryland and all of West Virginia, and on July 1 of this year he was made chief at Pittsburgh.

According to the Sun-Telegraph he may be transferred to a berth at Wilmington, Del.

Five Are Rescued When Yacht Burns

Cape May, N. J., Sept. 5 (AP)—The $75,000 yacht Clarella II, owned by J. Howard Van Sciver, of Philadelphia, lay ruined by fire here today. The fire started in the engine room.

Clad only in bathing suits, Van Sciver; his daughter, Estrelsa, 16; a son, George, 18; and their two guests were taken off the yacht with the crew of five by a coast-guard boat.

Atty. Asa P. French, 70, and Widow Marry

Asa P. French, 70, prominent Boston attorney and former U. S. assistant for this district, was married last night in Albany to Mrs. Isabelle M. Donaldson of Boston, a widow, it was learned today.

According to City Clerk Frank Hogan of Albany, from whom they obtained the marriage license yesterday, they were wed in a civil ceremony.

Edward G. Hogan, Albany police court judge, who accompanied the couple to the city clerk's office, refused to say whether he performed the marriage.

Mrs. French returned to her home at 27 St. Stephen's st., Back Bay, early this forenoon, neighbors said, but she left an hour later, and neither she nor her husband, who has offices at 45 Milk st. and lives at Randolph, could be located.

The former Mrs. Donaldson has been a widow for several years and has a son, 14 years old, according to acquaintances.

French is a graduate of Yale and a member of the Yale, Algonquin, Tennis and Racket and other clubs, and is general counsel for the Society of Mayflower Descendants.

He was United States attorney here from 1906 to 1914 and prior to that was district attorney for Norfolk and Plymouth counties. He was formerly president of the Randolph Savings Bank, the Tremont Trust Company and the Norfolk County Bar Association.

He has participated as counsel in a number of outstanding cases, including a suit against the New Haven railroad involving millions.

Raider 'In Bad'

BECAUSE HE RAIDED the Amen corner picnic and seized several barrels of beer, Harold D. Wilson faces another transfer from head of the prohibition forces at Pittsburgh. Wilson was ousted here after he raided a banquet at which notables were guests.

Jury Finds Lawyer Guilty of Theft

Worcester, Sept. 5—Found guilty by a jury in a trial marked by clashes between the judge and defense counsel, Atty. Charles J. O'Connell today was sentenced to serve one year in the House of Correction on charges of stealing $1200 from a client.

Judge Thomas J. Hammond granted a stay of execution of sentence on a bill of exceptions.

BOSTON AERIAL STUNTS THRILL THOUSANDS

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

The era of the air reached 300 years into the past this afternoon and high over Boston motors roared a shrill cacophony in salute to the Tercentenary of the Massachusetts Bay Colony founding.

More than 5000 spectators crowded about the Boston municipal airport, while other uncounted thousands throughout the city gazed skyward as the three-day air carnival in honor of the tercentenary began.

Three great winged birds, nearly as large as the ships in which America's forefathers found refuge to these shores, roared down the East Boston field into a seventy-mile east wind for the start of the carnival of races, stunt flying and parachute jumps.

WEATHER PERFECT

They took the air gracefully, rose and circled and in the nine-two-three of echelon formation—the first formation of multi-motored ships over Boston—faded into the sun and blue of a sky that was a "ceiling clear to heaven," perfect flying weather.

In the lead was the twin-motored Sikorsky amphibian, piloted by Owen O'Connor. Immediately behind was the Ford tri-motor piloted by H. C. Heising and forming the tail was the Colonial Ford tri-motor starting its regular 11 o'clock passenger flight to New York.

Soon afterwards nine ships rose from the field at 30-second intervals, to parade in formation over the city.

CURLEY GREETS 200 JURISTS AT LUNCHEON

Tells Them Law Makes for Common Brotherhood and Cites Genius of Adams

Law, whatever form it takes, is the thing which makes for a common brotherhood, Mayor Curley declared today in Faneuil Hall in welcoming to Boston 200 members of foreign benches and bars, and their ladies.

The foreign jurists arrived in Boston from New York four hours late because of fog in Buzzards Bay, and were guests of the city at a luncheon in the historic "Cradle of Liberty."

In behalf of Wisconsin, Mayor Curley told the distinguished jurists:

"We do not forget that we derive our common law very largely from England, and the principles of equity which are applied when the common law can no longer do justice we attribute largely to the Civil law, the law of the continent of Europe, and to the Church.

CITES GENIUS OF ADAMS

"You have come to a Commonwealth whose charter dates back to the year 1780, a recent date in the calendar of the older countries, drafted by John Adams, a member of a family which more than any other justifies the belief in the benefit of the persistence of family stocks in a democracy, and who closed his remarkable draft of this constitution with the expression, 'to the end that this may be a government of laws and not of men'."

The jurists are headed by Hon. Mr Justice Hanna of Dublin, member of the Irish Free State Supreme Court.

On arrival of the steamship New York, he paused long enough to declare that crime has been much reduced under Irish Free State rule, and to refuse to comment on prohibition, then he hastily led his party to the State House for a meeting with Governor Allen.

MET BY LAWYERS

In the party in addition to Justice Hanna, were lawyers from Ireland, Scotland and France, and as the boat came up the harbor sirens shrieked a welcome and a fireboat shot streams of water across the bay in a demonstration for the visitors.

A committee of the Boston Bar Association and Capt. Eugene O'Donnell, president of the Eastern Steamship Co., welcomed the party at the pier and they immediately boarded buses.

The visiting jurists during their two-day stay, are guests of the Bar Association, Gov. Allen, Mayor Curley and President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard.

They are on a tour of the United States after spending two weeks in Canada and will proceed to Buffalo from here.

In the party were included Sir William Jewett, attorney-general of Great Britain; Sir John Simon, chairman of the Indian Statutory Commission; Rt. Hon. Lord Tomlin and Rt. Hon. Macmillan of Great Britain, lords of appeal, with Justices Talbot, Wright, Maugham and Macnaghten of England's high court.

Buy Now Club Grows to Boom Prosperity

Foster prosperity. Loosen your purse-strings.

Spend a few dollars. It won't hurt you and will stimulate business, relieve unemployment, create work.

This newspaper, in the interest of providing steady jobs and good wages, has inaugurated the BUY NOW CLUB.

The 300 members of the Women's Democratic Club of Massachusetts today joined Mayor Curley and the Boston Evening American and hundreds of other business and civic leaders in this wise spending movement. They and their president, Mrs. Mabelle A. Kelley of 74 Morse st., Watertown, are heartily in accord with the idea.

WARNER SIGNS UP

So is Atty.-Gen. Joseph E. Warner, who also joined the BUY NOW CLUB today.

Former Dist.-Atty. Thomas C. O'Brien, candidate for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senator, is another. Still another is Mayor Casassa of Revere.

In another column will be found a list of today's new members, whose names are added to yesterday's long roll of charter joiners.

The idea of the BUY NOW CLUB is simple, but of great import to the people of Boston, of Massachusetts and all New England. A man's job, or a woman's job, is never secure while the other fellow is out of work. We can make him a customer of our labor by being a customer of his labor, or the product of his labor. Prosper-

1,000 KILLED, 29,000 ARE HOMELESS IN STORM

Injured List Is Placed at 2500 as Relief Speeds to Santo Domingo

Washington, Sept. 5 (AP)—Capt. Antonio Silva, Red Cross official, today reported 1000 persons killed, 2500 persons injured, 4700 homes destroyed, 200 homes damaged and 29,000 persons homeless as the result of the Caribbean hurricane in Santo Domingo City.

The official, who flew to Santo Domingo from Porto Rico yesterday, reported to headquarters by cable:

"After surveying Santo Domingo city both from air and ground and from information by American minister and president of republic, report follows:

"Killed, 100; injured, 2500 persons; destroyed, about 4700 homes and damaged 200 homes, leaving 29,000 persons homeless.

"No reports available from other parts of republic. Gov. Roosevelt sending medical personnel under command of Ferros, also food, tentage and cots, but not enough to supply demand. Outside help is needed. I am all American consulate.

(Signed) "SILVA."

FLORIDA TO ESCAPE

Just before Silva's startling information reached Chairman Payne, of the Red Cross, some assurance had been expressed at the weather bureau that the storm would not be damaging by the time it hit Florida, if it reached there at all.

Charles L. Mitchell, forecaster, said there was no question but that Santo Domingo had saved Cuba, and Florida from the fury. Dissipated by Santo Domingo's high mountain peaks, the storm has so lessened that no warnings whatever were ordered this morning by the weather bureau along the Florida and gulf coasts.

With regard to the future course of the storm, Mr. Mitchell said an added protection to the Florida and gulf coasts today was the high pressure area from Bermuda to New England. Even should the storm again increase in force, he added, the northern high pressure area would deflect it from our coast.

DAMAGE $30,000,000

Sadness prevailed at the Dominican legation, which heard from its government that 800 bodies already had been recovered. With an appeal to the American people for succor, the cablegram said it was ity is a circle. BUY NOW. Not extravagantly but wisely, of things you can afford, things you need but were thinking of putting off "till business picks up."

It won't pick up until we all buy the things we need. Let's go!

Sign the pledge coupon for membership in the BUY NOW CLUB.

Mayor Curley and others have followed their own advice by spending, instead of deferring purchases. Perhaps you can't afford as much, but every dollar spent will help.

How about your personal needs, or those of your family? How about household needs?

Necessities and semi-luxuries could never be bought to better advantage than now, with prices favorable to the buyer.

MRS. KELLEY'S VIEWS

This is what Mrs. Mabelle A. Kelley had to say about it:

"The suggestion made by Mayor Curley was discussed at a club meeting and hearty endorsement was given the idea. Although nothing definite was agreed on, the 300 members signified that each would do her best to circulate money by spending for things they really needed—to restore prosperity and help relieve unemployment.

"The BUY NOW CLUB is a great idea. The members of the Women's Democratic Club of Massachusetts are going to do what you urge and what the mayor suggested."

Mayor Cassasa of Revere dictated the following letter to his stenographer when he learned of the movement:

"To the Boston Evening American:

"I want to congratulate the Boston Evening American for this newly organized BUY NOW CLUB and am very glad to enroll as a member, and will do all I possible to influence the citizens of Revere now regularly employed to purchase for immediate use more than they ordinarily would, owing to the need of employment of many of their fellow citizens.

"It certainly seems to me that if the purchasing power of the community is raised, it will give immediate relief to many now out of employment."

O'BRIEN'S STATEMENT

"Under our present system of political economy, the only way to distribute prosperity is through the exchange of money," said Thomas C. O'Brien, former district attorney of Suffolk County, and candidate for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator.

"This exchange of money can be brought about in several ways—through gifts, such as pensions, through the purchase of goods, and in payment for services rendered. The latter method is by far the most all-embracing. The labor problem, therefore, is always our greatest problem. When labor is curtailed seriously our whole economic structure is endangered.

"The suggestion that all those who have funds on hand shall inaugurate a buying campaign, right away, is a wholesome one. It will not solve the problem, but it will help, materially.

DRIVE OUT FEAR

"What we really need, right now, is a return of economic courage to drive out fear. With the return of courage, confidence will be restored, money will become more free, big enterprises will be started, old automobiles will be discarded, new ones purchased, new clothes, new furniture and new supplies of all kinds will be bought, and general prosperity will be with us, again.

"One confidence has been destroyed and that is confidence in public leadership. I intend to restore that confidence as my personal contribution to the return of a healthy prosperity."

Edward P. O'Neil, manager of the Modern Theater, and Harry Goldberg, assistant manager, pledged themselves to spend $3 more weekly.

Louis Barrasso, assistant secretary to Mayor Curley and secretary of the Shawmut Credit Union, said that within the past few days he has spent $226.85 for purchases which he had intended to make "later."

His purchases were: Radio, $161.85; suit of clothes, $49; shirts and ties, $10; shoes, $6.

GIRL IN COMA 158 HOURS

Haverhill, Sept. 5—At 10 o'clock this morning, Miss Gertrude Northwick, 34, Bradford telephone exchange clerk, had been in a coma for 158 hours at Gale Hospital as a result of a fractured skull suffered in an auto crash a week ago tonight.

She was rendered unconscious at the time of the accident and at no time since has she shown signs of regaining her senses.

Dr. William J. Mixter, Boston specialist, Dr. John W. Trask of Lynn, her uncle, and Dr. Arthur P. George of the hospital staff are attending her.

FRENCHMEN FLY TO KENTUCKY ON WAY TO N. Y.

Coste and Aide Plan to Hop to New York Tomorrow From Louisville

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 5 (AP)—Capt. Disudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte pointed their scarlet sesquiplane, the Question Mark, toward Louisville, Ky., today, after completing a one-stop Paris-New York-Dallas flight yesterday.

The Frenchmen said they would stop overnight in Louisville, continuing Saturday to New York to be in the East for a week-end luncheon engagement with President Hoover at Washington.

Rene Racover, business manager for the fliers, said they would begin shortly a tour of the United States, a gesture of good will from France to America.

The flight from New York to Dallas ended yesterday at 5:30:45 p. m., after 11 hours and 34 minutes in the air, and made the French Atlantic conquerors eligible for a purse of $25,000 offered by Col. William E. Easterwood, Dallas millionaire.

"Being honest is my reward. I do not want any money for it, sir."

This was the statement of little Joseph McDonald, 10, of 50 Golden st., Medford, when offered a reward for finding and returning a wallet which contained $120.

Clyde Brook, of 41 Golden ave., Medford, who lost the wallet, praised the boy in glowing terms.

When Joseph found the wallet he made inquiries at the Medford police station to see whether it was reported lost. Police stated that no one reported any loss.

Joseph made arrangements to have the matter broadcast in the "lost and found" period on the radio. Brook heard the broadcast and sought the boy.

Droning somewhere along the trail between Chicago and Boston was Jimmie Haislip on a speed flight in the Travel Air mystery ship that was a feature of the recent national races in Chicago.

He was believed to be attempting a new record for Chicago to Boston and New York to Boston flights in a speed plane capable of 225 miles an hour. Winds favored a record-breaking attempt and anxious eyes scanned the horizon at the airport. He left Chicago at 9 a. m.

WALKER THRILLS CROWD.

The early crowd was thrilled by Hal Walker of Providence Air Transport in an aerobatic power glider. Its tiny motor of 30-horsepower pulled it from Providence in good time. Walker was the first out-of-town flier to put in an appearance.

There was a huge police detail under Capt. Archie Campbell to supervise the parking of the hundreds of cars and the handling of the large crowd.

MAYOR TO ATTEND

Mayor Curley, with other city and state guests, were to arrive late in the afternoon, and it was hoped that all would be induced to go aloft.

A program replete with thrills, but one which will prove instructive as well as entertaining, has been drawn up by the committee, headed by Hilding Carlson.

Races, balloon bursting, acrobatic flying, parachute jumps, band concerts, radio work, formation flying and many other features have been planned. In all, 26 official events are on the program.

Attracting as much attention as the aerial show were the outdoor exhibits in front of each commercial hangar, as well as inside the buildings. Planes, motors and accessories are attractively displayed, with attendants waiting to show visitors around.

Women pilots will be entered in several events, and two of Greater Boston's best young women fliers will be pitted against each other in the races. They are Olivia "Keet" Matthews of Dedham and Mrs. Cecil "Teddy" Kenyon of Brookline.

Word was received today by Airport Supt. Albert L. Edson of the arrival tomorrow morning of the Stabelaire, said to be the safest airplane built to date. The ship, a two-place open low-wing monoplane, will be flown from Portsmouth, N. H., to Boston for its first public appearance.

Ample opportunity was given the public to experience the thrill of flying, with two periods set aside for this part of the program.

No interruption in the regular airport business was experienced, which means that the air liners arriving and departing did so exactly on schedule.

The official program for the three days follows:

FRIDAY

1:00 p. m.—Formation of tri-motored planes.
1:30 p. m.—Aerial parade over city—civilian planes.
2:00 to 2:00 p. m.—Passenger carrying.
3:00 p. m.—Altitude race to 5000 feet.
3:30 to 5:00 p. m.—Passenger carrying.
5:15 p. m.—Accuracy landing to mark.
6:30 p. m.—Parachute jump.

SATURDAY

2:00 p. m.—Formation by U. S. Army.
2:30 p. m.—Use of parachute in relief work dropping supplies from plane.
3:00 p. m.—Race (military planes only).
3:30 p. m.—Message pick-up exhibition (National Guard).
4:00 p. m.—Altitude race to 5000 feet (Army and National Guard).
4:30 p. m.—Aerial acrobatics and combat work by Army and National Guard.
4:45 p. m.—Tow target exhibition (National Guard).
5:00 p. m.—Radio broadcasting (plane to ground).
5:30 p. m.—Parachute jump.
6:00 p. m.—Aerial night attack on Boston by Pilot Observation Squadron and defense by First Corps Cadets with anti-aircraft guns and searchlight batteries.

SUNDAY

1:30 p. m.—Race (civilian).
2:00 p. m.—Formation flying (military).
2:30 p. m.—Acrobatics.
3:00 to 5:00 p. m.—Passenger carrying.
5:15 p. m.—Accuracy landing to mark.
6:00 p. m.—Balloon bursting.
6:30 p. m.—Parachute jump.

DR. H. C. TOWLE OF DORCHESTER DIES AT 78

Long Noted for Charity in District, Where He Practiced for 53 Years

One of the last of Dorchester's old family doctors, Dr. Henry C. Towle, father of Ursula Parrott, author of "Ex-Wife," died today at his home, 1428 Dorchester ave., in the Fields Corner section.

He was 78 years old and was beloved by the poor of the district, whose cases he never refused, although knowing that in many instances he never could expect a fee.

Dr. Towle was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage at midnight, after being active all day yesterday. He died before his authoress daughter and her sister, Lucy, could reach home from New York.

Another daughter, Margaret, was at the bedside.

He was a familiar figure about the streets of Dorchester, day and night, for 53 years that he practiced in the district.

In the old horse and buggy days his faithful steed was often seen, early in the morning, proceeding homeward with the physician asleep in the seat, exhausted after sitting at a bedside all night.

He was a native of Paterson, N. J., was a graduate of Boston College with the first class and received his medical degree at New York University. He was instrumental in the introduction of diphtheria anti-toxin and was a member of the American Medical Association, the Norfolk District Medical Association, Boston College Alumni and many fraternal organizations.

The funeral will be held Monday, with services at 9 a. m. in St. Ambrose's Church, Fields Corner, and burial at Holyhood Cemetery, Brookline.

Had Beer Aplenty and $14,000, Too

Plenty of ice cold beer was found at the home of Syril Toussaint, 67, of Winter st., East Cambridge, according to police raiders who placed him under arrest for alleged liquor violations yesterday and confiscated 40 cases of beer.

Upon arrest Toussaint, police said they found five bank books showing a total balance of $14,000 on his person. He came to East Cambridge from Canada two weeks ago, police said.

Broken Jaw on Mend but Auto Breaks It Once Again

Worcester, Sept. 5 — Albert Geek fought his first prize fight 10 days ago and lost to Hildreth Erickson of Gardner, before the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Fitchburg. The decision he didn't mind so much as he did the two fractures of the jaw.

Yesterday an automobile driven by Miss Corrine Duffuit, of Southbridge, who got her license 10 days ago, just "touched him," according to her report to police headquarters. He fell to one knee. But he saw the doctor again. The fractures will have to be set all over, the doctor said.

unemployment; and third, what is described as "the growing hostility to prohibition."

The third worry would not have been expected two years ago, when Republicans announced that prohibition enthusiasm accounted for Mr. Hoover's gigantic vote.

Those that opposed the tariff will greet with "I told you so" the news that Uncle Sam's customs receipts in the last two months have fallen off more than $50,000,000, compared with a year ago, or about one-half. However, nobody can prove how much the higher tariff has to do with it, how much of the drop comes from bad business, and how much from those fact that importers rushed in supplies of goods ahead of the new tariff.

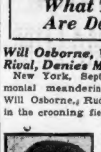
Will Osborne, Vallee's Rival, Denies Marriage

New York, Sept. 5—The matrimonial meanderings of crooning Will Osborne, Rudy Vallee's rival in the crooning field, became more complicated today following his denial that he had ever been married to Phyllis Carroll, who has received an annulment of a marriage to Will she claimed lasted eight days.



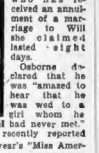
Margaret Ekdahl

Osborne declared that he was "amazed to hear that he was wed to a girl whom he had never met."

Osborne was recently reported engaged to this year's "Miss America," Margaret Ekdahl. The reported engagement was merely a publicity stunt, however, approved and abetted by Will's then present fiancee, it was said.

French Flier Sets New Circle Record

Paris, Sept. 5—The French aviator, Jean Lauhe, in a 40-horse-power, 770-pound plane, today established a world's record for distance in a circuit with 3736 kilometers (1673 miles). The former record was held by the Czechoslovakian, Vicherek, 2560 kilometers, made in Prague, June 7, 1926.



Jean Lauhe

Great interest was manifested in Lauhe's feat, coming as it did on the heels of the flight across the Atlantic by Coste and his famous Question mark.

Margaret Quimby Is Bride of Big Realtor

New York, Sept. 5—J. Irving Walsh, 43, former president of the Real Estate Board of New York, and Margaret Quimby, Hollywood screen actress, were married at Bethlehem, Mass., Wednesday, it became known today.

Margaret Quimby

Miss Quimby appeared in Eddie Love Brutes, "The Tenser," "Sally of the Scandals" and other pictures.

Following their surprise wedding they gave a reception to friends, and are now on their honeymoon. They had been friends for many months.

French Woman Captures Endurance Mark Again

Le Bourget, France, Sept. 5—Mlle. Maryse Bastie, French aviatrix, set a new record for sustained flight for women when she landed her plane yesterday after having been aloft for 36 hours. She recaptured the endurance flight honors from Lema Bernatein, who held the record at 36 hours.

Maryse Bastie

Mlle. Bastie recently missed death while attempting to capture the record when she collapsed from sunstroke after she had been in the air for 18 hours. She brought her plane to a safe landing, and then collapsed.

ARGENTINE PRESIDENT IN TRUCE WITH FOES TILL MONDAY

CONFRONTED BY CABINET ULTIMATUM

Members Make Demand That Yrigoyen Resign After Deadly Rioting

Buenos Aires, Sept. 5—The political situation in the Argentine reached a crisis today when the cabinet ministers in a body confronted President Yrigoyen with a request that he resign.

He requested a status quo until Monday and the cabinet agreed to it.

It was understood the ministers threatened to resign unless he acceded to their request to relinquish governmental control. This, it was felt, would precipitate a major upheaval.

TWO STUDENTS KILLED.

While the Cabinet was in session with the President scattered shots and minor disturbances echoed through the city.

In a clash last night between students and alleged political gangsters two students were killed and many injured. The riot, participated in by several thousand students, occurred on Avenida Mayo, Buenos Aires' smartest thoroughfare.

REINFORCE GUARDS

Guards were strengthened about the central police department and government house early today. Platoons of heavily armed officers have been placed at street corners. Many alcohol lamps have been distributed, indicating fear that the electric current would be cut off.

In La Plata students declared a general strike today as a protest against the police attitude in yesterday's disorders in Buenos Aires.

Bones of Columbus Feared Scattered as Santo Domingo Crumpled in Grip of Hurricane

THE BONES OF CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS, said to have reposed in the historic old cathedral in Santo Domingo, are feared destroyed. Although the final resting place of the discoverer of America has long been a subject of dispute, Dominican officials always insisted his remains were brought there from Spain in the 19th century. The discoverer's son, Diego, is buried in the cathedral, which is believed to have been one of the numerous churches destroyed. (International Newsreel photo.)

THIS QUIET STREET in Santo Domingo is typical of the greater part of the city, which has about 40,000 inhabitants. The wooden and plaster residences crumbled like eggshells in the grip of the hurricane and the majority of the people are now homeless and penniless. Churches, public buildings and historic edifices were destroyed in the storm. Medical supplies are being rushed to the stricken city to prevent an outbreak of the plague. (International Newsreel photo.)

FUND FOR B. C. SCHOOL IN WILL

A School of Journalism at Boston College in memory of her husband, the late Senator William Taylor, is provided for in the will of the late Mrs. Mary E. Taylor of Brighton, who has left a trust fund which is expected to amount to about $500,000. The will provides for the erection of a suitable building and the permanent maintenance of the school.

Mrs. Taylor, who lived at 2496 Beacon st., Brighton, died last Saturday. The rest of her estate is divided in legacies to relatives and close friends.

After making these specific bequests she provides in the will that the balance of the estate shall be placed in a trust fund for establishment of the school.

The will names the rector of Boston College, the Old Colony Trust Company and Dr. Edward S. O'Keefe of Lynn, as executors and trustees, and it provides that they shall invest the legacy for a period not exceeding 20 years, until the fund is deemed sufficient by the fund's trustees and the trustees of Boston College to erect the building.

Groom-to-Be Gone; Bullet Holes in Car

New York, Sept. 5 (AP)—An abandoned automobile with two bullet holes through the windshield and a missing bridegroom-to-be today furnished Nassau County police with a mystery.

A short time after police found the automobile of Wilhelm Lockhardt, 28, near Mineola, they received a request to search for him from Miss Irma Roewer of Northport, L. I. She said he had left her home at 1 o'clock yesterday morning and had failed to arrive at his home in Richmond Hill. They were to be married September 29.

Beggars Able to Work Are Barred

Colombo, Ceylon, Sept. 5—Ceylon police have adopted the recommendations of the Social Service League and hereafter only beggars rendered unable to work by some deformity or affliction will be permitted to beg, and these will be issued licenses.

The restriction, however, does not apply to pilgrims and priests, who are exempt. But in no case will children be permitted to beg and children of whatever description are barred from the streets either as beggars or assistants.

Charges Lottery Refused to Pay

Brockton, Sept. 5—Charging refusal of the local promoters of the Checker lottery to pay him first prize money of $1000 and with giving him $100, saying that would be all he would get, George S. Condon of Rockland was the chief government witness in the prosecution of Arthur E. Watkins of Guild rd., and his brother, Fred F. Watkins of Centre st., for promoting a lottery. Judge William G. Rowe continued the case until Monday.

200 Stricken at Vets' Encampment

Baltimore, Sept. 5 (US)—Nearly 200 members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Ladies' Auxiliary in annual encampment here, are under medical treatment for ptomaine poisoning. They were stricken after partaking of a shore dinner and crab feast at Annapolis Wednesday. No fatalities have been reported.

Fined $50, He Buys Back Beer Bottles Police Had Taken

Central Falls, R. I., Sept. 5 (AP)—Patrick McLaughlin, who was fined $50 by Judge Dexter Wednesday for liquor possession, was later allowed to purchase from police all the bottles and barrels seized at his brewing plant, acting Chief of Police Healy admitted.

Sale of the material was legal, Healy said, Judge Dexter having issued a warrant allowing the police to destroy or sell the contraband.

Chief Healy asked McLaughlin if he knew anyone in the market for the stuff. McLaughlin made an offer of $12.30 for the 580 bottles, 374 of them filled with beer, and 14 barrels.

The cablegram placed the damage at $30,000,000.

The cable from Capt. Silva, first direct report on the results of the storm, was transmitted by the Red Cross to President Hoover, to be used in determining whether a proclamation requesting public contributions would be issued from the White House. It will form the basis also of relief plans of Red Cross headquarters. Officials, who has been on watch night and day since Silva went by plane from Porto Rico, went into conference to determine immediate action.

RED CROSS SEEKS FUNDS.

The "Fernos" referred to in the Silva cablegram is president of the San Juan, Porto Rico, Red Cross chapter. The navy was informed today by its destroyed-minesweeper, The Grebe, that it had left San Juan with a personnel of 30 under Dr. Fernos.

Red Cross chapters throughout the United States were authorized today to accept contributions to aid the relief work. Already $25,000 has been sent, $15,000 to Minister Curtis and $10,000 to Governor Roosevelt of Porto Rico.

Meanwhile information continued to reach here on the disaster to the Dominican Republic and measures taken for relief. Minister Curtis informed the State Department as follows:

"Office unroofed and not worth repairing. Residence unroofed. Other quarters uninhabitable. Supplies and recent archives undamaged. Personnel uninjured; also consul and family."

Governor Roosevelt of Porto Rico advised the Red Cross that he had been informed by his aide, Maj. Cary I. Corbett, who flew to Santo Domingo yesterday, as follows:

NO NEWS FROM INTERIOR

"After conference with President Trujillo and Minister Curtis and quick reconnaissance of city, I put situation in city of Santo Domingo as follows: Three-quarters of houses practically destroyed and entire city very badly damaged. No news from interior towns in path of cyclone. President reports at least a hundred deaths already counted and many more injured. American minister and all Europeans saved, but legation destroyed.

"Urgent need immediate need for doctors, medical supplies, all available tentage, cots and blankets, 50,000 to 100,000 rations, also clothing, both male and female, available. Funds also necessary from Red Cross."

The Dominican legation made public the following cablegram from its government:

"Situation appalling. Cyclone destroyed 90 per cent of this city, with estimated loss of at least $30,000,000. Up to the present, 800 bodies have been recovered and an immense number injured. We are going on recovering more dead and injured. It is necessary to cremate bodies for lack of time for burials.

FOOD IS LACKING.

"Families are sheltered in churches, schools or public buildings still habitable. No news from rest of country. Rivers are in high flood. Lack of food is being felt. Families without clothing. Medical supplies insufficient to care for so many injured."

Port-Au-Prince, Haiti, Sept. 5 (AP)—Two marine corps Voight Corsair planes piloted by Maj. James Davis and Capt. Ford, loaded to their capacity with medical and surgical supplies, hopped off here this forenoon for Santo Domingo.

Other means of getting into Santo Domingo by land today appeared extremely difficult. The storm wiped out bridges and to ford streams would be impossible.

Advices reaching here indicate that conditions in the stricken area are worse than at first reported. The dead are unburied and the injured are suffering because of lack of medical and surgical attention. Col. Cutts, commanding the first brigade, will continue to send planes to Santo Domingo daily as suitable landing conditions are provided. Today's flight was to be in the nature of a reconnaissance.

Officials here were informed that there are 20,000 homeless in Santo Domingo city who are recovering but slowly from the first shock.

Conditions in Haiti are normal. President Roy today sent in one of the planes a personal representative to convey the sympathy and offer of assistance of Haiti to President Trujillo.

The mine sweeper Grebe left San Juan, Porto Rico, today for Santo Domingo with a medical personnel numbering 30 under Dr. Fernos, assistant commissioner of health and president of the San Juan Red Cross chapter.

An all-America cable ship was making ready to sail with tents, cots and other supplies and the S. S. Catherine will take emergency rations.

3-Day Tercentenary Fete in Wayland

A three-day Tercentenary celebration will open in Wayland on Saturday, to be concluded on Monday evening with a banquet at which Congressman Edith Nourse Rogers, Asst. Dist. Atty. Warren L. Bishop of Middlesex county and Capt. John Burke of the U. S. Marines will be the speakers.

Gov. Allen is expected to be present at the first event of the observance, a meeting on the Wayland playground.

BURNS AGAIN FLEES JAIL

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 5 (US)—Robert Elliott Burns, Chicago magazine publisher, who last year was declared as an escaped convict and returned to prison, escaped again yesterday. After many hours of search, including trailing by bloodhounds, Burns was not apprehended.

Burns was sentenced to seven years in a chain gang in 1922 for a stick-up job that netted $4. He escaped after six months and went to Chicago, where he built up a successful publishing business. When he was rearrested he claimed he had been "turned up" by his divorced wife. He went back to the chain gang about a year ago.

Working as a trusty in a road crew, Burns is believed to have walked away when sent for a bucket of water.

Unidentified Man Dies in Haverhill

Haverhill, Sept. 5—An unidentified, well-dressed man, about 65, died en route to a hospital today after being found on a sidewalk in the business district. Death was due to a heart attack. He was about 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighed about 200 pounds. A key ring in his pocket bore the name James Smith, Lowell.

Active Volcano in Mexico Discovered

Mexico City, Sept. 5 (AP)—Dispatches from Ciudad Victoria, in the State of Tamaulipas, today said an active volcano had been discovered near Aldama, about 200 miles southwest of Brownsville, Tex. The discoverers said the crater is in an unsettled mountain area.

Peshawar, India, Shaken by Quake

Peshawar, India, Sept. 5 (AP)—A slight earthquake shook Peshawar today. Early reports said there was no damage.

RUM VICTIMS BETTER

Worcester, Sept. 5—After more than five months of work and study, City Hospital officials today reported that more than 100 victims of polyneuritis, the dreaded poison liquor paralysis of ankles and wrists, are at last showing definite signs of improvement.

Discussing the situation, Dr. Benjamin T. Burley, nerve specialist, said that marked improvement had been observed and that there seemed every reason for hope that recoveries would be achieved.

Some patients who were unable to use either hands or feet are now able to use their hands. While some now walk, the most encouraging improvement has been in the recovery of nerves of the hands and wrists.

Another cause for satisfaction is that there have been no new cases in the past four weeks and only 18 patients are still confined to the hospital.

Find Body of Slain Man in East River

New York, Sept. 5 (AP)—The unidentified body of a man with a bullet wound in his head was taken from the East river at the foot of Roosevelt st., today. It was at this spot that customs agents raided a municipal barge recently, seizing thousands of quarts of liquor after a battle in which several shots were fired.

Paving Contracts Approved by Mayor

Mayor Curley today approved the following paving contracts: Laying of sheet asphalt in East 8th st., from Dorchester st. to K. st. South Boston; and in East 3rd st., between H to M sts., both to be done at a cost of $88,782. Contracts were also approved for the laying of sheet asphalt and granolithic sidewalks in Dorchester ave., Dorchester.

Man's Only a Big Mistake Anyway, Says Scientist

Bristol, Eng., Sept. 5 (AP)—The theory that man is a mistake of nature was advanced by Dr. H. S. Harrison, head of the anthropology section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, in his presidential address last night.

Dr. Harrison was at a loss to understand why a man ever ceased to be an ape, for he believes he did very well while he was an ape.

"Man had already been given the means to earn a livelihood," he said, "and he found himself commanding and inventing luxuries. In producing a new and cunning big-brained animal with hands, nature overshot her mark and we are struggling with the consequences.

"The brain of the latter paleolithic man appears to have been like our own in all essentials and a Cro-Magnon man might today become a skilled mechanic or an able bishop."

MUST GIVE UP COLLECTIONS

Announcement was made today that persons who operated on margin through Dowling, Swain & Shea, Inc., stock brokers, and collected payments within four months of the time the corporation was petitioned into bankruptcy, will have to surrender the sums they collected.

This decision was reached by David J. Cohen, counsel for James Garfield, trustee in bankruptcy for the concern. Cohen bases his decision on a law which says there is a contractual relation between a broker and a customer operating on margin.

The corporation's liabilities are scheduled at $634,649.17 and its assets at $60,592.74, mostly equities and securities. The North American Securities of New York, the largest creditor, has a claim for $596,854.74. Against that claim there is $205,501.50 collateral.

Chaney Leaves $1 to Divorced Wife

Los Angeles, Sept. 5—The late Lon Chaney, screen celebrity, left property valued at $550,000, according to his will filed for probate here.

Hazel G. Chaney, widow and executrix, was given the bulk of the property.

Chaney's divorced wife, Cleva G. Busch, received only a $1 bequest.

"I am doing this that there may be no contest of my will. I am under no obligation to her whatever," the will read.

Women in Drill for Gen. Pershing

Washington, Sept. 5—Gen. John J. Pershing, retired, called on President Hoover yesterday, and upon leaving the White House his attention was attracted by the young women's drill team from Des Moines, Ia., which won a prize at the Baltimore convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The women, dressed in white, held an impromptu drill for the former commander of the A. E. F., while waiting to see the President themselves.

Barbed Wire Barrier Leaves Way Open for Royal Stork

Brussels, Sept. 5 (AP)—Stuyvenberg Castle, where Crown Princess Astrid of Belgium is awaiting the birth of her second child, had to be encircled by barbed wire in order to keep away crowds of curious and excited Belgians and tourists today.

The curiosity and persistence of her subjects made her somewhat fretful and proved troublesome to castle officials. The crown princess hopes that the baby will be a son—heir in the male line to the Belgian throne.

Plans for Mystic Bathhouse Held Up

In a letter to Representative Thomas R. Bateman, of Winchester, the Metropolitan District Commission says that it will take no further steps towards building a bathhouse at Upper Mystic lake, Winchester, until the Legislature has an opportunity to review the matter.

Medford petitioned the Legislature for a bathhouse on Lower Mystic Lake but the Legislature passed an appropriation of $50,000 to build it in Winchester. Winchester does not want it and through the selectment, Board of Trade and other organizations, has protested its construction.

Has New Plan to Create Respect for Law

Editor Boston American:

I have read the letter in the American of August 30 by Florence Birmingham, touching upon the prohibition question. I note that Miss Birmingham still dwells upon the theory that the prohibition law is the chief crime breeder of nation-wide corruption, and believes it our duty to repeal the Volstead Act. I would say in reply that she has yet to learn the meaning and the purpose of the Eighteenth Amendment. Federal laws were not prepared and adopted to create crime.

The basis and the foundation of the United States (if it can be so named at this time) is the Constitution. The Constitution is our Fundamental Law. Upon is as a foundation, our country's laws are built. Under the Constitution, the 13 quarreling states, which as first made a weak nation, have now been changed into a powerful country with 48 states, —the greatest and freest nation on earth, leader of democracy, and unless we as a people take heed, we will again return to quarreling states. The power of America rests upon the intelligence of its citizens.

The one string the "wets" harp upon is that the prohibition law is an unjust law and the cause of nation-wide corruption. That theory, however, is old stuff, and it lacks established truth. For this reason I have made the statement that we ought to get at the root of the matter and reveal something new—something of stability. Truth is never conflicting. Those who believe that the prohibition law is the worst crime breeder institution ever brought on the country have been following strong delusions and need facts to support their argument.

The matter I have in store at this time as a plea, I believe would appeal to the thoughtful person who manifests a spirit of temperance (or moderation), by not wanting the saloon to return. Yet this class would rather see the Eighteenth Amendment repealed than to see present conditions as they now appear on the surface, believing that the repeal would improve present conditions. I say the views that I could present at this time, I believe would appeal to the thinking man, and would surprise the foes of prohibition.

The class, however, who are so extremely wet that the present pressure is not powerful enough to wring them dry, are in the minority. The subject I have in question to reveal is too large a one to discuss through the open columns of the press, for it could not do it justice for the lack of space. But if the writer should receive an invitation to address a public assembly or to debate with a "wet" I would consider the invitation as a means to this end.

G. ALLEN BELL.

Rochester, N. H.

Asks About Repeal of Criminal Laws

Editor Boston American:

It is useless to argue with cocktail-drinking women and that class of wets who believe temperance consists in the "moderate" use of a habit-forming drug or beverage. To such the only safe, sane and sensible doctrine of total abstinence is "fanaticism." They parrot all the false propaganda of the liquor interests. They perpetuate the falsehood that "prohibition was put over by a minority."

They are out to "reform (?) prohibition!"

"You can't make people good by law" is another of their gems. Does that mean that all criminal laws should be repealed? Can people be made moral by a law (or lack of law) that approves or sanctions vice or crime?

The wets tell of the great expense of prohibition.

Horace D. Taft, brother of our late beloved former President, estimates that "the financial profit of the country from its prohibition policy is equal to several billions a year." Samuel Crowther estimates the total saved from drink and put into goods over a period of 10 years at a minimum figure of $15,000,000,000. Practically every political economist of note testifies to the same point.

The editor of the Ladies' Home Journal says:

Until now hardly anyone has attempted to end up the balance sheet in dollars and cents —in terms of efficiency, of savings accounts, of owned homes, of motor cars, radios, washing machines, that have been bought with money that used to go to the corner saloon."

Whose testimony will you accept?

GRANT ROGERS.

Sees Dry Law as Injury to Realty

Editor Boston American:

One phase of the prohibition question rarely mentioned is that of its bearing on real estate rentals. All over Boston you find ever increasing places "To Let."

Real estate is dull in the market and prohibition is one of the reasons.

No landlord wishes to run foul of the law—the general sentiment being "Better vacant than full of the wrong kind of tenants." And prohibition vastly increases the wrong kind.

For the illicit drinking is creating a special caste—those who must buy or sell illicit drink, and the landlord is up against it in trying to find good tenants.

If you own vacant property how do you know what your tenant may sell in addition to his regularly advertised line? And there seems to be a pretty well directed movement on the part of those interested to capture territory and hold it for illicit purposes so that the landlord's chief safety consists in a pretty full knowledge of the character of his prospective tenants.

The remedy? Repeal the prohibition laws and assure the man who would rightly use beers and wines (also liquor) that he need not fear so long as he does not abuse them, and for abuse of this privilege make the penalty swift, severe and certain. Then you would have better conditions all around for those who sold would co-operate to secure their own legitimate prosperity, and those who bought would use wisely not being tempted to go it "whole hog or none" as in these days of "noble experiment."

Begin by discarding the Baby Volstead act.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

That letter in your paper stating that there is no universal woman as there is universal man made me and others chuckle. This means in English that women have done nothing conspicuous in the world. May I ask attention to these facts:

It was woman—not man—who opened the industrial world. She made the first rude dwelling, dressed skins and wove textiles for clothing. It was woman—not man—who made the first fire, the first utensils for cooking and tools for industrial ends. Women were the first physicians. They are in that profession today not as an innovation, but as a restoration.

No Universal Women? Look at this: Miriam the Hebrew, Sappho and Aspasia, Elizabeth and Mary, Lady Jane Grey of England, Victoria Colonna in Italy, Catherine de Medici of France, Lavinia Fontana, painter to Gregory XIII, and so on, not to mention modern women in art, literature, science and business.

No universal woman! Why, there is nothing but the universality of women. There has always been exceptional men in the world, but there has always been exceptional women to match them.

Points Out Fault in New Traffic Lights

Editor Boston American:

With every desire to help the traffic commission along without unnecessary criticism, I must call their attention to what apparently is a confusion of lights at the junction of Tremont and Park sts. When the light is red for autos entering Tremont st. from Park st., autos from Tremont st. into Park st. are free without any red light to check them. What I want to see is this: if there is a red light checking those entering Tremont st. from Park st. there should be, at the same time, a red light to check autos entering from Tremont st. to Park st.

Otherwise you get half-way over Park st. at this junction and you have to meet speeding autos coming from Tremont st. from the right.

On Sept. 3, one person was nearly injured on account of this confusion of lights.

Thanks American for Aid in Census

Editor Boston American:

Inclosed herewith you will please find a copy of a letter received by this office from William M. Steuart, director of the census, in connection with the completion of the census work in the 12th supervisor's district of Massachusetts.

May I take this opportunity to thank you for the splendid co-operation we received from your valuable newspaper.

With best wishes for the continued success of your progressive newspaper, I am,

Very truly yours,
LOUIS B. SENSALE,
Supervisor 12th Dist., Mass.

Praises Boston for Cleanliness of Stage

Editor Boston American:

As far as I know as a patron of the theatres in Boston, this summer, I have not seen or heard of an obscene play.

In New York City, it has been different, so I am led to understand. Msgr. Maichael L. Lavelle, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral states in an open letter that some plays in that city are so indecent as to become an outrage upon public decency.

Boston needs to have a feather in its hat for standing aloof from such attractions.

H. M. L. BRANSTEIN.

Lauds Pastors for Work in Hospitals

Editor Boston American:

Getting pastors to cheer up patients in hospitals before operations is an idea that should have been in operation long before this.

Pastors are now put on the clinic staff of many hospitals. It is an excellent movement. If there is any place where a body feels miserable, dejected and thinks life is not worth living, it is facing an operation, with groans, aches pinching the atmosphere around a public ward as you lie in bed, thinking what's coming.

There are a good many clerical jokes that could be sprung at this particular moment. They could clear the atmosphere. There is nothing like a good joke that is a joke to keep a patient's mind from festering over a coming operation.

Mrs. Bertha Cohen Claimed by Death

Mrs. Bertha Cohen, mother of Harry Cohen of the Boston Sunday Advertiser advertising staff, died suddenly today at her home, 6 Floyd st., Dorchester, at the age of 65. She was the widow of the Bennett Cohen, advertising man for the Hearst Boston papers at the time of his death 20 years ago.

Besides her son, Harry, she is survived by three daughters, Miss Libby J. Cohen, teacher at Everett high school, Mrs. Morris Bell, Jr., and Mrs. Alfred Colemna of Dorchester. Funeral services will be held Sunday with burial at West Roxbury.

DRAPER SAYS HE HAS BUTLER ON THE RUN IN SENATE BATTLE

CROOKER TAKES ANOTHER RAP AT G. O. P. LEADER

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

At an enthusiastic noon rally at the dugout adjacent to the Bellevue Hotel, Eben S. Draper, G. O. P. candidate for the senatorial nomination, declared he had his principal opponent, William M. Butler, on the run.

"I think, my friends, that the bubble has burst," he declared. "After the radio exhibition of last night I think it must be obvious to every Republican in Massachusetts that it is now only a question of the size of my majority over my two opponents, who are equally harsh in their personal attacks.

"It is my firm conviction that this great battle is over and the members of our party will on Sept. 16 turn out at the polls in staggering numbers to help those who have been fighting for honesty and sincerity in public life.

SWING TO DRAPER

"On the night of Sept. 3 my principal opponent, as quoted in the press, declared: 'I do not propose to drag the high office of United States senator through the mire of a personal controversy.'"

Draper called attention to his own radio address tonight, in which he will give Butler "a few further thoughts." This speech will be broadcast over WBZ at 7:45 p. m.

Indications of the turning of the tide in Draper's favor was seen by his lieutenants today in the number of persons flocking to the candidate's headquarters in the Statler Building, to climb on the band wagon.

Conrad Crooker, general counsel for the Liberal Civic League, today denied published stories to the effect that the big labor forum scheduled for Saturday night in Faneuil Hall would be a "flop."

"We have five acceptances from senatorial candidates," he said, "and only one refusal. Martin T. Joyce of the Massachusetts State Federation of Labor today assured me he would be present. Many other labor men are sure to be there."

BANKER FOR BUTLER

Crooker, replying to the attack upon him by Butler in his radio address of his labor record, denounced the Butler proposal for a 48-hour labor law on a national scale as "a quack remedy."

Wilmot R. Evans, president of the of the Boston Five-Cent Savings bank, the Lawyers' Mortgage & Trust Co. and the Lawyers' Title Insurance Co., today endorsed Butler's candidacy.

His endorsement in part read:

"It is because I believe that Senator Butler has, among other admirable qualities, the ability to be of real benefit to the industries of this country, on which our prosperity and material happiness depend, that I believe he ought to be nominated."

"The Liberal Civic League," Crooker declared, "is engaged in a consistent and sincere effort for good government. We are opposed to grossly excessive expenditures for public office. We are against any attempt to secure the labor allegience in support of an anti-labor candidate through the use of money."

ATTITUDE ON LODGE RAPPED

"While the Liberal Civic League opposed Senator Lodge in 1922 for reasons then considered imperative, the officers of the league have always felt indignant at the treatment accorded Senator Lodge by Butler and his immediate conferees at the last national convention Mr. Lodge attended," Crooker continued.

"It was resented by both Senator Lodges' friends and his opponents in Massachusetts, it doesn't lie in Mr. Butler's mouth to pose now as the champion of the late senator."

Butler, in his radio speech, attacked the labor pamphlet issued by Martin T. Joyce, secretary-treasurer of the Massachusetts State Federation of Labor. Many of the statements contained therein showing Butler as hostile to labor, the candidate contended, were untrue.

DRAPER ENDORSED

An outstanding group of citizens today authorized the use of their names in Worcester in support of the candidacy of Eben S. Draper, Butler's opponent for the G. O. P. Senate nomination.

The Crusaders of Massachusetts, representing several thousand young men from every part of the State, who have banded themselves together as a part of the great national movement fighting for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, last night endorsed Draper.

The endorsement came in the form of a letter to Senator Draper. It was signed by Malcolm W. Greenough of Boston, commander, and Benjamin F. Bassett of North Andover, managing director.

In the Butler camp, Mrs. Louise M. Williams of Taunton, chairman of the women's division of the Butler campaign, has named more than 200 women in every section of the state to head local Butler committees.

Mrs. Isaac Patch of Gloucester, sister of Congressman A. Piatt Andrew, who is opposed for renomination in the sixth district by State Rep. Martha N. Brookings, has taken the stump for her brother. She addressed a meeting of the Women's Republican Club on Beacon st., Boston.

Endorsement of Andrew has been given by the disabled World War veterans at the Chelsea Hospital.

Advisory Board Helps Foley in Juvenile Cases

An advisory board, made up of a Catholic priest, a representative of a Protestant charitable institution and a representative of a Jewish charity, is given credit by Dist.-Atty. Foley for having saved many youths and first offenders from the stigma of a court record.

"We have worked out a system of our own in handling juveniles," said the prosecutor. "We never let them see a pen, or bars, or enter a courtroom.

"We have worked out a system of our own in handling juveniles," said District Attorney Foley today. "We never let them see a pen of bars or enter a courtroom.

REQUIRES EXPERIENCE

"We have a sort of advisory board made up of a Catholic priest, a representative of a Protestant charitable institution and a representative of a Jewish charity. If a boy or girl offender happens to be of the faith of either the particular representative decides what is best in their case. They are sent back to their homes and communities resolved to grow up self-respecting men and women instead of being confined in correctional institutions.

BASEBALL HIS HOBBY

"We find this plan the most humane and constructive. Offenders nowadays are much younger on an average than was the case years ago. There was a time when guns were found only on desperate characters and few of them, but now if five auto thieves are arrested three of the number will be armed.

"In a district attorney's office one beholds the gamut of human woes and frailties. It is a big responsibility and requires experience properly to handle cases in a manner that will protect the welfare of the offender and satisfy society.

"What are my hobbies? No not golf. When I get too old and decrepit to play baseball I'll take up golf. Like to tinker with the radio a bit. Don't use tobacco in any form. Like most fellows born in South Boston I'm fond of swimming, but above all I like to play baseball.

"Caught nine innings at the picnic of the ushers of St. Margaret's Church last week. Played outfield and on the bases for English high and for the old South Boston's.

POLITICS IN BLOOD

"At English high I played with Tommy Scanlon who later starred at Fordham, with Walter Norton who played for Dartmouth, Frank Craig, who played second for Holy Cross, Charlie McLaughlin who was captain for Harvard, Larry Duffy who died recently and others. There's nothing better than a snappy game of ball. Keeps you fit. Golf's an old timer's game."

District Attorney Foley married Teresa Liston. It was a State House romance. Billy was a member of the House of Representatives and Miss Liston had been employed in the civil service department. They live in a pretty colonial house on West Fourth st., in the Peninsula District where Foley's family have lived for years. His dad, P. J. Foley, was prominent in Democratic affairs.

HONEST, CLEAN, FEARLESS

Politics were in Billy's blood. He took a course in Law at Boston University and passed the bar at the age of 21. He served in the House of Representatives in 1916, 17-18. He served in the Senate in 1919-20 and was a member of the governor's council in 1921-22.

Not even Billy Foley's bitterest political foe dares to impugn his honesty. He is clean and fearless.

ELY IN RADIO ATTACK ON JOHN F.

Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald was accused of "hogging the ticket" in a radio speech by Joseph B. Ely, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, broadcast from WNAC last night.

Ely also spoke at rallies in the West End, Charlestown and was the chief speaker at a gathering of Democratic women at Copley-Plaza.

"This is a campaign of education and not one of vilification. A few nights ago over this same radio, I called attention to the fact that a few men, usurping the power of the Democratic Ward and City Committee of Boston, permitted the press to announce that their committee had unanimously indorsed Mr. Fitzgerald.

NO INDORSEMENT

"Their position is false. There has been no meeting of the Democratic Ward and City Committee, and no indorsement.

FOLEY OVERFLOW MEETING

Dist. Atty. William J. Foley, at an overflow rally in Municipal Building, South Boston, last night, said:

"Mr. opponent is either wholly ignorant of the office of the district attorney or is deliberately endeavoring to confuse the minds of the voters.

"When it is considered that my opponent has been a member of the bar but two or three years, and his entire public career consists of only two terms in the Legislature, it is easy to believe that he does not realize the duties of the important office of district attorney.

Sen. Joseph J. Mulhern, Foley's rival for the Democratic nomination for district attorney, at rallies last night in reviewing the administration of Foley said in part:

"Undoubtedly the district attorney closed his eyes to the conditions existing in Boston during the past four years, because of his political and personal entanglements which prevented him from doing his whole duty."

"LABOR TO THE FORE"

Mulhern issued a statement to the effect that he had received the indorsement of the Democratic city committee together with three members of the city council and Judge Sullivan of Charlestown.

Former district attorney Thomas C. O'Brien, candidate for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator, speaking before a group of the Brotherhood of Railroad Men in Lawrence last night said:

"Labor is facing its greatest crisis. At no time since I joined the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen nearly a quarter century ago has the economic situation been so acute. We must meet this situation and solve our own problems.

"As candidate for the Senate of the United States I propose to put labor's demands in the forefront of all legislation."

Four Years in Office Has Not Hardened District Attorney

By BERT FORD

Four years in the berth of public prosecutor for Suffolk County has not hardened the heart of District Attorney William J. Foley, nor dulled his sympathy.

If anything, "Billy," who is a candidate for renomination on the Democratic ticket, is more alive to the rights and welfare of juveniles and first-offenders than when he took office.

He isn't the kind to grow calloused. He is too generous and human, but that square jaw shows how adamant he can be when circumstances warrant and justice demands a penalty. There is no hope of swerving him then.

JUSTICE WITH MERCY

District Attorney Foley is a living exponent of the legal doctrine that a public prosecutor should be as eager to protect as to convict.

Safe-guarding boy and girl offenders and placing them on the road to become men and women of character has been one of Foley's chief official hobbies. More than 400 boys and girls can testify to this and even a greater number of adults who starayed for the first time and whose cases were marked by extenuating circumstances found in District Attorney Foley's office a helping hand rather than an accusing fist.

Justice tempered with mercy is Foley's motto.

DADDY OF TWO

Traffickers in drugs have all been forced to walk the plank during the Foley regime. Jail sentences have been imposed in all cases of persons found guilty of maintaining questionable resorts and all persons convicted of living on the inmates of such resorts have been sent to State Prison. In such cases the easy-going young man from South Boston rules with an iron hand.

Being a daddy of two children, William J. Foley, Jr., six, and Patricia, two, has made District Attorney Foley deeply interested in the cases of minors.

ELY HIT AGAIN BY CUMMINGS

John J. Cummings, Democratic candidate for the nomination for governor, touring the western part of the state, last night scored Joseph B. Ely as a "power trust attorney attempting to drag David I. Walsh onto his band wagon."

"Everyone knows that Senator Walsh is behind Smith and Governor Roosevelt on the power issue," Cummings said, "and would never countenance the selection of a power trust attorney and thus discredit these leaders in the fight they are waging against this trust."

Police Start Hunt for Arlington Woman

Mrs. George Small, 37, of Massachusetts ave., Arlington, was reported missing to the police today and her description was sent out on the police teletype to all Greater Boston cities and towns.

She left home yesterday to visit friends in Roslindale, but did not arrive there. She is five feet five, with brown hair and eyes, and wore a red and white summer dress, light colored sport coat, black straw hat and low black shoes.

TYPICAL GIRL TO HAVE TEA WITH GLORIA

Things the Typical New England Girl Editor didn't know—

That while in New York the Typical New England Girl will be housed at the Hotel Roosevelt, the famous hostelry which has entertained Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Helen Wills Moody, Betty Nuthall, Amelia Earhart, Maj. Kingsford-Smith, Australian flyer, and Capt. Von Gronau, German ace.

That Gloria Swanson plans to have tea with the young woman who wins the Boston Evening American Typical New England Girl contest.

That visits to the Palace of Fontainbleau, the Palace of Versailles and the World War battlefields are to be part of the program in France.

That the Typical New England Girl will live at the Hotel de Paris, one of the newest and finest hotels in Paris.

That Robert Kane, head of the Paramount Studios near Paris, will welcome the Typical New England Girl to his studios and present her to the famous stage and screen stars of Paris.

That there will be a stopover in New York on the way home, a glamorous aftermath to a glamorous adventure in Paris.

$200 TO SPEND

All this, in addition to the glorious trip on the Ile de France, the week in Paris with $200 to spend as she so desires, and the return Atlantic voyage on the Paris, is to be given to the young woman selected as THE TYPICAL NEW ENGLAND GIRL.

Not a beauty contest, it is a search for the one young woman who best typifies the distinctive fineness, gentility and femininity of New England womanhood.

Batches of applications continue to arrive for the Typical Girl Editor. No selection is to be made until after midnight, September 15, when five judges will study the photographs and candidates' qualifications.

The contest is open to all girls living in New England who are 21 or over or who will have reached 21 by midnight, September 15. If no good photograph of the girl is available she may come to the third floor of the Boston Evening American building, 8 Winthrop sq., any day except Sunday between 9 a. m. and 5:30 p. m. and a photograph will be taken without charge.

Names and pictures of girls are coming in fast. Too many to list in this daily article. The Typical New England Girl Editor welcomes all girls. The more the merrier. The better the contest.

"Shop Sally and See for Yourself"

ENTERPRISE IS FAST IN TRIAL RACES

Newport, R. I., Sept. 5 (INS)—While Shamrock V was going through the business of being measured and found up to regulations yesterday, Enterprise, defender of the America's cup against Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, went out to sea in a southwest breeze and performed stunts that were little short of amazing.

She covered approximately the same route that the Shamrock did the day before, bearing a little more than five miles to windward and then coming about with a spinnaker set and laying across to the east of Brenton's Reef lightship. Enterprise whirled along a rough sea, but with very little aire, and left you with the impression that she was very speedy.

It was a tranquil sea that Enterprise sailed out into and the breeze when it came fell only in gusts and in spots. Toward evening when the boats were headed home, the wind blew with some steadiness out of the southwest.

Under it Enterprise swept along, passing the accompanying fleet. She whipped down into the tiny channel that marks Brenton's Cove at a speed of something like 17 knots.

She was proving once again that winds which leave other yachts standing up in a vertical manner could push her along at a good rate. Day by day in every way, you begin to realize that the America's cup committee probably selected the right ship to defend the America's Cup.

Following high mass of requiem, the body was sent to Auburn, Me., for burial. Pallbearers included Frederick W. Mansfield, president of the Massachusetts Bar Association; Judge Frank S. Deland, Judge A. K. Cohen, Judge Elijah Adlow, Albert A. Schaefer and City Councillor Robert G. Wilson, Jr.

Lifer Kills Convict Foe in Sing Sing

Ossining, N. Y., Sept. 5 (INS)—A grudge of the underworld was blamed today for the murder of Joseph R. Klune, 28, long-term Sing Sing prisoner. Harry Lipschitz, 26, a lifer, confessed he had stolen a bread knife and killed Klune because, he charged, his victim had double crossed him in dividing bank robbery loot.

Taft refused to allow John D. Rockefeller to visit him at Beverly in the company of Senator Aldrich. This was proposed as an opportunity for Aldrich to deny certain charges entangling his alleged rubber interests at the time the Payne-Aldrich bill raised the tariff on rubber. These "Secrets of the Taft-Roosevelt Split" in Major Butt's letters are published exclusively in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

"I won't go to T. R. on my knees" said President Taft

"I am deeply hurt by his attitude," said Taft. "The proper thing for him to have done was to give me the opportunity to explain my position and to thrash it out as we have done in the past. He has closed my mouth by his seeming indifference and it is inconceivable that I, the President of the United States, should go to him on my knees, so to speak, and ask his approval."

This is an example of some of the startling statements that passed during the critical moments in the famous "Taft-Roosevelt split." Major Butt's personal letters next Sunday in the March of Events tell of the exciting situations in the Taft administration at this time.

SLAYER OF 22 IS HANGED IN U. S. PRISON

Leavenworth, Kan., Sept. 5 (AP) Carl Panaram, self-declared slayer of 22 persons, was hanged at the federal prison early today for the murder of R. G. Warnke, civilian laundry foreman at the penitentiary, where Panaram was serving a sentence for burglary imposed by a District of Columbia court.

President Hoover last night denied a plea for clemency.

The slayer was pronounced dead at 6:19 a. m.

Jeering the crowd as he walked to the gallows Panaram noted two chaplains present. He asked the warden that they be removed. The chaplains left in accordance with his will.

Panaram, serving his sixth prison sentence, struck down the laundry foreman with a heavy iron bar June 19, 1929, while in a frenzy.

The hanging was the first legal execution in Kansas since 1870, with the exception of that of a federal prisoner at Wichita in 1888. The Kansas law provides capital punishment only for treason.

Panaram, however, was prosecuted under federal statutes, his crime having been committed on Federal property.

Before his trial for murder at Topeka, Panaram wrote a letter to the trial judge demanding justice which he described as "that I be found guilty of murder in the first degree and sentenced to die."

Panaram was pronounced sane by a sanity board before which he boasted of committing 22 murders, he identified one of his victims as George Henry McMahon of Salem, Mass.

Panaram confessed in October, 1928, that he murdered Henry McMahon, 12, of Salem, in 1922, but the confession was doubted.

Young McMahon was slain in a berry patch and his body was found three days later beneath a rocky ledge.

Complains of Crash, Fined $50 for Rum

Manchester, N. H., Sept. 5 (AP)—Walter L. Lutz of Reading, Pa., was in an automobile collision here which was not serious, but today he paid $5 fine and costs in municipal court for illegal transportation of liquor. After he reported the crash at police headquarters, officers got into his car to inspect the brakes. They found two bottles of liquor.

Hosmer, Millionaire, Flier, Hurt in Crash

Montreal, Que., Sept. 5 (INS)—Elwood Hosmer, Montreal millionaire and the hero of two attempts to fly the Atlantic westwards, was hurt today in an automobile crash near Bath, N. B. He was taken to a hospital at Woodstock.

Crabmeat Can Be Used in So Many Choice Dishes

From Martha Lee's Friday morning broadcast over WHDH by the Boston Evening American.

When somebody says to you "What do you want for lunch?" and you haven't given it a thought, the almost automatic answer is "Oh, crab salad, or crabmeat sandwich."

Isn't it so? I know it is with me. But this queen of sea foods can be made up in so many delightful ways it really seems a pity to confine its personality to just salads and sandwiches. For instance, crab meat au gratin, or crab meat patties, creamed crab with mushrooms. The best part of it is, you can make these dishes so easily and inexpensively at home while the best hotels are asking scandalous prices for them. Just try ordering them special sometime if you don't believe me!

Martha Lee

A can of Japanese crab meat, some macaroni, white sauce and cheese, and you have a dish fit for a king, a bridge luncheon, a Sunday supper, or hungry hubby and kiddies.

This creamed crab with cheese is an old favorite, but I'll risk giving it to you again, and if you would like other recipes, just drop me a line, as usual, and they're yours.

CREAMED CRAB MEAT WITH CHEESE

Melt 2 tbsp. butter, add 3 tbsp. flour, ½ tsp. salt, few grains pepper and 1 cup of milk. Stir until the mixture boils and add 1 small can Japanese crab from which the bones have been removed. Add to this ½ cup grated cheese, or 2 tbsp. of our favorite more-than-cheese, and heat without boiling until the cheese is melted and blended with the rest. Arrange toast points on a plate, and pour crab mixture over. Serve very hot.

Here's another that's a little unusual.

CRAB MEAT CHOPS

2 cups crab meat.
1 cup thick white sauce.
1 tsp. chopped parsley.
½ tsp. chopped onion.
½ tsp. salt.
Cayenne pepper.

Make thick white sauce from 3 tbsp. flour, 3 tbsp. butter, 1 cup milk and seasoning to taste, mix with the rest of the ingredients. Cook all together and cool. Make 8 separate heaps of this and let stand an hour. Take each heap and form into a chop shape, dip in beaten egg, dredge in cracker dust and fry in hot, deep fat. Serve with hot tartare sauce, or Hollandaise sauce.

Now one more:

Faithfully yours,

Martha Lee

Here's a Popular Pudding

THE MAPLE BREAD pudding is easy and economical to make and it is popular with guests.

Electric Ice Box Proves Big Money-Saver

You often hear it said that living is so much more expensive now mainly because the housewife has to do her buying in bits, whereas her grandmother had a whole winter's supply of food on hand and even if deep snows buried the family they were in no danger of starving.

Now, of course, it would be impossible for us to pile up mountains of potatoes and oceans of peas, beans, corn, peppers, and what not, not to mention whole sides of beef and pork, and hams and bacons by the dozen as our grandmothers did. We have no place to put them even if we felt inclined to do such hearty marketing in the fall.

But certain it is that buying a pound of this and a half-pound of that at the grocer's every evening, or at the delicatessen on the way home is an expensive way to run an establishment. Perhaps even more expensive is buying enough for a week's menu and then finding that improper refrigeration has made it unfit for use, so you have to go out and buy more.

You will not be faced with this two-horned dilemma if you invest in an electric refrigerator such as we have in the Martha Lee Cooking School. Moisture proof and with a free circulation of dry air, it keeps food at a state of coldness that assures freshness and wholesomeness for days. Not only that, it provides a ready means of making up delicious combinations of leftover dishes that you would find it hard to make in any other way. Cereals and fish, meats and fruits, vegetables and cheese, a little of this and a little of that, and ice leftovers disappear and are replaced by new and different combinations, made possible by the electric refrigerator.

Here's a simple recipe made from odds and ends and blended to delightfulness with the help of my electric refrigerator:

SALAD PIQUANT

2 Tbsp. gelatine
½ Cup cold water
½ Cup mild vinegar
2 Tbsp. lemon juice
2 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce.
¾ cup green beans
2 Cups Boiling water
½ Cup sugar
1 Tsp. salt
1½ Cups shredded cabbage
1 Cup celery
¼ Cup chopped pimientoes
¾ Cup tiny French peas

Soak gelatine in cold water about five minutes. Add vinegar, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce, boiling water, sugar and salt. Cool. When mixture begins to stiffen, add remaining ingredients. Turn into wet mold and chill in refrigerator. To garnish this salad attractively coat the inside of the mold with the gelatine mixture before adding the vegetables and when this film has partially hardened press in green beans, peas and pimiento strips to form a pattern. Allow to harden before carefully adding the remainder of the mixture combined with the vegetables. Fills a three-pint mold.

Our electric refrigerator in the Martha Lee Cooking School is always happy to receive visitors, and we are always happy to explain its many good points, or send you the name if you like. For other recipes equally delicious you know where to write, don't you? Martha Lee, care of Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

To Take Ink From Linen

To remove ink from linen after it has dried in wash out as much ink as possible in a pan of milk. Then put article to soak in another pan of milk letting it stand till milk turns to rubber, then wash out; no trace of ink will remain.

For Dainty Biscuits

What is more melty-in-the-mouth than dainty biscuits piping hot from the oven? Or shortcakes hot and crisp and topped with fruit and cream? And no matter how carefully they are shielded after coming from the oven they do seem to lose some of the tender sweetness that is their's immediately upon being taken from the heat.

But you really can't leave your bridge table in the middle of a rubber and mix biscuits so that they will be fresh, can you? Of course not, but here's the way a friend of mine solves the problem. She uses an old favorite brand of baking powder in her biscuit mixture, makes the batter in the morning and pops it into the ice chest until just before time to put in the oven.

The gas does not escape from the baking powder and the biscuits, cookies, shortcake dough, etc., come out fine and flaky and tender, after several hours. Just think of the possibilities for company planning this gives you. Last minute worry done quite away with, and your dough all mixed and ready to bake, hours beforehand. Here's one of her favorite luncheon biscuits, and I can send several others if you'd like them:

ORANGE BISCUITS

2 cups flour
4 tsp. baking powder
¾ tsp. salt
2 to 4 tbsp. shortening
2-3 cup liquid (half milk and water)
1 orange, juice and grated rind
15 pieces block sugar

Use 3 tbsp. orange juice as part of the liquid. Sift the dry ingredients together twice, cut in the shortening, then add the liquid. Allow the dough to stand 10 to 30 minutes if you want to use at once, or you may leave all day in the ice box as stated above. Roll out to an inch thick and cut with biscuit cutter. Press a block of sugar saturated in the orange juice into each biscuit. Sprinkle a pinch of grated rind over each and bake 12 to 15 minutes in hot oven (400 deg.)

New Recipe for Bread Pudding

Comes the time when the family are a bit wearied with cold desserts and even though the weather is still warm, the thought of a good old-fashioned bread pudding is not unwelcome. It will really be new-fashioned, though, if you use the following recipe, which gives to the pudding of grandmother's day a delightful new flavor and consistency.

MAPLE BREAD PUDDING

1 lb. loaf bread
2 tbsps. butter
1 cup maple syrup
1 cup broken nut meats
3 cups milk
⅝ tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla
2 eggs, separated
2 tbsps. sugar
2 tbsps. brown sugar.

Cut the bread in slices. Spread with the butter and maple syrup, placing slices as spread in buttered baking dish, sprinkling each slice with nut meats. Scald the milk, add the salt, ¾ tsp. vanilla and 2 egg yolks beaten with ⅓ cup of the hot milk. Pour over the bread. Let stand one-half hour and bake one hour in slow oven or at 300 degrees F.

Beat the two egg whites stiff, beat in the two tablespoons sugar and ½ teaspoon vanilla. Sift in two tablespoons brown sugar, a little at a time, folding together with fewest possible motions. Put on pudding and bake 20 minutes in a slow oven or at 300 deg. F. Serve with maple syrup.

The Daily Dollar

CARMEL APPLE ROLL

2 cups flour.
½ tsp. salt.
1 tsp. baking powder.
3 heaping tbsp. shortening.

Enough cold water to make as for pie crust. Roll out and sprinkle with about 3 green apples cut in small pieces and mixed with ½ the following:

1 cup brown sugar.
1 tsp. nutmeg.
½ cup white sugar.
1 tsp. cinnamon.

Roll up and place in pan. Put remainder of above mixture in 1 and ½ cups boiling water, add 2 heaping tablespoon of butter and pour all over the roll—bake.

New Nut Cake Adds Much to Any Supper Menu

Whether it's because fall is just around the corner, with thoughts of late berries and brown nuts, or whether it's just because—but anyway we were mightily impressed with a new cake that found its way into the Martha Lee kitchen this week. Delicately crisp and brown on the outside with a spicy, soft frosting, and broken nut meats plentifully sprinkled here and there, it just breathed September and the warm, fragrant, nut-flavored air of the fields and woods. We must be getting old and sentimental to get nature and cooking all mixed up like this, but anyway you know how it is, and we haven't had a vacation this summer.

But spring or fall, cake is cake and the one I am talking about heads the list. (Name secret gladly furnished, you know.) This cake is made by a favorite baking company, and every ingredient from nuts to—no, not soup—but eggs, and milk and flour and baking powder, just as fine and fresh as those you would use in your very own kitchen. Baked carefully in expertly tended ovens, the result is a cake which we can recommend gladly—from the heart and from the "tummy"!

Martha Lee has a few of her own private pickling and preserving jam and jelly recipes that are free to you on request. Address her at 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

Rum Cure Now Monopoly, Drys Tell Mrs. Field

Chicago, Sept. 5 (AP)—Mrs. Stanley Field, anti-prohibitionist, attended a meeting of the Lake County W. C. T. U. yesterday, accompanies by her daughter and a neighbor. Mrs. Field's husband is president of the Field Museum.

The evils of rum were being discussed when Mrs. Field inquired if she might ask a question. The W. C. T. U. members knew her as a foe to their cause, but told her to go ahead.

Whereupon she asked why, if the liquor question had been settled, a certain institution for the cure of inebriety had a greater patronage now than before prohibition?

"That's simple," replied Miss Helen Hood, state W. C. T. U. president. "It is because the institution to which you refer now has a monopoly on a business formerly shared by dozens of institutions now closed. And besides, they treat drug cases."

Mrs. Field then walked to the platform and made a short talk. Reports that the discussion became heated were denied by Mrs. C. T. Tibbits, chairman of the Lake County W. C. T. U., who said:

"Mrs. Field made a lot of ridiculous statements. Some of the ladies were bored. Others were infuriated and got right up and told her a few things. Feeling ran pretty high, but there was no fighting."

Cafe Dinner Dance Aids Hospital

Benefit Tonight Serves as Final Get-Together for Pocasset Folk

WINDING UP A BRILLIANT week of programs in aid of the Children's Hospital, comes the large dinner dance tonight at Pocasset on the Cape. Mrs. John W. Hallowell of Milton, Mrs. J. B. Swift and Mrs. Herman S. Clark, members of the committee in charge of the entertainments, are hostesses to 77 guests at dinner at the Megansett Tea Room before the dance. There will be no ushers for this informal hop, which is the farewell get-together for most of the summer colony of this vicinity.

FESTIVITIES THAT HAVE kept both juniors and seniors happily engaged began on Tuesday with a handicap boat race for amateurs, in charge of Miss Susan Morse and Miss Eleanor Hallowell. Water sports and picnic lunches enlivened the day. Midget singles tennis tournaments at the Pocasset Golf Club provided thrills and cash for the hospital treasury on Wednesday. Miss Elizabeth Harding, daughter of Mrs. Francis Harding of Chestnut Hill, and a bud of this winter, served on the committee staging the sports program.

MISS EDITH MITTON, popular debutante of last season, is back from a sojourn at the J Y ranch at Jackson's Hole, Wyoming, and is now the guest of Miss Barbara Welch at Westport Harbor, Me. Miss Marguerite Swan of Milton, who spent a few weeks at a ranch a short distance from the J Y, is also back from the West.

North Shore Folk to See International Polo Meet Tomorrow

THE INTERNATIONAL POLO meet at Meadow Brook, L. I., is calling large numbers of enthusiasts from the North Shore colony. Those leaving for the meet tomorrow include Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Shaw of Round Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Proctor of Foxcroft, who have taken boxes for the event. Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Herrick of Pride's Crossing, Dudley Clark and his son, Dudley Clark, Jr., and Forrester Clark of Ipswich. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Almy and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Adie will go with Mr. and Mrs. John Lasell of Whitinsville. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Saltonstall of Sherborn and Mr. and Mrs. George Richmond Fearing, 3d, are going down to see the games. While there they will be entertained by Mr. and Mrs. William Harding Jackson (Elisabeth Lyman).

MUCH ENTERTAINING SURROUNDS the polo matches which open tomorrow and great interest centers about the recently arrived ponies imported from famous stables abroad. Local experts at the game are H. Nason Hamlin, Bayard Tuckerman and Frederick H. Prince, who have long been devoted to the sport; W. Cameron Forbes, George S. Mandell, Augustus F. Goodwin, Bayard Warren, Adnah Neyhart and John R. Macomber.

MRS. HENRY MURRAY (Josephine Rantoul) of Topsfield and her small daughter, Josephine, are arriving from France on Sunday after a summer abroad. They were accompanied abroad by Dr. Murray, who preceded them on the return trip and is now in Canada for a short stay.

THE CHARLES BOHLEN family of Ipswich, who have been abroad all season, are sailing for home on September 17. They will spend the fall weeks at their shore place, where Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Bohlen and little son, Edwin, of Nahant, will be with them for six weeks. They go on to Aiken, S. C., for the winter.

Miss [illegible] Bell — Miss Gretchen Bremer — Miss Peggy Bradley — Miss Frances McElwain

MISS MABEL BELL, Miss Gretchen Bremer, Miss Peggy Bradley and Miss Frances McElwain are pals who may be seen almost any day spinning along the shore road or handling a boat around Cohasset Yacht Club. Miss Bremer will make her bow to society at the first ball of the season, to be given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton L. Bremer of Milton, in October 8.

Committee Named for Patroness List at Benefit Plays

MRS. SAMUEL DENNIS WARREN, Mrs. Philip Stockton and Mrs. Samuel Eliot have charge of the patroness list for the series of plays to be presented in aid of the Infants Hospital during the season of 1930-31. They are assisted by Mrs. Gerald Boardman, Mrs. Thomas S. Blumer, Mrs. Henry M. Bohlen and Miss Rosamond Blanchard. The chairman of the committee in charge is Mrs. R. Gilpin Ervin. The Ladies' Aid of the hospital will secure subscriptions for the first Tuesday evenings of the series of six plays to be given at the Plymouth Theater. Mrs. William E. Ladd is in charge of tickets.

THE WEDDING OF MISS MARY KINSMAN MUNROE and A. Goodwin Cooke at the First Church in Salem today is of interest to Boston friends. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Munroe of New York and Salem.

RETURNING TRAVELERS today include Miss Mary Cushing, who arrived from a summer in Europe on the Leviathan. Miss Cushing and her mother, Mrs. Harvey Cushing of Brookline, will stay in New York for a few days before coming on to Boston.

Pioneer Club of 'Y. W.' to Install Officers Next Thursday Night

One of the first fall installations of officers takes place Thursday evening, September 11, when officers of the Pioneer Club of the Boston Y. W. C. A. will be duly presented to the business women of Metropolitan Boston who make up the club's membership.

The new officers are: Mary Bernier, Jamaica Plain, president; Edythe Dexter Wollaston, first vice-president; Ethel Lombard West Somerville, second vice-president; Mildred Blanford, Medford corresponding secretary; Eleanor M. Tucker, Roxbury, recording secretary; Dorothy Mehaney, Dorchester, treasurer; Virginia Colorusso, Revere, chairman of membership; Lavinia Anthony, Arlington, chairman of music; Thelma Wilcox, Allston, chairman of programs; Carmen Ungar, Jamaica Plain, chairman of publicity; Clara Gaining, Brookline, chairman of suppers; Mildred Krug, Somerville, chairman of hospitality; Anna Sakara, Brookline, chairman of recreation.

A program to follow the installation will be presented by the president. Lillina Nelson, business women's secretary, is handling supper registrations for the evening.

Y. W. C. A. Workers Plan October Conference

By NANCY BREWSTER

"Y" workers from all over the State will meet at the Boston "Y" building, Clarendon st., for the general conference to decide the details of a state-wide Y. W. C. A. week in Massachusetts, scheduled for October 19 to 25.

Mrs. Richard K. Thorndike of the Boston board of directors will preside at the session next Wednesday to be attended by board representatives, publicity directors, and membership secretaries of the "Y" branches in the Commonwealth. A luncheon will open the meeting at 12:30 at "The Pioneer."

Massachusetts Y. W. C. A.'s to be represented at the general conferences are those of Boston, Brockton, Cambridge, Haverhill, Lawrence, Lowell, Malden, New Bedford, Newburyport, Springfield, Worcester and Western Massachusetts.

The first fall meeting of the Business Women's League of the Boston Y. W. C. A. will be held at 140 Clarendon st. next Monday at 6:30 p. m., in the social room. Mrs. Edith Tuttle of Allston, president, will welcome old and new members.

Club Pays Tribute to Its Founder at October Meeting

The Professional Women's Club of Boston, of which Mrs. Mabel Mann Jordan is the president, begins the season officially Oct. 14. At that time the club will take occasion to honor the founder of the club, Miss Marion Brazier, in recognition not only of her 80th birthday, but of her vision and influence in making the club possible.

The afternoon is to be named "Founder - President's Afternoon," according to Mrs. Jordan, who in announcing the program, explains it is to serve as the club's tribute to Miss Brazier. The Hotel Statler is the Professional Women's Club headquarters. Following a brief

Bridge and Whist Will Help to Finance Guild Garden Party

The garden party of St. Vincent's Orphan Guild will be partially financed by the luncheon, bridge and whist party next Monday at Richard Shop, 120 Boylston st., Mrs. Stephen Courtney of Dorchester, hostess, announces with her invitation for attendance to all guild members.

The garden party which is to take place on the grounds of the Orphan Home at 45 Guyette st., Cambridge, September 27, will in turn help to partially finance the home, the pet philanthropy of the guild members.

The first fall business meeting of the guild is announced for next Tuesday by the president, Mrs. Joseph Eichorn. At that time plans will be discussed for fall and winter activities, and final arrangements made for the garden party.

Miss Marion Brazier Hostess to Friends on 80th Birthday

Tomorrow afternoon at 4 p. m. is the big moment in Miss Marion Brazier's life. Not only is it the occasion of her 80th birthday, but it is the day of active retirement from all club activities for the veteran Massachusetts clubwoman.

At a small and informal tea to a few of her intimate acquaintances, at the Copley-Plaza Hotel, Miss Brazier will say her "swan song" to those with whom she has worked for years in making possible the vast number of clubs for which she is responsible.

Author, lecturer, clubwoman, Miss Brazier is one of the outstanding clubwomen of Massachusetts. She has membership in more clubs than has any other woman. She is founder of more clubs than any other woman. Clubwomen will miss Miss Brazier.

Acquire an Accent With Your New Frock

By ANN ARDEN

PASTEL ACCENTS, to complement the new dark colors for fall, are fast gaining in importance, and because of their direct relation to costume continuity are seen in increasing numbers. No matter what your sentiments may be regarding the Eighteenth Amendment, they won't affect your approval of wine red as a color.

THE CANTON FROCK pictured is of canton crepe in rich wine red, the skirt scalloped about the hip line, and circular below the knees. The bodice is draped in front to form jabot, the V opening filled in with small gilet of cream lace. The sleeves are shirred to form jabots between wrist and elbow. A spray of pastel pink pique flowers at waistline gives the newly smart pastel accent to this youthful frock. The vagabond hat is an Agnes model in felt, with double brim, the light and dark note repeated in two perky quills behind the right ear.

YOU DONT HAVE to be a jolly outlaw or sing underneath the greenwood tree to emulate Robin Hood. You may simply pull on this jaunty hat to have the gay, daring attitude that made the carefree Robin such a favorite. The hat, in the newest mode with its cushion brim and its perky quills, was inspired by the peaked headgear of the English woodsman.

NEW TO COLLEGE LIFE or a veteran, certain of the same provisions need to be made for engagements bound to come up. For teas of varying formality, for instance, everyone needs to be prepared, this season, with frocks of canton crepe, satin or velvet.

You can get about in canton, gracefully. The fabric is so supple that it drapes to the newest dressmaking ideas with just the air you like. Whether you are the poised hostess or the timid guest, you'll appear to better advantage in canton than in flat crepe this season.

CANTON FROCKS with bodices cut on dolman lines are newest of the new. Just what a collegian wants, therefore. Vionnet has a dolman model which is rather charming. There are no shoulder seams. Fagoting is a trimming detail.

After cantons, crect pile velvets are recommended; and lames for formal occasions.

OUR KAISER' CAUSES STIR IN COURT

Judge Holds Wilhelm, in Suit Against a Berlin Paper, Is Only a Prince

Berlin, Sept. 5 (AP)—An attorney's insistence on speaking of "our kaiser" today brought strenuous defense objections at the opening of former Kaiser Wilhelm's suit against Ewald Mendell, editor of the newspaper Morgenpost.

The court ended the dispute by observing:

"There isn't any kaiser any more,' and added, "As far as this court is concerned it entertains the suit of one Wilhelm, Prince of Prussia."

The former kaiser sued the Morgenpost for damages after the public prosecutor had refused to start proceedings when the paper accused Wilhelm of having permitted the Krupp arms factory to furnish inferior ammunitions in the war because he had financial interest in the plant.

Paul Bloch, of Wilhelm's counsel, referred to him as "our kaiser." Observers said Bloch had all the earmarks of a former Prussian officer. When the Morgenpost's lawyers objected, Attorney Friedrich Everling, Bloch's colleague, supported the proposal to accord their client his pre-war title.

Another clash occurred when the judge tried to persuade the parties to settle the issue out of court.

"Our kaiser has been slandered, and nothing but complete reexamination will satisfy us," Bloch thundered. "We want to see those much heralded proofs."

The Morgenpost's attorney questioned the legality of Bloch's power of attorney. This was signed "Wilhelm, I. R.," meaning "William Imperator Rex."

Bar 55 Japs on Ship

Buenos Aires, Sept. 5 (AP)—The sanitary authorities today refused permission to land 55 Japanese emigrants who arrived on the steamer Kamakura Maru. All were suffering from trachoma and will be returned to Kobe.

Meteors Fail to Show Any Trace of Life Away From Earth

Chicago, Sept. 5 (AP)—Of 400 known meteors which have been dashed to the earth following cosmic catastrophes—meaning smashed up planets—not one has shown any trace of fossil remains to indicate life as we know it from our own sphere, Dr. Charles E. Wylie of the University of Iowa said today.

"Life may exist on distant spheres," said Dr. Wylie, "but when a cosmic smash-up occurs, the bits of rock that eventually find their way to earth may have come from the interior of the exploded world. Even if a slab of surface rock reaches us it would have been melted so in its descent as to obliterate any footprints of possible dinosaurs or human beings.

U. S. SETS PACE AT BIARRITZ

By BARON GEORGE WRANGEL
Universal Service Special Cable

Biarritz, Sept. 4—Half the fun in this super-heated capital of the Basques, whose racial boast is that everyone of them is born noble, is trying to outwit the authorities and get in early swimming.

The surf is rough and guards are everywhere. If you go out above the waist they begin blowing their horns, setting their whistles to shrieking; they even go out after you.

As the popular and witty Princess Eynard, wife of the Grand Duke Dmitri of Russia, remarked, they don't want any drownings and have set out to make wading popular.

The princess, daughter of the Hon. Mrs. Alfred Anson, Lord Litchfield's aunt, is setting the social pace here together with another American woman, the wealthy Mrs. Roy McWilliams, wife of the U. S. consul.

Chief among those noted at a recent social event were Mrs. O'Malley Keyes, in a pale beige crepe de chine with a cape to match lined with brown and a small toque of alternate stripes of brown beige; Mrs. Jay O'Brien, in a pale pin crepe de chine coat and skirt with a pale pink felt hat, and Barbara Hutton, in a long beige coat with a large beige fox collar.

PORT OF BOSTON

By CARL MORRISON

Preceding the first fall meeting of the Foreign Commerce Club at the Hotel Manger at North Station next Tuesday evening, several of the committees are holding meetings to prepare reports.

The marine affairs committee will meet today at the call of Capt. Herbert S. Evans, to discuss ways of keeping the harbor clear of rubbish in co-operation with the Port Authority.

The committee on warehouses and piers will meet Monday at 12 o'clock on the 16th floor of the Custom House tower, at the call of Roy Allen of D. S. Woodberry Sons, secretary. All phases of Commonwealth Pier and the "little Commonwealth" pier in East Boston will be discussed.

The publicity committee will meet at 1 o'clock in the same room Monday noon.

LARGE CARGO

Rogers & Webb Company report a large shipment on the Hercules out of Boston yesterday for Hamburg. There were 11 carloads of textile machinery, 1000 tons of wheat and 600 of general cargo, making a total of 2700 tons, one of the best shipments in recent weeks.

DUE HERE SOON

A group of German women making a tour of the East, are due in Boston, Sept. 23. They will visit department stores, industrial establishments, schools, hospitals and women's clubs. The party came over on the North German Lloyd liner Bremen.

CHELSEA HULKS

At a time when the campaign to clean up Chelsea Creek seemed to be making headway, comes the news that several hulks from old Eagle boats are to be placed in the creek to keep the 10-year-old wrecks company. The port authority has studied the situation and intends to obtain action and has written the East Boston Board of Trade.

TO THE YACHT RACES

Owing to increased demands, the Eastern Steamship Line has added another steamer for the cruise to the first of the international yacht races off Newport on Sept. 12. The Evangeline is already booked to capacity, so the George Washington is open to reservations.

FRENCH TOURISTS

Tourist travel from France to Canada and the United States has started in organized tour form for the first time. These are believed the forerunner of many big tours, some of which may reach Boston.

ANOTHER RECORD

The new turbo-electric liner Morro Castle of the Ward Line recently arrived in New York from Havana from her first round trip. She made the southbound trip in 38 hours and 40 minutes and the return voyage in 58 hours flat. Several Bostonians were on board.

SUBMITS BIDS

The Fore river plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corp. has submitted bids for the construction of four turbo-electric passenger and cargo vessels for the New York, Central American-California service of the Panama Mail S. S. Co. These bids are for vessels 600 feet long.

BRITANNIC DUE

The new motorship Britannic of the White Star line, world's largest cabin ship, is due in Boston Sunday forenoon at Commonwealth Pier with 1500 passengers. About 400 are for the Hub.

NEW FURNITURE COMPANY OPENS

The Best Furniture Co. opens at 9 a. m. tomorrow at 770 Washington st., a new kind of furniture store, specializing in fashion-furniture of the finer sort, dedicated to bettering the homes of New England, offering its fashion on a deferred payment plan which makes easy the process of having a fashionable home.

Housed in a newly decorated and remodelled structure Beals is really one of the most modern and distinguished stores of its kind in Boston. Its five lights, any three of unusual in size, yet are filled with new and exclusive fashions tastefully displayed.

The opening sale of the week, bids fair to be one of the most interesting Boston has seen.

Traps Ex-Fiance, Demands Reward

New York, Sept. 5 (AP)—Having helped the authorities arrest her former fiance, Miss Irene Pashkova, a dancer, now wants part of the reward she said she was promised.

She brought suit today against a detective agency, a surety company and a bank, demanding $5500. She alleges she told the detectives under what name Charles Percival Solem Westergaard, a bank clerk, was fleeing this country with $80,000 of the Chatham Phenix Bank's money. Westergaard now is in Atlanta prison.

Find Missing Plane Wrecked; Pilot Dead

Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Bavaria, Sept. 5 (AP)—An Austrian military plane, missing several days, was found today demolished on a mountain top. Its pilot, Major Stolmayer, was dead.

TODAY'S WHO'S WHO

Today's harbor sketch is in the form of an announcement of the promotion of a well known harbor booster, Theodore Haskell of the Mystic Terminal, who has been sent to Montreal as commercial agent of the Boston & Maine railroad.

"Ted" left here recently to work as right hand man in the province of Andrew Lane general agent and brother of Arthur Lane of Rogers & Webb.

Haskell has been in charge of the accounting department of John S. Emery Co., head of the Rogers & Webb outward freight department and traffic solicitor for Mystic terminal. He is a graduate of the University of Maine, and has been active in bringing new business to the port. His friends are sorry to lose him, but delighted with his promotion.

GRAIN CONFERENCE

The State department of public works and the Boston Port Authority will hold a conference next week to discuss the mandate from the Legislature to study whether or not Boston needs a new million-dollar grain elevator. It is understood that the investigating groups have encountered a strong opposition in many quarters to having a new elevator, since there are huge quantities of grain here still unshipped.

NOISE MISSING IN NEW MOTOR OF CADILLAC

Automatic valve silencers which eliminate valve noise and all necessity for tappet adjustment are among the most ingenious and interesting of the mechanical features of the Cadillac V-16, Albion L. Danforth, of the Cadillac Automobile Co., of Boston, said today.

These silencers enabled the use of the valve-in-head design in the construction of the V-16.

"With these automatic mechanisms, the valves are operated with virtually no clearance at all times, "Danforth pointed out. "The result is a quieter overhead valve engine than it was ever believed possible to build.

"All changes in the length of the valve stems, rocker arms, push rods, etc., caused by heat, are compensated automatically."

The valves are operated from a single camshaft located at the base of the V and driven by a silent chain from the crankshaft. The cams operate the valves through special alloy push rods and rocker arms, as in the conventional overhead valve engine. There are 32 cams and each valve lifted is assembled in a separate bushing in the cylinder blocks.

Each of the rocker arms is mounted about an eccentric, one difference from the conventional overhead valve motor. This eccentric may be moved to compensate for that expansion which would normally tend to change the operating clearance.

FAVOR BOND CO. REORGANIZING

Augusta, Me., Sept. 5—Further hearing on a petition of Massachusetts and Maine debenture bondholders of the American Bond & Mortgage Co. of Chicago, a Maine corporation, for a receivership, probably will be unnecessary, Chief Justice William R. Pattangall of Maine Supreme Court said today.

At the close of the hearing all today, however, JJustice Pattangall said the bill would be retained for further hearing if necessary.

He said today the petition was appropriate from a legal point of view, but from evidence offered it appeared an attempt to reorganize the company was being made by protective committees.

"I tell these committees have had a fair opportunity to work out the problems which confront them," the justice said, "it would be manifestly unwise to interrupt their work."

Beauty Shop That Cut Rates Bombed

Chicago, Sept. 5 (AP)—The first bombing of a business conducted by a woman occurred early today on Lawrence ave. when a black powder "pineapple" exploded at the rear of Madame Love's beauty shop.

Police believed the bombing was due to price cutting by the shop owner, Mrs. Jennie Love.

Roxbury Crossing Man Hurt in Fall

In an undetermined manner Charles Malsavich, 55, of Lawn st., Roxbury Crossing, fell against his bedroom window on the second floor of his home shortly after 3 o'clock today, breaking the window and cutting himself badly about the heads and arms. He was taken to Peter Bent Brigham Hospital for treatment.

Mother, Near Death, Says Son, 9, Shot Her

Plan to Finance Cupid by Killing a Police Chief

Chicago, Sept. 5 (INS)—Admitting that she and her 19-year-old sweetheart attempted to murder a police chief as the first step of a crime career, Lucyle Wilkinson, comely 17-year-old high school girl, was under arrest here today.

The career in crime, she carefully explained, was planned to finance their wedding and honeymoon, Emil Heckner, 19, was the object of her affections, she said.

After plundering the home of her intended parents-in-law they set out to kill and rob A. A. Terry, chief of police at Midlothian, suburb. A club swung from behind grazed Terry's head when he tripped and fell as he was slightly from his automobile, the mishap saving his life.

ANDREE LOG SO DIM IT BALKS SCIENTISTS

Tromsoe, Norway, Sept. 5 (AP)—The story of the Andree balloon expedition is understood to be made clear in the explorer's notes up to September 5. It is said there is writing in Andree's log after that date, but the condition of the diary after September 5 is such that it may be impossible to follow beyond that date the story of the fate of the expedition as told by its leader himself.

It would seem that the party arrived on White island on Sept. 5 (presumably 1897) after having battled their way across the ice since mid-July, when their balloon met disaster on the attempted flight to the North Pole.

It appeared that something happened very suddenly and unexpectedly to bring down the balloon when it was less than 500 miles from the North Pole.

One diary contains information that the balloon descended at 12:30 p. m., July 13, 1897, just 46 hours after the start from Dane's Island, Spitzbergen.

Dr. Gunnar Horn today proposed that a Swedish expedition be sent to White Island next summer to look for further evidences of the Andree expedition.

Dr. Horn said it is possible Frankel's body might be found buried in the ice. Many of the things which the Horn party found were dug up from a depth of 18 inches or more.

COST OF DRY LAW 6 CENTS PER CAPITA

Washington, Sept. 5 (AP)—The per capita cost of federal prohibition enforcement was given as six cents in a financial summary made public today by the prohibition bureau.

Figures for the 12 administrative districts gave the one comprising Washington, Oregon, Montana, Idaho and Alaska, the highest cost per person, 11 cents.

Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico were second with 10 cents and New York and Porto Rico third with 8 cents.

The others were as follows.

California, Nevada, Hawaii, 7 cents; Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, 6 cents; Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas, 5.7 cents. Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island, 5 cents; Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana, 4.6 cents. Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee, 4.5 cents; Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Arkansas, 4.3 cents.

The bureau's budget allotted $7,555,347 to the 12 districts.

The annual per capita cost for the district comprising Maryland, West Virginia, North and South Carolina and the District of Columbia, was given as 7 cents. The figure was 5 cents for the district of North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska and Iowa.

PROBE WITNESS DECOYED AWAY

Shreveport, La., Sept 5 (AP)—Authorities today investigated a report by three Shreveport policemen that Samuel Irby, former State highway commission employe and recent witness at an inquiry into that department, was forcibly taken from his hotel Wednesday night by six members of the State Identification bureau.

Neither Irby nor James Terrell, a companion, has been seen since Mr. Irby, in New Orleans, said she had heard nothing from her husband.

Irby testified at a secret investigation of the highway commission in the chamber of Judge George K. Favrot of East Baton Rouge. He later announced his intention of suing Governor Huey P. Long and O. K. Allen, highway chairman, for $50,000 damages for alleged slanderous utterances.

V. F. W. LAUGH AT 'PTOMAINE POISONING'

Baltimore, Sept. 5 (AP)—Several hundred members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Women's Auxiliary, ill after a luncheon Wednesday on the grounds of the Naval Academy at Annapolis, were sufficiently recovered today to laugh about the experience and blame their condition on heat excitement, lack of sleep and injudicious eating.

None of those stricken was seriously ill, attending physicians said, and virtually all recovered.

At the luncheon one of the chief items of diet was crabs. At first these were blamed, but physicians today agreed their patients did not suffer from food poisoning, and an investigation by the Annapolis V. F. W. Post indicated all food was in good condition.

It was pointed out that the visitors have been getting little sleep were eating irregularly and have been on the go since the encampment opened Sunday.

Nearly a hundred of those taken ill were members of the auxiliary. So many women were absent yesterday that a session of the auxiliary was postponed and Miss Bessie Hanken of Revere, Mass., president of the auxiliary, announced 500 more delegates were ill.

Last night a mardi gras parade and ball were given under the auspices of the Military Order of the Cootie.

Billy Sunday Jr.'s, Former Wife Dead

Los Angeles, Sept. 5 (AP)—Mildred Sunday, first wife of W. A. "Billy" Sunday, Jr., son of the evangelist, died yesterday of peritonitis, following an operation for appendicitis. She was divorced in 1927 and a few months later made defendant of a $50,000 suit by Mrs Olive Day, who charged alienation of the affections of George Day.

Audit Shows State Officer Short $29,690

Gaffney, S. C., Sept. 5 (AP)—An audit made public today in the clerk of court here revealed a shortage of $29,690 in the accounts of Lieut.-Gov. T. R. Butler as receiver of the defunct bank of Blacksburg.

Woman Scientist Uncovers Tusk of Prehistoric Beast

Billings, Mont., Sept. 5 (AP)—Dr. J. C. F. Seefriedt, Bear Creek paleontologist, exhibited a tusk here yesterday which she said was that of a coryphodon, prehistoric animal similar to a rhinoceros. The tusk was found by the Princeton scientific expedition in the Red Lodge coal field.

The tusk is regarded by Dr. Seefriedt as of great scientific importance because it was found in the upper part of the Fort Union formation, or basal eocene at a point far below discoveries of similar fossils elsewhere in America.

The dog Dr. Seefriedt said now be of a private type competition and may lead to important discoveries of primitive type animal Coryphodons roamed Europe and America 30,000,000 or 35,000,000 years ago, the scientist said.

Fifth Victim of "Gum Shoe" Robber

Detroit, Sept. 5 (AP)—The mysterious 'gum shoe' robber who has been bothering Detroit police for a week has taken his fifth victim. The robber, who slips up behind his victims and strikes them down without warning, last night slugged Miss Ethel Goldsmith in her fath[illegible] home. Physicians said chances for her recovery were slight.

FIND FORGERY IN CHARTER PLEA IN LOWELL

Lowell, Sept. 5 (AP)—The election commission of this city today reported that 900 forged names were placed upon a petition calling for a new city charter.

The petition originally bore 6984 signatures, of which 4015 were necessary to place the matter on the State ballot. Of these, 3644 proved to be bona fides, while among the 3000 which were dropped 800 were found to be forgeries.

In connection with this case, 900 voters appeared before the election commission and swore to affidavits stating that they had not signed the petition. As a result the matter will not go to a vote in the coming elections. The petition called for the substitution of a Plan C charter for the Plan B charter now in effect.

Plane Races Nurse to Dying Doctor

Providence, R. I., Sept. 5—Mrs Della Woodward, a registered nurse of this city, who had never set foot in an airplane, was notified yesterday that she was wanted at once at the bedside of a former patient, a Maine physician, who is reported dangerously ill at Fort Fairfield, Me., near the Canadian border, and that an airplane was on the way from Portland as her means of transportation.

Mrs. Woodward hastily packed a traveling case and sped by automobile to Whatcheer airport, Pawtucket.

A plane took off a few minutes later with Mrs. Woodward aboard, piloted by Al Sherman of Portland.

Fire Destroys Two Rockport Cottages

Rockport, Sept. 5—Two cottages were destroyed by fire last night and two others were severely damaged when a blaze started in the cottage of F. H. Williams of Dorchester, at Long Beach. The Williams' cottage is surrounded by 150 similar structures and the absence of a strong wind prevented a serious conflagration.

The cottage of Mrs. Mary Storier of Somerville, which is beside it, also was destroyed. The cottages of J. P. Callahan of Dorchester and Joseph Courant of Gloucester, were damaged.

DAILY ANTIQUE

No. 188

This gay little creature originally came from Siam and is a small bronze representing a mythological character. This particular little figure is known as a kinnara and is half bird and half human. She wears an Indian headdress and Indian jewelry such as one may see in the Indian jewelry collection at the Museum. The bushy tail and wings, supposed to be those of a peacock, are attached to the hips. She is a creature of song and dance and corresponds in Indian mythology to the sirens in Greek legends. The bronze, with a companion, is in the Museum of Fine Arts, and dates from the eighteenth century.

Boston Evening American is publishing daily photographs of interesting antiques. Owners of antiques of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. If a photograph is not available, the American will send a cameraman to photograph the antique, providing the owner lives in Greater Boston. Address the Antique Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass.

JAIL FOR WOMAN SLEUTH AND FRIEND

Codmans Win $6021 Auto Verdict

Cathie, Victim of Loneliness in Home, Craves Friends

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Catherine Paige, elder daughter in a fatherless home, marries her wealthy, elderly employer, Alfred Farnsworth as the only way out of her financial difficulties.

"Is there anyone else, anyone you love?" he asked her before the wedding, and Cathie said no. It was true, for she could hardly count Gordon Moore, who once paid her attention and then forgot her.

Cathie's marriage begins auspiciously with a generous settlement for her impecunious family and a gorgeous trousseau for her. But returning from her wedding trip she is struck with the gloomy, almost sinister, quality of Farnsworth's house. It is a large, pretentious place with innumerable Chinese servants under the supervision of an ancient fat Chinaman named Chson, and a solitary white woman, Marguerite.

Some realization of the enormity of the step she has taken comes to Cathie soon after entering the house which is now her home. Mention of Farnsworth's son, Chester, and his bride frightens her.

Some realization of the enormity of the step she has taken comes to Cathie soon after entering this house which is now her home. She dreads meeting Farnsworth's son, Chester, and his bride. She is first repelled, then attracted by the woman, Marguerite, who hints that the men in the Farnsworth family have been no better than they might be.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER 14

(Copyright, 1930, King Features Synd., Inc.)

"Three generations, one no better than the other."

Cathie thought about it oftener than she meant to. It was absurd, of course, and the woman, Marguerite was assuredly not quite right in the head.

"Is Marguerite responsible?" she asked Mr. Farnsworth one evening when she felt she just had to talk about it to someone.

"Responsible? Just what do you mean by that?" he asked mildly, laying down the evening paper.

"Responsible. You know—mentally?"

He smiled.

"I doubt it. Why, has she been up to any queer tricks?"

"N—no."

"Well, you can get rid of her any time you want to. I've only kept her this long for sentimental reasons . . . un . . . Prefred Commodities is up again, that's good!" He had returned to the paper again. Unless she pressed it, the matter would be dropped.

"What do you mean by sentimental reasons, Alfred?"

Family Heirloom

"Oh—because Alice, Chester's mother, you know, took her in, by mother, a Mrs. Spinney, was housekeeper here in my father's time. The girl was supposed to be dying of tuberculosis when Alice found her. Put her into a home, gave her every care, and grateful? Never! Why we even paid her boys through business college, but she couldn't or wouldn't learn. Just settled down to being up to Alice and after Alice's death started on as second girl. Perfectly useless," he grunted, trying to help that class of people.

"Funny, he stayed all these years," Cathie mused, thinking of that waving dark red hair that must have been so beautiful once and the sullen eyes and bitter, sprawling mouth that was red and voluptuous still.

"Um. She did leave once, but she came back. The bad penny. Now! No more about her. I'm distressed that I didn't get rid of her before I brought you home. Decayed unpleasant character, Marguerite!"

He looked so genuinely disturbed, his smooth pink face flushed, and his mild eyes apologetic, that Cathie laughed, and laid her cheek next to his.

"Foolish! I've enjoyed her. It has given me something to think about, I . . . I haven't much to do here, you know."

No More Work

If there was a note of wistfulness in her voice he didn't notice it.

"That's good," he said, returning to the paper again. "Rest! That's what you need. You've done your share of work, dear. Rest and play; no more work!"

Rest and play. And no more work.

It sounded very nice, but Cathie was finding it more than a little difficult. Perhaps if she could have gone into a new home, one that she had planned and furnished her self, it would have been different "Buy anything you want for the house. Have it all refurnished if you want to," Mr. Farnsworth told her, generously. But there wouldn't be any sense of doing that. The house was beautifully and com-

Back Bay Couple Recover for Injuries to Wife When Struck by His Car

Verdicts totaling $6021.51 were awarded today by a jury in superior court to Mr. and Mrs. Edmund D. Codman of 141 Beacon st. in their suits against Fred S. Manley of Somerville, whose automobile struck and injured Mrs. Codman on Embankment rd. in February, 1928.

Mrs. Codman was awarded $3500 for her suffering, and her husband was granted $2521.51 for expenses incurred for doctors and nurses and hospital treatment. Both had sued for $10,000

Manley was found not guilty of operating an automobile so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public at a municipal court hearing shortly after the accident.

Edmund D. Codman was president of the old Fitchburg railroad and is a large stockholder in the Boston & Maine. It was he who urged the fight to prevent the Boston & Maine from building the Boston Garden at the new North Station, in which he was unsuccessful.

LITTLE SOLDIER LEAVES BED OF PAIN

Mother of Eleanor Green Sends Thanks for Gifts to Dying Girl

A ray of sunshine brightened the dark hours for painwracked little Eleanor Green today. The gifts of food and money have made it possible for the "Little Soldier" to leave her bed for the first time in nine long months, and see the sunlight again.

"Mamma, dear," she said, "send for the priest, and let him bless me, and I'll get better."

A shadow of a child, and yet she plays the game. An understanding mother knows the pain the child is bearing, and she marvels at her courage.

Eleanor is five but she is not like other children. She is incurably ill, and pain ways hover with her tiny body. Where most children would weigh 33 pounds Eleanor only weighs 17. Some friend informed the Boston Evening American of her condition.

NO HOPE, SAYS DOCTORS

It was said the doctors had given up hope for the child, but said that orange juice and milk daily could prolong her waning life. A story of her condition printed in this newspaper brought a deluge of generous offers of foodstuff as well as milk and money.

"If she only didn't have to die," Mrs. Green said today. "She is so good and patient. If only some doctor would give us some hope for her. A few months ago the doctor told me she was doomed. But I can't believe it.

"Everybody has been so good to us. I hardly know what to say. I lay awake during the night by Eleanor's side and think about all the givers. If I could only thank them personally, I know I could let them see how grateful I am. I want the Boston Evening American to thank them for me."

More offers of gifts and foodstuffs have come into the Ruth Roxbury tenement, and little Eleanor is gaining in strength.

PHYSICIAN SENT

One woman sent her family physician to see the "little soldier," but he shook his head doubtfully as to the possibility of any cure.

Money from all parts of the city inclosed in sympathetic letters continues to come to the Evening American. One girl wrote:

"Monday, Sept. 15, is the Blessed Virgin's birthday, and I had intended placing a bouquet of flowers on her altar. But Our Blessed Virgin has put into my mind that it would please her much better if I gave the price of the flowers to the "Little Soldier."

A letter carrier from Revere had intended buying a pair of shoes for his motherless child, but after reading about Eleanor, he said:

"The shoes can wait, and I hope my $5 will help to lessen the burden of the family."

MRS. WARNER AND BOARDER APPEAL 90 DAYS TERM

Arrested in Raid Instigated by by Wife of Patrick Corrigan, Her Companion Culprit

Mrs. Virginia Warner, investigator for the State police, who was arrested with Patrick Corrigan in a raid on her home in the West End, was given a three months' sentence today by Judge Zottoli in municipal court.

Corrigan, who was a boarder at Mrs. Warner's home, and who was found guilty with her yesterday on charges arising from the raid, was given a similar sentence.

Both appealed and were released under bail of $500 for trial in superior court.

A long and vigorous plea for leniency for Mrs. Warner was made by Atty. John Henderson, who asked that a fine be imposed instead of a jail sentence, but Judge Zottoli declared he did not think the circumstances warranted leniency.

INSISTS ON APPEAL

Judge Zottoli was willing to suspend the jail sentence, however, on her assurance that she would keep away from Corrigan, who is married, but her lawyer explained she was determined to appeal, my sentence, whereupon the court imposed the straight sentence, unsuspended.

"I am fully aware of the suffering caused both defendants because of the attention this case has attracted, but I do not believe the is a subject for commutation or that the case is one where promise of reformation would suffice," said Judge Zottoli.

"She knew the man was separated from his wife and was the father of three children. She knew she was an officer of the law and must have appreciated the probable consequences of such conduct."

HINT AT REVENGE

Although the court was informed that the finding of guilty would cost Mrs. Warner her job, officials at the State House today let it be known that they thought she had been "framed" and that the case may have a sensational aftermath.

Officials who would not be named said Mrs. Warner had incurred the enmity of quarters in a cleanup of quackery in this state and they shadowed not only Mrs. Warner but high officials of the Department of Public Safety, with revenge as a motive.

MURPHY SEEKS O. K. OF LABOR

Charles S. Murphy, candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant-governor, in a letter to President James T. Moriarty of the Massachusetts State Federation of Labor, today demanded that he be given credit for his past activities in labor although never having actually held an elective office.

As late as last July, at the State Eagle convention, Murphy pointed out, he led a fight on the floor to put the 100 per cent for a 48-hour week labor law.

"I am backed in my proposition by the present state president, Thomas Quinn of Lowell, and by the national organizer, Thomas R. Murphy of Boston, so I believe, Mr. Moriarty, that I, as a fact, have a stronger unwritten record than any other candidate has a written record, and I respectfully request that I be considered on my record," Murphy declared.

Miss Britannia to Join the Tercentenary Parade

The marvel of it all to boxing and wrestling promoters was that they hadn't thought of this branch of endeavor themselves—when A. L. Vollman announced today that he would pick a Miss Britannia to represent — strangely enough — Britannia in the city's tercentenary parade.

Vollman will be remembered as the man who once picked a "Maid of Erin" for the same parade.

When "Miss Britannia" is selected she will ride with other girls, including Alice Malone of Quincy, "Maid of Erin," in the tercentenary parade.

This new idea of the parade promoter was indicated as a "wow" today by Vollman.

"It's a wow," he said dmply, "with cute enthusiasms. Then—"It's a real wow," he added.

He has outlined a few simple rules such as "Miss Britannia" must be a real blonde.

That's probably where the trouble will start—right there.

She must be tall and stately, she must be dignified and graceful, she must have a nice carriage and a pleasing personality, and she must have a strong attractive face.

Appeals Sentence in Auto Accident

Sven W. Anderson, 60, of 75 Gaspi, Quincy, was sentenced to two months in the house of correction yesterday by Judge Albert E. Avery in Quincy District Court, when he was found guilty of going away from the scene of an accident without disclosing his identity. He appealed.

Typhoid Victim Dies

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in St. Mary's Church, Waltham, for Thomas J. Murphy of 12 Harvard pl., Waltham, who died at Waltham Hospital yesterday of typhoid fever contracted at a recent outing in Saxonville.

BERGH AGAIN IN HORSE PARADE

When the workhorse parade rolls around again this fall it will find John P. Bergh and his horse, "Charlie," on hand as usual, Bergh announced today. The veteran driver for the C. G. Pond Lumber Co. will again enter his veteran horse.

Bergh is 64 and Charlie is 28. Bergh has been driving horses 44 years and in 1915 with his horse "Daisy," won the gold medal in a field of 1200 entrants in the annual workhorse parade.

Sentenced for Using E. Boston Man's Auto

For using the automobile of Frank McCarthy of Neptune rd., East Boston, Paul J. Montgomery of Dale st., Roxbury, and William T. Kilroy of Billerica, both 26, were sentenced to one month in the House of Correction today by Judge Connolly in Brighton court. Both appealed Kilroy also appealed $125 fines for driving while drunk, without license and registration and speeding.

The case of William R. Scharton Reading attorney and Democratic candidate for attorney general was continued until Sept. 18 in Malden district court today, where he was arraigned, charged with speeding in Melrose last week.

Due to the absence of defense witnesses, Judge Ebridge G. Dailey granted the continuance following Scharton's plea of not guilty.

INDICTED FOR EXTORTION

Charles Ransford of New York, arrested recently in the investigation of an alleged extortion "ring" in Back Bay, was indicted today by Suffolk County grand jury.

Later Ransford was arraigned before Judge Francis Good in municipal court. Inspector George Augusta revealed the defendant had been indicted on a charge of extortion, and the complaint in the lower court was placed on file. Ransford was committed to Charles street jail to await arraignment on the indictment warrant September 9.

He was arrested recently by Inspector Augusta following complaint by Roland H. Parker, 28 Fayette st. Parker charged Ransford had extorted $50 from him.

Reception Planned for Miss Campbell

Miss Rosemary Campbell, the Hyde Park young woman who has been selected as the "Spirit of Massachusetts," to take part in the Boston Tercentary parade September 17, will be tendered a public reception by the several patriotic and civil societies of Hyde Park, next Wednesday evening, in Hyde Park's municipal building.

Robbers Use Fire to Cover Safe Break

While the fire department worked near by extinguishing a blaze robbers attempted to rob the safe of the Shiller Furniture Company, 1063 Cambridge st., Cambridge, it was reported today. The combination of the safe had been broken. Entrance was gained through a side window.

Even Flames Cannot Stop Boston Ocean Flight

RICHARD F. PAUL EBEN S. DRAPER

PET BUNNY HAS THREE LEGS

It may have three legs and it may have six but a rabbit's still a rabbit for all that.

This playful little animal usually possesses four legs but sometimes Mother Nature plays strange pranks.

The bunny owned by the children of Albert Boudreau, of 276 Renfrew st., Arlington Heights, is an example of this in that it is normal in every respect save one—the animal was born with three legs instead of the usual four.

After two years the rabbit seems perfectly accustomed to its three legs. It has been the mother of 24 rabbits during its life and every one of these have been entirely normal.

The three children, Barbara, 15, Albert, Jr., 13, and Edward, eight, love their bunny and, despite its handicap, think it the equal of any in the world.

BOARDMAN WILL MAKE FLIGHT

Determined to achieve his Europe and return flight, Russell Boardman, American Legion aviator, today announced that his plane, wrecked by fire yesterday, would be ready for the hop within ten day of two weeks.

Boardman had planned to hop off today or tomorrow and was fuelling for the last trial flight when the right wing burst into flames.

With Maryan Freitor, East Coast Aircraft mechanic, he fought the flames himself until he was forced to flee for fear of explosion in the gas supply.

A static spark from the pipe line pumping fuel into the right tank, or a blown cigarette spark was responsible for the blaze, which caused slight burns to the mechanic.

Within a few hours the damaged plane was loaded on a truck and started for the Bellanca factory at Newcastle, Del., for repairs.

"I'll go over as soon as the ship returns," Boardman said. "And I'm flying to Newcastle today to speed the work as much as possible."

He did not consider the blaze an ill-omen and he took pains to compliment the fire department of both the airport and the city for preventing destruction of the ship.

The delicate instruments installed for the flight and the motor itself were damaged only slightly, from the foamite used in fighting the fire.

Heavy Fog Delays Boston Shipping

The Eastern Steamship liner Boston, on return trip from New York today, was held up outside Cape Cod Canal in Buzzard's Bay due to a heavy fog which delayed shipping all along the coast. She arrived at her berth 4.ortly after 11 o'clock, four and one-half hours late.

Scores Protest Dim Thoroughfares; Ex-Councillor Flays 'Economy' When Tax Jumps

Malden is hanging kerosene lanterns in an effort to shed more light on the city's street lighting curtailment program.

After a survey of street lighting, the street and water commision ordered the Malden Electric Light Co. to remove 50 street lamps as an economy move.

Approximately 95 more are to be removed unless swelling protests are effective.

"GOOD PLACE TO KILL"

As a token of his disapproval as well as a practical relief measure, ex-Councillor Charles H. Roy hung a lantern on one of the darkened poles in front of his home in Champa ave. last night.

"This is a fine place for a murder," he said, and calling upon the street and water commissioners informed them they were guilty of "a niggardly policy of economy after a $3.80 jump in the tax rate."

There was no curtailment of the appropriation for the street and water commission, Mayor William A Hastings made known today after receiving three protests against the newly darkened streets.

"I am personally not in favor of discontinuing the lights," he added, "I would rather spend more than less money for street lighting, but the matter is wholly within the jurisdiction of Chairman Benjamin Green and the street and water commissioners."

SEES CRIME IN DARK

The commissioners admit they have received several protests with but little more than a third of the intended removals made, but claim many of the lights discontinued were unnecessary.

Ex-Councillor Roy believes crime and accidents will increase in the darkened streets, and in the specific case of the light turned off in front of his own house pointed out that his mother is aged and that his brother is obliged to use crutches.

Cambridge Man Ends Life With Shot Gun

"Don't blame anyone but me," was the note left to his wife by Giuseppe Intinarelli, 41-year-old wounded World War veteran of Ballantyne st., Cambridge, who blew his head off in the back yard of his home yesterday with a double-barrelled shot gun.

His body was found by neighbors who were roused when they heard the report of the gun.

STOPS RUNAWAY SPRAINS ANKLE

Two frightened milk wagon horses ran away for a mile in Market st., Brighton, today and made a veritable "white way" of the thoroughfare when milk was spilled all over the pavement.

The horses were halted at Morris st. by Patrolman John Regan, who chased them on the running board of an automobile. Regan was dragged several feet and sprained one ankle in stopping the mad gallop.

In their flight the horses slapped the swaying wagon against a Boston Elevated trolley wire pole, the impact sending several cases of milk out into the street.

The driver, Cornelius T. Cronin, was making deliveries when his horses bolted.

Mother of Twelve Regains Health

Salem woman gives credit to Vegetable Compound

HAWTHORNE'S House of Seven Gables is situated at the end of Turner Street overlooking Salem harbor. This historic neighborhood is now a Polish-American district. At 15 Turner St. live Mr. & Mrs. R. J. Kulakowski and their twelve healthy, happy children.

"But we weren't always happy," Mr. Kulakowski confided. "My wife was ailing for five years. First she seemed just tired and run down. Then she got weaker and weaker and became so crippled that we had to carry her from room to room. When I came home from work, I would find her crawling on her hands and knees. I was a motorman then on the Salem to Boston cars. One day I was telling my conductor about my wife and he suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Said it had helped his sister. Well, I got a bottle and she started taking it. We kept on until she took about eight bottles in all. By that time she was up on her feet and doing her work."

Mrs. Kulakowski's twelfth child was born on Easter Monday. "I have never lost a child," she says, "and none of them has ever been seriously ill. My oldest daughter is now in her teens, and I am giving her the Vegetable Compound, too."

25 SOUTH END FAMILIES ARE ROUTED FROM HOMES BY FLAMES

GIRL IS HURT, 5 RESCUED BY POLICE

Trapped by Smoke, They Are Carried Out of Hudson St. Blaze

Twenty-five families were driven to the street, five persons were rescued, and a girl was injured during a fire which broke out early today in the five-story brick dwelling at 105 Hudson st., South End.

While Patrolman William T. J Ross of the La Grange st. station was patrolling in Hudson st., he smelled smoke and tracing it found the building at 105 Hudson st. in flames. He sounded an alarm. Patrolman John Countie of the same station arrived, and with Ross entered the smoke filled dwelling and aroused sleeping families.

TRAPPED BY SMOKE

On the fifth floor, where a family were penned in by the smoke, Patrolman Ross rescued Mrs. Jennie Shaker and her 16-year-old daughter, Martha, carrying them down five flights of stairs. Patrolman Countie rescued Mrs. Nicholas Bezreh and her two children from the second floor.

Miss Olga Shaker, 17, who was asleep on the fifth floor, was aroused by the shouts of the police officer. She rushed out in her night clothing to the hallway and in order to reach the fire escape, smashed a window with her right hand. She was cut and had to be treated by a physician.

The fire started in the corridor in the rear of the first floor and spread rapidly, coming out through the roof.

Mrs. Mary Sabbnge, 75, a cripple, was rescued by her grandson, Alfred Goyette, from the fourth floor. Goyette also assisted his wife and four children to the street.

GIRL SAVES CHILD

Miss Sadie Shaker, 22, one of the prettiest girls in the Syrian section, rescued her two and one-half year old niece, Emily Khoury, who, with her mother, Mrs Mary Khoury, was spending the night at the Hudson st. house. Mrs. Khoury was ill and had to be attended by a physician after her rescue. Clide Salomon assisted his wife, Mary from the first floor.

Braintree Will Vote 6 Hours, Says Avery

Despite the fact that 3000 voters at a special town meeting last night in Braintree unanimously demanded that the State primary polls Sept. 16 be open from 11 a. m. to 8 p. m., Chairman Edward Avery, of the board of selectmen, declared today they would be open only from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m., as originally voted by the selectmen Aug. 23.

Thus, the citizens assert, allows the 3000 commuters who vote in Braintree no time to cast their ballots unless they lose half a day's work.

Selectman Horace T. Cahill, who leads the dissenters, today refused to comment on the latest ignoring of the voters' wishes.

At the stormy meeting last night Cahill was the principal speaker, and accused Avery of being "unjust and un-gentlemanlike."

Cahill and Avery are opponents this year for representative. They have been at swords points in the town for several years.

GOLDMAN HERE FOR CONCERT SEPT. 9

Noted Composer Is Presented a Key to the City by Mayor Curley

[illegible] and director and composer, was given the key to the city by Mayor Curley.

On his arrival at the City Hall it was announced he will direct the municipal band in a concert on Boston Common September 9.

The key of wood from a tree that stood on Lexington Common at the time of the Battle of Lexington, April 19, 1775, was presented at the mayor's office.

After leaving the hall, Mr. Goldman was the guest of Mrs. A. Edward Filene at a luncheon and reception at the Copley Plaza Hotel, which many prominent persons attended.

FORMER BOSTON WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Blanche George Creasey, wife of Kendall B Creasey, former publisher of a Boston Advertiser, died at Washington Wednesday after an illness of eight months, it was learned here today.

Born at Jacksonville, Vt., the daughter of John F. and Sarah A. George, Mrs. Creasey was for many years a resident of Boston. She had her art education in this city taught drawing in the Boston public schools and was the first fashion artist and fashion correspondent to be sent to Paris by the Boston Herald.

On her return to America she was fashion editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, editor of the fashion section New York Herald, and was a prominent newspaperwoman.

Subsequently she and her husband owned the Austin (Tex.) Morning American and the Bridgeport (Ct.) Evening Times. A sister is Mrs. Y. S. Williams, wife of Capt. Y. S. Williams, U. S. N.

Burial will be in the Creasey family lot at Woodmere Cemetery, Detroit.

Child of Pastor Killed by Auto

While crossing the street near her home, Mary Margie, 6, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Stanley Margie of 8 East st., North Weymouth, was almost instantly killed yesterday by an automobile operated, police said, by Walter C Jacobson, 22, of Saunders st., North Weymouth.

POLICE TO QUIZ "GHOST"

Arthur C Rowe, who reappeared alive and unharmed in Buffalo, N Y., more than a month after he was believed to have been drowned when his automobile plunged off the Point of Pines bridge on the night of July 22, will be questioned but no charges of a criminal nature will be placed against him.

A statement to this effect was made by Captain Murphy of the metropolitan police at Revere yesterday. Though the search for Rowe's body occupied the time and effort of the captain and most of his men for more than 10 days, no charge is known to the police of this station which at the present time can be placed against him.

Captain Murphy stated, however, that he would have the man brought before him between today, when Rowe returns, and Sunday and would subject him to an intensive questioning to determine just how the accident occurred and how Rowe managed to free himself from the machine.

OPERATORS OF POOL FACE JAIL

Jail sentences for all operators of pleasure pools brought before him were promised in Roxbury court today by Judge Hayden during arraignment of two men charged with setting up and promoting a lottery.

They were Harry Gordon, 35, of Lisbon st., Mattapan, and Joseph Bottary, 21, of Hamlet st., Dorchester, arrested in a grocery store in Dearborn st., Roxbury, today.

"I will jail every man found guilty before me of setting up a lottery," Judge Hayden declared. "In consequence of the so-called 'Nigger Pool' there have been many shootings in and around Boston.

"It has been brought to my attention that these number writers are going 'round the city armed with guns. The judges have got to co-operate and jail these offenders. It is the only way to stop them."

The two defendants, after pleading not guilty, were held in $2000 each for a hearing September 12.

GERMAN STAR IN BOSTON

Miss Ervel Von Alsdorf, of Cassel Germany, musical comedy actress, arrived on the New York plane at the Boston airport today. She was dressed in the new style of street pajamas, blue with a short blue coat and a blue beret. Miss Von Alsdorf will spend the rest of the week on the Cape, returning to New York next week.

MacMillan Reports Voyage Success

Albert T. Gould, Boston attorney, who represents the interests of Donald B. MacMillan, noted Arctic explorer, in this city, yesterday received word from MacMillan that he had arrived at Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, all well after a very successful voyage of exploration to Iceland, Greenland and to Battle Harbor, Labrador, on the sturdy schooner Bowdoin.

The vessel sailed north in June from Wiscasset, Me., the MacMillan base. She will leave today for Christmas Cove, Me., where the trip will end.

Trouble Ahead for Needham Officials in Tree Removal

Woodman spare that tree!
Touch not a single bough!
Remove it and there'll be Trouble and [illegible]

Not only the woodmen but the [illegible] again the matter for decision [illegible] of the town of Needham were petitioned today to spare the tree.

It is an old maple, 14 inches in diameter, and it stands on the sidewalk at the northwest corner of Great Plain ave. and Webster st. Two of Needham's three selectmen want it removed because they think it interferes with the view of traffic light signs at the intersection. But there'll be trouble and how, says Henry W Shugg Jr., of 85 Great Plain ave., if it comes down.

Shugg this morning filed a petition in the superior court at Dedham as one that the selectmen be enjoined and that an injunction issued to prevent them and Tree Wardens George Twigg and John Overton from cutting down the maple.

The tree, he claims, stands on property owned by him under an old deed even though that property is now a part of the sidewalk and the street. Removal of the maple, he says, would damage his property.

TRUCK TOSSES BABY OUT OF CARRIAGE

Infant Girl Unhurt as Bakery Auto Plunges Into Her Buggy in Allston

A truck leaped the curb in front of 120 Brainard st., Allston, today, overturning a baby buggy occupied by an infant, hurtled the child out on the lawn and demolished the carriage.

Almost miraculously, witnesses said the baby, one-year-old daughter of Mr. A Mead of 120 Brainard st., escaped with slight hurts.

In the excitement that followed the crash police could not learn how the accident happened.

E. S. Brennahan, a janitor, who picked up the child and carried her to Mrs. Mead, says he had made an effort to drag the carriage from the path of the truck.

EVERARD SEELY INSTALLED

RUTH CHATTERTON AND PAUL LUKAS STAR IN 'ANYBODY'S WOMAN'

TOPS GOOD BILL AT MET

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

FROM THE NEWSY standpoint, if such a thing there be as newsiness in the talkies, the outstanding item to be recorded about "Any body's Woman," film feature at the Metropolitan, is that a mere male has "stolen" the picture from a female of the species—a starry female a' that. Good as Ruth Chatterton is, along comes the suavely excellent Paul Lukas to snatch the laurel chaplet from her grasp. And the mere credit to Mr. Lukas that he does do this when playing in such good company.

MISS CHATTERTON has the role of a bad, bad girl whom love changes over into a very good, good girl. That ideal smoker of the pipe and matinee idol, Clive Brook, is a prosperous lawyer. Mr. Lukas is a man of mi lions interested in Mlle Ruth when she is a hard-boiled chorine. When she is hailed into court, Mr. Lukas retains

Ruth Chatterton

Attorney Brook for the defense. The movie counsel makes good, and how! He wins Ruths affection. He becomes her hero. Yes, he does have love-in the background. It's his wife. But wifey loves another, and in time—of course the scenarist would have to work it that way—the road is cleared for the lawyer to do the home-to-goodness thing. But before he does, he "goes on a bat"; and it's a tough one at that. Still under the influence of bootleg product, he rushes to the altar, and into Ruth made, for Serbia M. Clay purposes, Mrs. Clive Brook

AFTER THAT THE DELUGE! Atty Brook's friends fall away, like autumn leaves from the tree. One of the few that stick is Mr Lukas. The screen lawyer continues his drinking; and Ruth is happy when she succeeds in weaning him away from the bootleggers' wiles at the kitchen door. But alas' hubby doesn't appreciate the change taking place in this helpmeet of his; the green eyed monster is working overtime. Of course, you've guessed it is Mr Lukas. She quits the Brook domicile. But the inevitable brings them together again, of course.

OUTSIDE OF SOME Laura Jean Libby touches reminiscent of ye ancient days of the twenty-thirty shows, "Anybody's Woman" serves the purpose well enough. The crowd will like it One is amazed to find that Gouverneur Morris, whose name is associated with many brilliant short stories of a former generation, is responsible for this plot. It doesn't look like the old Morris hand; but we must remember he is writing for the movies now. Miss Chatterton is superb in her role; Mr. Lukas couldn't be better

ELABORATE WARDROBE FOR CAST OF 'DIXIANA' FILM

Put this in your memoirs, grandma! Perhaps the modern flapper was not so sacrosanct as her feminine forbears of 1840, but she is 10 times as economical in dress! This point was proved graphically during the filming of Radio Pictures' original operetta "Dixiana," to be shown tomorrow at the New B. F. Keith's

In this colorful production of the old South in which Bebe Daniels is starred, 150 beautiful creations in lavish ball and Mardi Gras scenes. This involved the making of 52 yards of cloth silks satins white cambrics and several thousand yards of lace and mitts for the negro wenches, and parasolettes. This amount of cloth will provide 156 flappers of today, with 11 2-3 dresses each, according to figures given out by Walter Plunkett, chief designer for Radio Pictures. And figure it out for yourself!

Sixteen electric sewing machines 20 flat irons and a new building became necessary to produce this extravagant ward robe. That sums up only one item of expense in the lavishly produced screen operetta

Miss Daniels has more than a dozen changes of costume which cost many thousands of dollars

ANOTHER LEADING ROLE FOR BETTY COMPSON

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

Copyright 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 5—The mere fact that Betty Compson and James Cruze are no longer husband and wife is no indication that Jim doesn't think that Betty is a talented actress and that Betty doesn't hand Jim a few compliments as a director. She is going to play the lead in his next picture, "She Got What She Wanted," a Russian story.

Here is an interesting sidelight on Betty. I am told she gets $3000 a week for her part in "The Boudoir Diplomat" at the Universal studios. The talkies did that for Betty who was only getting an average salary. She started getting $1500 a week and increased it until she is now getting double. More power to her.

Nils Asther, who hasn't been in Louella O. Parsons movie for goodness knows when, is talking terms to Cruze for the male lead. He is back from his honeymoon with Vivian Duncan, ready to continue his screen career. Alan Hale, who at one time was one of Paths's pet actors and directors, will play another one of the principal parts.

EDWARD ROBINSON, merriest on his way to New York to open in a show, received a telegram at Chicago asking him to return to Hollywood. "East Is West," starring Lupe Velez and featuring Jean Hersholt as Charlie Young, was not what Junior Laemmle thought it ought to be. He could only see Edward Robinson in the part of Charlie Young. Some way Hersholt was not convincing as a Chinese; Danish accent and his plumpness was not Oriental. Nothing against the art of Mr. Hersholt, for we all know he is a fine actor, but this particular role was not suited to his talents. He didn't have the time anyway, to make retakes for he is booked Friday to New York for a Paramount picture. Edward Robinson will don the Chinese makeup and "East Is West" will be remade.

MILDRED ZUKOR LOEW, accompanied by her two children, is on her way to Reno where she will take up her residence. Mildred, who is a daughter of Adolph Zukor and well known in Hollywood where she has often visited, will sue for divorce from her husband.

RISKS LIFE IN CANOE SCENE

Lupe Velez has suddenly decided that stunting in a cold climate is not what it is cracked up to be. In making her latest picture, "The Storm," opening at the Park today, Universal told her that a double would be used in filming the canoe scenes on location in the High Sierras. In great dudgeon she informed the director that she would permit no one to double for her

Luck was with them. There was no accident

Arthur Loew, a son of the late Marcus Loew. Mildred and Arthur were married when they were youngsters, and although they have been living apart for the last two or more years, no action for divorce has ever been started. At the time of their marriage much was written about the uniting of the Zukor and Loew fortunes, and later much was said about combining the two companies. But both Zukor and Loew were too powerful to consider any sort of an amalgamation that might lessen their importance.

Polo Princes ↑ Other Wonders
Great Cottontail Where They Come
Famous Gay Boy ↓ Where They Go

Mounts, Not Men, May Settle Big Series

Two points on the starb'd bow—"Yo! Ho! And a bottle of pop—turn your binoculars on the photographs of the polo ponies in action. A wonderful bird is the pel—eh, we mean polo pony. They can do everything but talk. Just look at the sidewheel! See that tailspun! Look at the way Tobiana, Tommy Hitchcock's favorite mount, is doing the fadeaway, turning at breakneck speed in just such a manner as to enable Tommy to hold his seat and get a good sock at the ball. A polo pony has to have more trick steps and changes of gait than the greatest broken field runner who ever tore up the gridiron. For agility he is a grown up jackrabbit.

When the ordinary polo enthusiast gets to fanning the names of Deveraux Milburn, Larry Waterbury, Tommy Hitchcock and other noted stars roll glibly off his tongue. Among those who have actually played polo, however, you will hear more talk of the great Cottontail, Cinders, Miss Jacobs, Belle of All, Ballin A Hone, Little Mary, Carry the News, Naughty Girl, Tenby, Gallery Girl, Eve, Tobiana and other famous ponies than you will of the players themselves.

George Underwood

That is right. If America triumphs in the international polo series which begins at the historic Meadow Brook Club on Long Island, tomorrow afternoon, from 50 to 60 per cent of the team's success will be due to the ponies.

What the cow pony was to the 1-time cow puncher the polo pony is to the polo player and re.

He must have speed, power, endurance, agility, head, heart and polo instinct.

He must have the "action" demanded for polo, which is about the same action as was demanded of a cow pony. Like a football player he must run low and not get too high off the ground, whether in stopping, turning or running. He can't throw his front feet rigidly to the ground when stopping for he thus becomes a "jolter." See how that bay horse in the photographic layout is stopping and turning in a tailspin with front feet off the ground? A polo pony must be as nimble, agile and sure footed as a mountain goat.

'NUTS COST FORTUNE

Mounting the teams that will cross mallets for the polo championship of the universe, tomorrow, cost a fortune. Scouts for the American Polo Defense Committee searched this country, Mexico, the Argentine and England, to get the right mounts. The Brits combed the horse marts of the world to round up their string. Ninety-nine ponies are in the American rodeo and 75 in the British.

Jupiter, for which Stephen "Laddie" Sanford paid $22,000, is the highest priced pony in the American string. Citroen, which J. Cheever Cowdin sold to R. Lehman for $10,000 is another costly American mount. Manuel, a 9-year-old bay gelding that is the pride of the British string, was bought for £1600 in England.

Flower Bed, Lovely Lady, Blue Cloud, Puddle Jumper, Faith, Fairy Story, Clock Work, Firefly and None So Pretty in the American string all cost a lot of money, as did Spock, Cross Stitch, Pocket Pistol, Sonny Boy, Royal Flush and Lady Luck in the British stables.

A polo player prizes his pony for something besides mere monetary value. Polo players become closely attached to their mounts and their mounts to them. Riders and horses often do.

When W. Averill Harriman's pony, Gay Boy, the only pony ever to play three full chukkers in an international match, was killed along with Anacondo, another famous mount, when a blazing airplane dropped from the sky on the stables, Mr. Harriman was asked what the pony was worth. He replied feelingly:

"You can't place a monetary value on priceless things. Gay Boy was just that."

Polo is tough on the man but it is tougher on the horse. A player generally uses from six to eight mounts in a game. The best of ponies only can stand two full periods in an international contest and only on rare occasions has a pony played two full chukkers. The famous Gay Boy went two full chukkers in the first game with the British in the last series and three full periods in the final, setting a record in international play.

WHEN WORK IS DONE

Not so long ago while motoring past the Whitney pastures a polo pony caught our eye — a beautiful bay mare of the close coupled weight carrying type. We knew we had seen it in action. But where? When? Suddenly it came upon us. She was Royal Diamond and had given us many a thrill in international and practice matches.

"Broken down and running the fields, now," commented a groom, who had spied us leaning on the fence rail, admiring the mare. We asked him what had become of the equine immortals.

The great Cottontail, hailed by many polo experts as the greatest of its kind, is browsing in celestial pastures, along with Temby, Eve, Ballin A Hone, Ralla, Jacobs, Cobnut, Little Mary, Cinderella and Balada.

Carry The News, one of the equine heroes of the matches in 1913, at last reports is back in Honolulu, still alive.

The noted Belle of All is a family mare now and is the mother of a colt by Chicle at the Whitney farm in Kentucky.

Miss Jacobs is leading a quiet family life, too, and is mother of colts by Prince Friarstown and Christopher Columbus. Selina also has a colt by Prince Friarstown.

THE GROOM ORATES

"Was Cottontail the best polo pony you ever saw?" we asked the groom.

"No pony ever had so many outstanding qualifications," was his answer. "My favorite, however, was Belle of All. She was an aristocrat if there ever was one. It was marvelous how she would sense a rider. With a novice on her back she would sulk and refuse to show her metle. Once she felt a real player in the saddle she was a different animal. She was as fast and quick turning as a jackrabbit and I never saw such stamina and endurance."

"Does blood and breeding count so much in a polo pony?" we queried.

"It certainly does," he answered. "Take Gallery Girl, for instance, one of the greatest ponies ever. Her grandfather was the Great Domino. On the other side of the family her grandsire was the fleet Voter. Gallery Girl was sired by Hippodrome, which you will recall was a Domino get out of a Domino mare. But, the breeding did not produce any ill effects. Economy, the noted steeplechaser, a daughter of

THE SIDESTEP. When it comes to footwork the Polo Pony can give Jim Corbett, Jem Driscoll, Benny Leonard and other famous two-footed steppers Cards and Spades.

TOBIANA, with Tommy Hitchcock aboard, swoops down on the ball like a striking hawk in a tryout match.

20 NEW MEN ON B. U. SQUAD

Two practice sessions a day following the formula of work, more work, and still more work, will be the routine for Boston University's ambitious gridders at Nickerson Field, Weston, for the next two weeks.

Hilary Mahaney, anxious to make good in his first year as head coach will spare no effort in order to develop a team that will be capable of making a showing this fall.

Of the 25 men who reported for the opening drill, 20 were newcomers and members of last year's freshmen team. From this group the new coach will try to find two backs and three linemen.

One youngster who put in an appearance and who is expected to star is Shine Clem, of Norwood. Clem is a natural athlete and has won a letter in hockey. He holds New England diving and swimming titles.

He has every natural gift for a back and Backfield Coach Al Marters will spend a great deal of time developing him. Clem was a star in high school, but was unable to play last year because of afternoon classes. This fall, however, he is free and he should make a name for himself.

Another back of whom much is expected this fall is Bud Harrington of Newton. Harrington reported to the freshmen team last year as a lineman, but Coach Washburn made a fullback out of him because of lack of backs.

Harrington came along fast last fall and should be ready for varsity competition this year. He carries the ball well and is a great defensive fullback. Mahaney will spend a great deal of time with Harrington the next two weeks.

Dorothy Hunter in Townshend Cup Win

Manchester-by-the-Sea, Sept. 5—Dorothy Hunter of Albemarle, girl's junior champion, maintained her opening-day pace and shot an 89 over the Essex County Club links here to win the first competition for the Townshend cup with a 36-hole total of 175. Mrs. Frederick H. Tarr, Jr., of Rockport finished in second position with a combined mark of 184.

Nine Heats Run Off

Pittsfield, N. H., Sept. 5—Nine heats, all hotly contested, featured the horse races at the Pittsfield Agricultural fair.

U. S. Polo Four Favored Over British

New York, Sept. 5 (AP)—The battle for a 24-year-old cup and world polo supremacy begins on Meadow Brook Club's international field, Westbury, Long Island, tomorrow with Tommy Hitchcock's American four favored to beat back Great Britain's challenge for the third successive time.

Close to 40,000 spectators are expected to witness the opening match. Although Great Britain won the first series and the next one in 1902, the United States holds a wide margin of six victories to three in the long history of the cup tests. England's only other victory was scored in 1914, while the United States regaining the cup in 1921, successfully defended it in 1924 and 1927.

Rival Lineups Are Withheld

Official announcement of the opposing lineups was not to be made until 5 o'clock this afternoon, but experts were willing to hazard a guess as to what they would be. Unless all signs and portents fail, the contenders will ride out like this:

These teams compare closely in strength as measured by handicap ratings. The United States aggregates 34 goals in handicap with Hitchcock at 10 and the others at eight each. Great Britain's team rates 33 goals with Lacey and Capt. Roark nine each; Balding eight, and Guiness seven. Since the matches are played "on the flat," or without handicaps, these figures will not affect the result, but they serve to afford a basis for comparison.

No. 1, America: Eric Pedley; Great Britain: Gerald Balding.

No. 3, America: Earle A. S. Hopping; Great Britain: Lewis L. Lacey.

No. 3, America: Tommy Hitchcock, Great Britain: Capt. C. T. L. Roark.

Back, America: Winston Guest; Great Britain: Lieut. Humphrey Guiness.

The second game will be played Wednesday, and the third, if necessary, Saturday, Sept. 13. All games will start at 3 p. m., Eastern Standard time.

SOUTHPAW GOLF TOURNEY ON

W. M. P. McDonald, Metacomet, vs. K. F. Dagnino, Bear Hill.

After four defaults in the first round and the defeat of Brice S. Evans, Sandy Burr, in the second, the fifth annual left-hand championship semifinals are underway this morning at the Wollaston Golf Club.

Grif Fallon, the defending champion, is playing D. F. Cutler of the Dedham Polo and Country Club, while W. M. P. McDonald, Metacomet, is out with E. F. Dagnino, of Bear Hill, who was the medalist of the qualifying round.

Fallon went through yesterday's matches under wraps, defeating P. T. Cumner, Intervale, and J. F. Sherwood, Plymouth, by the same scores, 7 and 6.

Fallon was "hot" against Sherwood, going to the turn in 39 and then home in 37, for a snappy 76. Cutler and Evans, who has twice held the title, battled the entire route, the former Harvard star winning when Evans three-putted the home green.

McDonald and Dagnino were far too strong for their first and second round opponents, the former winning 5 and 4 over A. P. Palmer, from the Engineers' Club of New York, and then taking H. W. Lendener, Miami, Fla., into camp to the tune of 4 and 3.

M. Starr was only able to stay 13 holes with Eddie Dagnino in the first round, but the Bear Hill southpaw received the congratulations of W. E. "Nick" Carter, Tedesco, on the 14th green.

Paul Ross Joins Hole-in-One Club

Paul Ross scored a hole-in-one at the Pine Brook Valley Club recently when he sank his tee shot at the 4th, a distance of 154 yards.

Norwich Captain Ready for Grid Games

Northfield, Vt., Sept. 5—Dewey Graham, Norwich football coach, has learned that Capt-elect Gris Coane of Brattleboro, star end, who received a broken leg in a game last fall, can play again this year.

HUB TWI SERIES FRAY TONIGHT

The Hopedales of Allston will invade Newton Upper Falls this evening at 5:30 o'clock for the second clash in the Hub Twi League Little World Series. Justin McLaughlin will pitch for Allston tonight. Bob Higgins will be Manager Tom Simpson's choice for duty on the Upper Falls mound.

The teams have met nine times this year, Newton has a 5 to 4 edge.

The fans at Smith Field, North Brighton, were treated to good baseball in the opener won by Allston, 3 to 2. Joe Ryder saved the game for Allston with a running one-hand catch in the seventh. Proctor at third for Newton and Gulusian at second for Allston made some great stops.

Giants-Cards Tied, 4½ Games Back of Cubs

The Giants lost, 7-1, to the Braves yesterday while the Cubs, with Rogers Hornsby back in the lineup, defeated the Pirates 10 to 7. The Cards beat the Reds, 13 to 2, and so went into a second place tie with the Giants, 4½ games back of the Cubs.

Veteran Brown Backs Report for Practice

Providence, Sept. 5—Lee Marshall and Finkie Gurll, two veteran backs, were numbered among the five newcomers who joined the Brown football squad in its second day of practice.

Marshall was regular fullback last season while Gurll, a former Dean Academy star, figured as the Bruin quarterback.

Brown will use the huddle again this season. The linemen were made acquainted with the huddle and later three teams used it in a signal drill which concluded the two hours and a half workout.

Weisberg Moves Up in Court Tourney

Maynard Weisberg of Dorchester, seeded No. 3 player and Massachusetts junior titlist took his second set and the match from Sumner Rodman of Boston, unseeded player and Massachusetts state boys champion, 6—3, 7—5 to advance into the fourth round of Franklin Park Tennis Clubs annual tennis tournament at Franklin field courts.

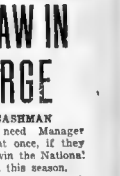
GIANTS NEED M'GRAW IN CHARGE

By JOE CASHMAN

The Giants need Manager John McGraw at once, if they still expect to win the National League pennant this season.

Dave Bancroft is smart, experienced and all that and he has done a very good job running the team during his master's absence, but the club lacks drive and confidence which the outfit always displays when Mcraw is present and pinching.



Joe Cashman

That's why the New Yorkers are falling back in the struggle when they should be gaining and why they will probably keep drooping unless the "Little Napoleon" takes active charge immediately.

With a very good chance to win out, the Giants don't either talk or act like pennant contenders.

Club Lacks Fire Without McGraw

One misplay caused the New Yorkers to look like so many bushers in two of the three games they have played against the Braves in the current series at the Wigwam.

They appeared to take defeat for granted as soon as the Tribe gained a one-run lead and to care not a bit how large a margin the natives piled up, thereafter.

As a result, they are now half a game further removed from the top than when they arrived here, and the Candinals have caught up with them.

They might not have been any more successful had McGraw been present but it's probable that they would have been, and it's certain that they would be in a much better frame of mind than they are at this moment.

Why McGraw is absent, nobody seems to know. The official reason given is that his health is poor and that he has been ordered by his physicians to keep off the bench.

Another is that he is as well as ever, but is too busy transacting private business to take charge of the team right now.

Whatever the cause, the Giants are lost without him, and the longer he remains away, the slimmer become his charges' chances of winning the pennant.

Just as in the series with the Brooklyn Robins, it the Tribe ain't not the enemy that looks like the pennant contender in the current engagement at the Wigwam.

The natives are playing as though victory in every start were of the utmost importance and giving local fans a better run for their money than they have received at either Hub ball parks in years.

And, better yet, they are convincing baseball's most bitter critics that baseball is, as always, strictly on the level and that there is not a grain of truth in the old rumor that the Giants' management controls the Braves.

The Braves deserve a vote of thanks.

N. Y. Nine Plays Hub Team Tomorrow

The champions of the Wall Street A. A. League, J. S. Bache & Company, will play Gurnett & Company in an Eastern States championship Bankers & Brokers League game at Russell field, North Cambridge, tomorrow afternoon. The game will start promptly at 3 with no admission charge.

John "Lefty" Shea, who has been the most successful of the Gurnett hurlers, is due to pitch for the local nine.

Cantab Backfield Prospects Good But Line Is Weak

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

TEAM TO TILT WITH SALEM IN 2 WEEKS

Coach Leander McDonald today plunges into serious work his Cambridge Latin football squad of more than 40 members, with the first game with Salem high school looming two weeks from tomorrow.

McDonald is blessed with a bevy of backfield men but his line has been shot to pieces by graduation. Leander must remould a line or the backs he has won't be much help in putting Cambridge Latin up on top of the scholastic football world.

John Riordan, captain, should prove one of the best centers in schoolboy ranks and will give the middle of the Cantab frontier plenty of strength. Put guard and tackle material is rather weak.

The Swieher brothers, Lawrence Mcsweeney, Manley Cohen and Peter Lekakas are five of McDonald's backfield mainstays.

Tackles and Guards Needed for Good Line

He has a pair of good ends in Palmer and Goode. But Leander has to dig up tackles and guards to complete the forward wall which now looks strong at the flanks and in the middle.

With 40 candidates to choose from this won't be too difficult a task for some of the material that reported yesterday looks strong and sturdy.

Practice will be held mornings at Russell Field, Cambridge, until school opens next Wednesday and then the Cantabs will hold their drills in the afternoon. McDonald has plenty of work ahead to whip his team into shape for the strong Salem high opposition, but feels that he has the makings of another good eleven.

CANTABS WORK HARD WITH OPENER TWO WEEKS AWAY

Hyman Rogert Frank Baudzul Joe McKenna

ROGERT AND McKENNA, guards, and Baudzul, a center of the Cambridge Latin grid squad, are shown as they may appear breaking into an enemy backfield this fall. The Cantab squad is working hard these days. It needs the practice. For the first game is only a couple of weeks away.

Capt. Reardon

CAPT. REARDON, CENTER, and Ed Barry, quarterback of the Cantabs, are shown as they work together in the opening sessions of this season. Coach Leander MacDonald's team must develop fast. The first game, with Salem high, is slated in two weeks. Salem always has a powerful grid team. It will give the Cambridge boys a tough time.

Hopper's 78 Is Feature at C. C. Open

In the annual two-day Commonwealth Country Club open a 78 by O. G. Hopper, an 18 handicap man, was the outstanding feature. Hopper's round was only five strokes away from the best gross of the field which was made by Edmund S. Childs of Lexington. Hopper was out in 37 which is only one over par, but he required 41 strokes to negotiate the inward 9.

Due to his 18-stroke handicap, Hopper is well out front with a net 60, and, although approximately 190 are playing this afternoon, both Hopper's gross and net scores will weather the assault for top honors in Class B.

Ed Childs, who is leading the field, was out in 36, but he slipped at the 13th and 14th holes coming in taking 5s and wound up with 37 coming home for the inward round.

Childs's card:

Out ..... 3 4 4 4 4 5 4 4 5—36
In ..... 4 5 4 5 4 6 4 5 5—37—73

By racing home in 35 strokes after going out in 39, A. P. Glover of Unicorn came within one stroke of catching Childs. Glover 's failure to lead the field was due to his inability to play the 4th, 5th and 6th holes, during which he used up 15 strokes. With his exception of his three at the 13th hole, Glover "fozned" all the inward holes for a 35.

Glover's card:

Out ..... 4 5 4 5 5 5 4 5 4—36
In ..... 4 4 4 5 4 4 4 4 4—36—72

J. J. Liddy, Sandy Burr, with a 79, had the best gross in Class B, and the low net in this division is J. S. Phelps, Wollaston, with an 81-18—63.

LETOURNIER SEEKS CYCLE TITLE WIN

Al Letournier, courageous little French rider, has hopes of taking over the lead for the American championship when another race in the title series, the one-hour championship contest, is staged at The Revere bike track tomorrow night.

At present he is but a single point behind the champion, Franco Georgetti, the Italian pedaller.

LeTournier faces Georgetti, Frankie Keenan, George Chapman, Franz Duelberg and Charley Jaeger in the one-hour race. This is a very strong field to lick for Chapman, the old veteran, is up with the leaders again after winning the derby a week ago.

Chapman has some back strong. He lapped the entire field with the exception of LeTournier a week ago and was but a few yards from lapping the little Frenchman.

Georgetti can also be counted upon to make LeTournier's title bid a difficult one. Georgetti finds the Revere track a bugaboo but always manages to be up with the leaders.

DIAMOND PICK-UPS

It was master vs. pupil when Lance Richbourg went to bat against Jim Chaplin in the second Braves-Giants game, the local right fielder having been the New York rookie's coach at the University of Florida two years back. The pupil had the best of the duel, Lance being able to make only one hit in four trips to the platter.

Jimmy Welsh's homer in the fourth landed a half way up in the jury box and bounded over the wall into Gaffney st.

The Braves certainly made their hits count, scoring their seven runs on eight safeties.

The Giants blame Umpire Jim Scott for the Braves' four-run rally in the eighth, claiming that Maranville should have been called out at second for running out of line. It's great to see an umpire who isn't afraid to call 'em against the leaders occasionally.

The Braves made four double plays and each was of the kind you read about but seldom see, especially the final one in the ninth.

Maranville raced behind second to stop Jackson's grounder, tossed the ball back-handed to Maguire to force Hogan and then Frederick, throwing off balance, got it over to first in time for the putout which ended the game.

The Braves' victory gave them a two-to-8 lead over the Giants in the season's series.

FANNING

Voter, was the dam of Gallery Girl.

"Most of the polo mounts," he concluded, "are blooded stock, thoroughbreds. They call polo 'the game of the thoroughbred pony and the thoroughbred man.'"

That may be so Mister Groom, but nevertheless Wrack Em Up, the wonderful mare which J. Watson Webb rode in several international matches, was found in a contractor's stable in Washington. Scaramouche looked ready for the bone pile when spotted by a polo expert. Godfrey Preece discovered Belle of Mexico running in country fairs south of the Rio Grande.

Now that we are as far south as the Rio Grande let's call it a day's fanning and get to work.

Singer Has Good Chance to Conquer McLarnin

By DAMON RUNYON

New York, Sept. 5 (US)—Jimmy McLarnin is undoubtedly one of the greatest fighters of these times. Certainly he is one of the greatest hitters, weight-for-punch considered.

But I do not share in the pessimism that seems to have overtaken some of the admirers of Al Singer, the lightweight champion of the whole world. With reference to his match with "The Belfast Buffer," I think Singer is a better fighter than his pals appear to take him when they are talking about the McLarnin match.

Damon Runyon

Many of them seem to think Singer is in for a whitewashing, and possibly a repeated spell of coma. I am not so sure of that. I have inspected McLarnin's history with some care and nowhere in it do I find any mention of a private cemetery. I mean to say I find no incident of manslaughter in his career. He is just a high grade little ringman—and so is Al Singer.

McLarnin fought Sammy Mandell a couple of times. In one battle he got his mouth stuffed with boxing glove leather for 15 delirious chuckers. In the other he nicked Mandell going away, but he didn't flatten Samuel. Singer stretched Samuel in mighty short order. So what? So Singer has a chance to stretch Jimmy McLarnin. And I don't care how long the Broadway boys are wearing their faces thinking of the result. The Broadway boys love Al.

SINGER HAS GOOD CHANCE

I am not predicting Singer will lick McLarnin. I am merely pointing out that Singer has a mighty good chance of licking McLarnin. The latter hasn't fought for some time. And the last bout in which I saw him didn't strike me as remarkably creditable to James.

I saw him fight Young Jack Thompson in the Garden, and while Jimmy's hand may have been as bad as was afterward claimed, I thought the jury favored him no little in giving him the decision. Young Jack didn't seem to be greatly over-awed by McLarnin's widely advertised punching power, and I doubt that Jack was tipped off to the bad duke.

McLarnin is a well managed fighter, if anybody sizes up and asks you. His manager, old Pop Foster, is easy to deal with if the proposed opponent is lighter than James, or a soft puncher.

But Pop becomes very, very hard when they start talking to him about a lad as big as James, or bigger, who can also punch. I was rather surprised at his speedy acquiescence to the Singer match, for Singer is a real good hitter.

SINGER VERY FAST

Moreover, Singer is fast and shifty. He is a smart little boxer, and his speed ought to offset McLarnin's weight. Ray Miller, a normal 130 pounder, fought McLarnin twice, giving James plenty the best of it in poundage, and James proved no man-killer against him. In fact, in their first fight in Detroit, Miller got a knockout mark over McLarnin because the latter had such a bodily cut eye the referee halted the proceedings.

Their second fight took place in New York, and it was a dreadful thing to see. McLarnin acted as if he was afraid of Miller's famous left hook, and Miller carefully refrained from using said hook, so the clients went away vastly disgruntled.

It was about as punk a fight as was ever seen in the three parts. There was nothing wrong with it—that is, the boys were leveling, but it would have been better had they been doing a nice fast Dan O'Leary.

Now if McLarnin couldn't squash Mandell or Miller to the resin, I see no reason to think he can spread Singer with the rapidity his admirers expect. As a matter of fact, McLarnin isn't an extraordinary knockout-er, anyway. In 63 fights he has flattened only twelve opponents.

AL KAYOED 18 FOES

Singer has a higher batting average against the chins. He has knocked out 18 opponents in 54 fights. I believe that some of Singer's friends think he is being "rushed" in this match with McLarnin—that he hasn't had sufficient experience.

If a boy with 54 fights behind him hasn't had sufficient experience he will never have sufficient if he lives to be 90. And to suggest that a champion of the world hasn't had sufficient experience strikes me as slightly ridiculous.

Singer was knocked out by Ignacio Fernandez in three heats in 1929. But last winter he took the same Fernandez in the Garden and gave him a boxing lesson in ten rounds, which was better than knocking him out, because many of the long suffering clients were looking for a diverting.

U. S. Regains Earl of Derby Trophy

Toronto, Sept. 5 AP)—The United States regained the Earl of Derby trophy and the international seniors team golf championship today, defeated England and Canada in a series completed today. The final score was: United States, 24 points; Great Britain, 14; Canada, 14.

The Americans led at the end of play in foursomes yesterday, 8½ points to 6 for Canada and 2½ for Great Britain. Today in singles the Americans scored 20 points to 10 for Great Britain and 7 for Canada. The latter two teams halved two matches.

Goodrich Loses in Last Ring Showing

Scranton Pa., Sept. 5 (AP)—Making his final appearance in the ring, Goodrich, former world's welterweight champion lost a 10-round decision to Pete Suskey, local welterweight, here tonight.

Goodrich, a Buffalo boy and native of this city, announced his retirement at the end of the bout. He will assume duties in the near future as a referee in New York state.

MR. BOSTON BY JACK CONWAY

I met Mr. Boston coming out of a downtown clothing store with a couple of boxes under his arm.

"Why the luggage?" I asked the veteran. "Going on a polar expedition?"

"Just bought a couple of suits," replied the veteran. "I wanted to become a member of the Boston Evening American's Buy Now Club. Everything will be like if I am able to buy some neckties and hats to match the suits.

"I have been at Hingham on the South Shore all summer. Down there fancy clothes are out of order when one is boating, fishing and playing golf.

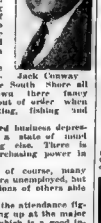
"The so-called business depression is more a state of mind than anything else. There is still great purchasing power in New England.

"There are, of course, many persons who are unemployed, but there are millions of others able to buy.

"I find that the attendance figures are picking up at the major sport events, which is a good indication of conditions.

"Eddie Mack's Argonne A. A. drew a gate of $53,000 for the Schaaf-Hunt bout. This was the most money drawn by any boxing bout in Boston during the outdoor season. The contest failed to come up to expectations, but the crowd of 12,000 proved that the fans will pay from $1 to $4.60 per tickets if offered what they consider a proper attraction.

"The football fans at Maranville Day at Braves Field is proof that the baseball fans still have money.



Jack Conway

Athletic Leaders Keep Earnings in Circulation

"Leaders in the various branches of athletics spend freely. The money which they receive indirectly from the public goes back to the same public as they purchase new homes, expensive automobiles, new furniture and other home fixtures, and as they spend in entertaining their friends.

"Boxers have contributed more than other athletes to buying campaigns. They like the fine things of life and as soon as they get the big money they satisfy their desires in this respect.

"Jack Sharkey, Jim Maloney, Al Mello, Ernie Schaaf and other New England boxers have either built or purchased homes. Their wives have centered around their family life.

"What money Sharkey has earned in New York and Florida has been spent or invested in New England.

"The same is true in the case of Jim Maloney. He made much of his money as a boxer in New York but has spent and invested it in Boston.

"When Al Mello picked up a purse of $18,000 for battling Ace Hudkins in New York, he purchased a home in Lowell.

"I believe people who buy homes, automobiles and other things which are necessities and which they can afford are adding to the prosperity and happiness of everybody in their community.

Ruth and Dempsey Spent Fortunes

"Babe Ruth and Jack Dempsey have been two of sports' leading spenders. In some cases they may have spent money unwisely, but they certainly have kept their cash in circulation.

"In several years each of these famous characters have used better judgment in their expenditures. They have not denied themselves any of the luxuries of life, but they have refused to toss their earnings into wildcat schemes.

"When the big football games come this fall, one will not believe there is even a remote business depression. There will be thousands of people clamoring for the opportunity to pay fancy prices for the tickets to the big games. They will also buy proper clothing for the football clashes and for the social life that follows every big game.

"Meanwhile join the 'Buy Now' Club and start the wheels of prosperity whirling."

CRUICKSHANK IS LANNIN LEADER

Salisbury Plains, N. Y., Sept. 5 (AP)—Bobby Cruickshank held a two-stroke lead at the halfway mark of the 72-hole J. J. Lannin memorial open golf tournament today, with the final 36 holes just ahead.

The Purchase, N. Y., professional scored a 71 in the second round yesterday, which, with his 70 on the opening round, gave him a 36-hole total of 141. Tied at 143 were MacDonald Smith, Gene Sarazen and Charles Lacey, English-born pro of the Pine Valley Club at Clementon, N. J.

Fifth place was held by "Long Jim" Barnes with 144, while Bill Burke of Greenwich, co-leader with Lacey in the first round, was sixth with 146.

Far down in the list were such well-known stars as Al Espinosa, 150; Tommy Armour, 151; Horton Smith, 153; Leo Diegel, 153; Wiffy Cox, 154; T. P. Perkins, 156, Harry Cooper, 156; Ed Dudley, 158, Maurice McCarthy, 158.

The last two rounds will be played today.

Dartmouth Gridmen in First Workout of Year Monday

GREEN HURT BY LOSS OF NEW MEN

By BILL GRIMES

Within two weeks the reign of baseball, golf and tennis for 1930 will begin to totter for already Old King Football has made his appearance on the sport horizon.

Many college grid squads already are busily engaged conditioning themselves for a strenuous season. The United States Military and Naval Academy squads have been working out daily for more than a month, while here in this vicinity Boston College and Boston University are hard at work at the Heights and Nickerson Fields respectively.

Bill Grimes

Another week will elapse before Harvard and Yale squads are due to report. Although the Harvard outlook is bright, the recently released Yale ineligible list paves the way for the annual Eli moan.

Coach Jackson will put his Dartmouth gridsters through their first session Monday at Hanover. Due to the fact that Dartmouth lost by graduation such stars as Al Marsters, Hal Boome, Ellie Armstrong and "Tex" Cole, Coach Cannell is facing one of the most difficult assignments a Big Green mentor has tackled in years.

Soph Stars Lost to Green This Season

Together with the loss of this quartet of first string varsity men Cannell must build a new line outside his center trio from last year's substitutes for practically none of the more prominent 1930 freshmen players will be available this fall.

The failure of the freshmen to keep off probation is a blow to Dartmouth. The class of 1933 brought an array of athletic and especially football stars to Hanover but many of them were flunked out during their first year, while others came under the ban of the Dean's office.

Coach Cannell was banking on Ranborn and Wilson for varsity backfield men and was of the opinion that Mudge and Campbell were promising varsity line material.

Mackey, a former Horace Mann school all around athlete may be eligible for he has two deferred examinations to take this fall, but the others are definitely out.

Among the last year freshmen who are expected to gain recognition with the varsity are three greater Boston boys, Rollins of Brookline, Branch of Medford and Connolly of Beverly.

Ex-Medford High Lineman Ready to Play

Ro[illegible] quarterbacked the freshmen team last year and previously had piloted elevens at Exeter and Brookline, while Branch came from Medford high and was one of the smartest centers developed in the Suburban League in years. Connolly is a product of St. John's Prep and a most promising end.

Fortunately for the coaches, players and spectators no radical changes have been made in the rules, other than the insistence of a full second pause after a shift, the rules remain unchanged.

Referee's equipment this year will include a split second stopwatch to determine the length of the pause after a shift. In the past officials have been weak calling this infraction of the rules and it is doubtful if a stop-watch will offset their lack of courage.

In some sections of the country, particularly the South, night football will be given a thorough tryout this season. Due to the extreme heat in which games in the South are played it is quite likely it will be more successful from both the standpoint of players and spectators to hold football contests in the evening under floodlights.

However, there is little chance of night football gaining popularity in the North where daylight games are often played while the thermometer is flirting with the freezing point.

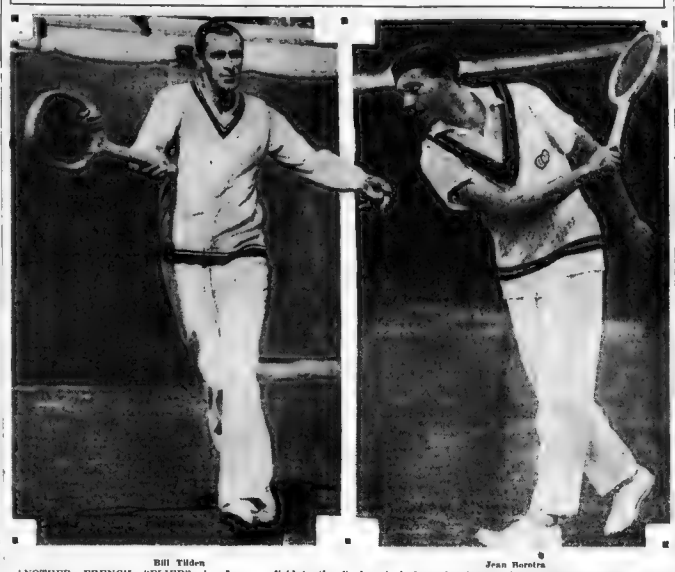
INVADER AND U. S. DEFENDER IN NATIONALS



Bill Tilden Jean Borotra

ANOTHER FRENCH "FLIER" is Jean Borotra, the Bounding Basque who hopes to start a non-stop flight to the national singles tennis title at Forest Hills tomorrow. Big Bill Tilden is Uncle Sam's hope. Tilden and Borotra are picked to march through a large field to the finals. And then the bereted "bounder" may be "cracked up." Borotra's entrance into the national singles gives the tournament a good deal more color than it would ordinarily carry due to the remarkable play of the fleet Frenchman.

French Davis Cup Star Seeks National Singles Title

New YoYrk, Sept. 5 (AP)—The national men's singles tennis championships get under way at Forest Hills tomorrow with a first-round clash between Jean Borotra of France and Berkeley Bell of Austin, Texas, expected to provide most of the fireworks.

The first day's schedule of 31 first-round matches will cut the field of 95 by about one-third.

The luck of the draw was all against Borotra, favored with Big Bill Tilden to reach the final round. Not only was he pitted against such a formidable first-round opponent as Bell, but probably will be forced to meet another first ten" player in the second round, Fritz Mercur of Bethlehem, Pa.

Tilden's first-round opponent will be C. Lincoln Halberstadt of New York. Both this and the Borotra-Bell battle were to be stadium court attractions on the opening day. So also will be the contests between Sidney B. Wood, Jr., New York, and Weller B. Evans, East Orange, N. J.; G. Lyttleton Rogers, Ireland, and Edward E. Jenkins, Jr., New York, and John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., vs. Arnold W. Jones, Providence

The other 26 first round matches will be played on the outside courts.

AUTO RACES AT BROCKTON FAIR

Auto racing will be one of the features of the annual Brockton Fair which will open next Tuesday. These motor races are sanctioned by the contest board of the A. A. A. and any records set will be official

The record for a single circuit of the half mile track is 39 seconds. Noted drivers like Ralph De Palma, Sig Haugdahl and others have tried in vain to better this time at the Brockton track.

Special prizes are offered to any driver who can set a new mark and with the capable pilots and machines entered it is possible that the record will be shattered

A driver this year who will attract attention is a French actress Mlle. Helle-Nice, who was in musical comedies for several seasons and who then took up auto racing. Her records in her own country are recognized by the Automobile Club of France, which is affiliated with the A. A. A.

Rick Decker, who was in a spill on the New Jersey Speedway recently, also will drive. Larry Heals of Nobscott, Herman Schurch, of Hollywood and Billy Winn of Kansas City are to race.

In addition to the big races there will be events for Model T Ford cars of stock pattern. On one of these the New England Championship will be at stake

Kelley Likely to Be H. C. Quarterback

Worcester, Sept. 5—Doc Kelley of Baltimore, has stepped into the quarterback berth in the early practice sessions of the Crusaders here, and if he continues to shine as well, has a fine chance to take over the pilot's job on the varsity for this year

Three new candidates have reported to Head Coach John McEwan, John Callahan of Malden Joe Donahue of Arlington, wingmen and Cy Mankiewicz of Wilkesbarre, Pa., a halfback

Callahan, a former all-scholastic end at Malden high school, and an H. C. sub end last year, is in the best shape of his grid career. He has put on some needed poundage and should make a great bid for a regular job at end.

This afternoon at the Pearl st. field, Malden, the latter team will battle Roslindale in the third clash of the ninth annual Greater Boston Twilight league little world series

Originally the game was slated for Fallon field, Roslindale for today but the gate was small, at that park, for the opening game of the series, so the contest was shifted to Malden

Malden will be fortunate in playing on its home field but Roslindale has hopes of retaining the championship of a year ago when it won four straight games from Quincy after dropping the first three

Duke Sedgwick will hurl for Roslindale. Al Krippe is expected to toss for the home club

Sally Thurston of the Malden team will not play in the series any longer. Sally has gone to Chicago where he is to coach the Richland Park high school teams.

Sunday afternoon the clubs will play at Fallon field

Cops Stop American-Record Nine 8 to 2

The Boston American mail tossers were stopped by Boston police at Roslindale last night.

The police team, watched carefully from the bench by supt of Police Michael H Crowley, went away with an 8 to 2 victory over the men of the press A bad first inning before the Boston American nine could get its regular lineup in the game wrecked the work of Pitcher Paul Schley

Manager Brawley of the defeated ball players is seeking a return date right out in the sunlight. In the police lineup were Calvin, cf; Waite, 3b T. Sullivan, cf; Player manager Kelly, ss, Murray, c Tipping 1b; Crowley, 2b Leary lf Harnois, p. The umpire was Bill Carlan

Sand Lot Notes

Because they were rained out in their last attempt to stage the third game of their series for the Peninsula title, the South Boston B. B. C. and the Knights of Lithuania will get at it again on Sunday afternoon at Columbus Park with the game starting at 2:30.

Frank Roll will hurl for the South Boston B B C., while Preskins, former Mechanic Arts pitcher will be on the mound for the Knights. O'Brien will catch Roll with Lucas behind the plate for the K of C outfit.

St Mark's H. N. S., which has been the cradle of some of the foremost semi-pro ball players in New England, will have many of its products back in the lineup when it faces either the Neponset Wanderers or the Malden Club at the Dorchester Town Field on Sunday afternoon.

Sunday's opponent for St. Mark's will be determined by the winner of the Wanderer Malden clash at Dorchester Town Field tomorrow.

Joe Shea of R C. who has been playing with Orleans down on the Cape; Joe Sullivan, who has played a good game for Garrett & Co champions of the Bankers and Brokers League, and Billy Marshall and Joe Concannon, also members of Orleans during the summer, will be back in the H. N. S lineup

All these boys graduated from St. Marks ranks to get into the more lucrative divisions of sandlot baseball but are anxious to get back in their old un forms now that they're needed for the big games

Johnny Murphy, acclaimed the "most valuable" player in the Cape Cod League for the season just closed, will do some hurling for his home town nine, the Somerville Cubs, with which outfit he started his semipro career.

EAGLES LOSE VETERAN LINEMAN

Coach Joe McKenney's plans for a veteran line from end to end received a setback today when it was announced that Jack Maloney, guard, would not return to the Heights this fall.

Maloney, according to word received from New York, has transferred to St. John's College, Brooklyn. He is a native of the Big City, where he attended St. Xavier's high school before coming to B. C.

Maloney played a fine game at right guard last season, starting the first five games. Because of his unusual speed and strength, McKenney had built much of his offence about Maloney's interference.

With Maloney absent the guard position will undoubtedly be filled by Bud Gorman. When Maloney slipped in mid-season Bud took his place and played regular for the rest of the season, starting the Holy Cross game

The only candidates who as yet have not appeared for practice are Jon Fleet, Chesey Antes and Colbert. Culbert has reported to McKenney but due to the fact that he is already down fine after a summer of baseball on the Cape, the coach has excused him from actual workouts until next week.

Buddy Roy, halfback, and Sullivan, end of last year's freshman squad, are in uniform. Tom O'Brien also has joined the squad.

170 Men in M. G. A. Links Tournament

With the winning of the Townsend cup by Dorothy Hunter of Albemarle at Essex county completing the major golfing event of the week for women, the men swung into their first tournament following the holiday when 170 participated in the first day of play in the M. G A. open medal play event at Commonwealth

Semi-Annual Report
Business For First Six Months of 1930 Far Ahead of Same Period Last Year

At this time we wish to submit the semi-annual report of our Question & Answer Department, as compiled by Chairwoman of the Board, Aunt Bella Sykes (nee Jute), as follows—

Sept. 2, 1930.

Dear Friends and Subscribers.

This opportunity comes as a complete surprise to me, as I did not realize that the six months' period was up yet, so absorbed am I in my work and other things. But I am pleased to report that our Question & Answer business during the last six months exceeds, yes, and more, the number of questions asked during the same period in 1929, and has grown steadily since its conception in January of this year. I wish I could let you see my figures sometime—but that is not practical. I have answered personal queries from all the crowned heads of Europe. I have answered the call of wild lonely hearts, male and female and male. I have cared for the sick and wounded. I have bought—I mean brought—cheer for millions. The way things looks now, your Aunt Bella does not have to take a back seat to no one in the Q. and A. racket. Our plans for expansion are nobody's business, and include many novelties, such as answers dropped from balloons, the use of television, etc. I want to thank all those who have so kindly refrained from sending insulting and offensive letters, and to the others I wish to say that I hold no ill will toward no man, but so far as I am concerned, some people would get a lot further by cutting out the rough stuff. Thanking you one and all for your support, I am yours with a Capital A—

Aunt ("Work and Win") Bella.

Simile—

Hard as finding a dry after 6 p. m.

Several New York department stores have banned the wearing of spats by salesmen, on the theory that a spat-wearing salesman makes the customer feel so inferior that he refuses to buy.

But that could be easily adjusted by having each salesman let one garter drag.

The customer would then feel so superior that he'd probably spend his money like a drunken sailor's bootlegger.

Of course, there are some people who just can't feel very strongly about salesmen—with or without spats.

And many of us have mislaid the key.

MEN OF THE HOUR

This is Ambergris G. Cruz, friend of the people, who is now busy with a correspondence course to teach the art of life-insurance selling to householders who would like to try a counter-irritant on Fuller brush men.

Critics of Mr. Hoover declare he has appointed fifty-seven commissions of "outstanding men" and at the same time they say he has done nothing to relieve unemployment.

By the way, what is an "outstanding man"? Apparently he is somebody who is standing out waiting for the lightning of recognition to strike him.

Think of Yourself, But Not as a Saint—Get Down to Earth

All Have the Same Chance, Some Get Smaller, Some Bigger—Elsie Robinson

LISTEN, WORLD!

"YOU'RE ALWAYS saying 'forget yourself,'" he writes, "and telling us that is the way to be happy. But that's nonsense and you know it. No one can forget himself, or stop thinking about himself—"

That's true. There are, I suppose, saintly creatures who can completely eliminate self from their thoughts but I'm certainly not one of them. It's dollars to doughnuts, neither are you. Saints aside, every last one of us think of ourselves from cradle to grave. But—some of us think in one way and some in another—and therein lies the whole secret of happiness or misery.

Elsie Robinson

I step to the door of my cabin. Below me the mountains fall away, gully and ridge, emerald, indigo violet, beaten gold, down and down to the shimmering plain. Immediately before my door lie the few acres which I own. I love those acres—they are intensely precious and important to me. The life within their boundaries . . . the turnip seed I sowed yesterday . . . the crop of wheat, just in . . . the three new pigs and the chicken house I'm framing . . . these lie close to my heart as the throb of my own blood. Yet, closely as these acres touch me, I cannot look upon them without seeing and feeling the rest of the mountains.

Delight in All Things

When my earth suffers from drouth, I feel the panting agony of that other parched soil. When rain falls on my grain fields, I feel those other fields breathing their deep delight. Boundary fences mark the limit of my legal ownership, but no fences can divide that communion which I feel, not only for my ranch, but for all other earth.

And because of that communion my life is inexpressibly enriched. My life stretches out and out, over and beyond boundary limitations, as the soil stretches. I own not only the earth and experience which is enclosed within my bosom, but all that lies without as well—the wide sunshine, the gypsy wind, the adventure of the seasons and all the joy and despair of those who live by the soil. When we have "a good year" I feel as if I had a share in the success of every ranch in America. When we have "a bad year" I am their companion in misfortune and they are mine. And all this is possible because I realize that all acres, whatever the name on the title deed, are of one clay.

Do you want a great life—a life that is filled with drama and mystery, power and happiness, curiosity and enthusiasm and comfort in time of distress? That's the way to get it. Think of your life as you would think of an

Making Life Grand

Do not think of yourself as scorning set days—as certain special acres with different necessities, different seasons, with more important crops and more poignant ploughing. Realize, rather, that your drouth is one with all other drouths—that the forces which move through you are all of a piece with those forces which move through all other human clay—and that your agonies and ecstasies, your dreams and despairs are universal.

Think of yourself? Of course you must think of yourself. But consider how you think of yourself. Think of yourself in one way and your life will be as small and tight and arid as that clod at your feet. Think of yourself in another way—including all other selves with yourself—and your life will be as wide as the horizon.

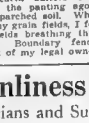
Cleanliness the Big Thing

Physicians and Surgeons Are Strictest in Living Up to the Biblical Saying

By DR. R. S. COPELAND

IF "CLEANLINESS is next to godliness," as the Biblical saying goes, then certainly it should be applied in the case of an injured member of the anatomy. Everyone should know what to do in case of a cut or wound in the flesh.

When we speak of cleanliness in this sense, we mean surgical cleanliness. A surgeon will use bichloride of mercury or some other antiseptic in treating a wound, but in first aid rendered by a layman, water which has been boiled and cooled is one of the best things with which to wash out a wound.



Dr. Copeland

It matters not whether the wound is a cut with a knife or the like, a tear in the flesh by a piece of tin or rusty nail. In any case absolute cleanliness is the secret of right healing.

Before touching the victim's wound a person should wash his hands very thoroughly with soap and water. Then clean the finger nails carefully, after which wash the hands again.

Apply the sterilized water, either pouring it copiously over the wound or applying it with pieces of steel gauze or cotton. Wash out eyes, if particles of dirt, cinders, bits of wood or any other foreign substance. Clean the wound thoroughly with the water.

After cleaning the wound should be dried with a piece of the gauze. Then the edges of the wound be brought together with strips of adhesive tape, using the strips crosswise of the wound. The wound should not be entirely covered but enough left exposed so that there will be drainage.

Then cover the whole with several layers of gauze and bandage it well. Of course, later a surgeon can use sutures and give treatment if necessary.

If the patient is in a place where sterilized water cannot be had in an emergency the cleanest water possible should be used. The bandaging can be done with a clean piece of cloth or clean handkerchief. However, the wound should be seen by a doctor as soon as possible and the proper treatment given.

Every household should have its first aid kit. It can be had very reasonably. Have at least a solution of iodine (a 7 per cent solution is all right) and bandages to suit the other injuries. It should be painted on and around the wound before washing with sterilized water.

Answers to Health Queries

O. S. L. Q.—Are ultra violet ray treatments considered good for eczema?

A.—Yes.

E. Q.—Is there danger of contracting tuberculosis by visiting a house where there is a tuberculur patient?

A.—No.

R. W. V. Q.—Can facial paralysis be cured in a boy of 14?

2.—Can a goitre be cured and how?

A.—Facial paralysis can be cured by electric massage and baking over facial nerve region in some instances.

2.—For goitre the first consideration must be given to building up the general health. Fresh air, sunlight, well ventilated sleeping room, good food and placid mind are essential to the cure. Hot fomentations are useful in reducing goitre. For further particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope.

The Beauty Box

—By HELEN FOLLETT—

GREEN, LEAFY vegetables, rich in mineral salts, are tonic to worn, nervous women. A green salad should be eaten every day. Every day the menu should include a full glass of orange juice, for the sake of the teeth and the intestinal tract. Milk is an excellent food, and should be sipped slowly. Raw carrots, cabbage and celery are complexion aids.

When food is eaten slowly and thoroughly masticated, less energy is required to digest it. Individuals who bolt their chow, rush through a meal at lightning speed, usually take on a larger load than they need, and suffer from a feeling of tummy fullness and discomfort. The girl who desires sparkling eyes and a clear complexion must not eat and run.

Liver spots on the hands are, oftimes enough, merely a collection of freckles run together in bunches. Many a woman who has these hateful spots on her hands in the Summertime is surprised to see that they migrate like the birds in cold weather. Treatment consists of protection from the sun's rays and by anointing every night with a heavy tissue cream containing peroxide.

Coats for Your Type

Directed by AMOS PARRISH

New York, Sept 5—Individuality! That's something fall and winter coats have a whale of a lot of.

From where we sit, it looks as though this were going to be one of the most exciting fashion seasons we've ever known—as far as coats are concerned.

There's not going to be much chance to get bored looking at them. Because they're all going to have something different to look at.

They're much more luxurious in appearance. The fabrics are finer looking. The fur trimmings are beautiful and treated in new ways.

Everything about them tends to give you an expensive look—even though the coat isn't expensive at all!

And every coat looks different from the next. Every woman can't have a coat made to order this year—but she can look as though she'd had

Variety in New Modes

We've chosen four of the newest coat silhouettes and had them sketched for you. Not that these are the only four we could have picked. But they show you so quickly just how much variety there is in these new modes.

First is the coat with the wide wrap-around and the belt to hold it closed.

Vionnet started this fashion of the wide wrap. And thousands of fashionable women like it better than any other—not only because it gives the feeling of a slight flare that they find becoming, but because the wide wrap gives extra warmth.

This coat has a shawl collar of fox. But as we said, every coat looks different from the next. And another wide-wrap coat might have an entirely different collar of different fur.

Tuxedo Fur Trim

Isn't this next a luxurious looking affair? The long tuxedo band of fur makes anybody look regal! And the end of the scarf collar can be tucked inside the coat, or worn pulled through, scarf-wise, as in the sketch.

The third coat we've picked to illustrate the great variety in silhouette is the straighline coat with the slight flare at the bottom. It's one the tall woman can wear very smartly.

Bolero Back Coat

Another coat, certainly different from the ones we're used to seeing, is the one with bolero effect in the back. And the bolero is a Patou invention, you remember.

Women have liked this bolero in their dresses. They like the straight, kind line it gives from underarm to hip. The bolero back coat does the same thoughtful kindness to the back!

The woman who's inclined to be "sway-backed"—and of course thousands are—is going to like the straight back line the bolero effect gives.

Just four coats—out of thousands. So it's easy to see there's sure to be one that looks as though it had been made just for you. Just your type.

DOUBLING FOR LOVE -:- By Winifred Van Duzer

Judy Swoons When Gripped by the Throat, But Wakes Up to Find Tris Standing Guard With His Revolver

CHAPTER 38

STRONG ARMS came through the open window and caught Judy by the throat. The arms were long and wiry and the sleeve that pressed her nostrils smelled horribly of machine oil.

She tried to scream, but the sleeve pressed harder; she made a frantic effort, drew her nails down a sweating face, caught a handful of thick greasy hair and pulled with all the strength of her firm, young muscles.

The pressure tightened on her throat. Through the unbearable roaring in her ears she heard Tris rip out a horrible oath—felt his weight as a shattering blow fell.

The hands at her neck went slack and she caught her breath in a long sob as a body poured backward through the window and fell with a thud.

Judy Is Scared

Things drew away from her then. She was sinking—sinking into nothingness. Hands were at her shoulders; hands were shaking her Tris's voice was calling thick with strain

"Judy—for God's sake—"

A shadow at the window on the other side of the cab. Out of the fog that swirled in her brain flashed a warning—brought her to her senses.

"Tris—look—"

A quick stab of fire in the dark. Then Tris was grounding over her, the revolver in his hand. He kept saying, "The rat! I'll get him for this. Dirty, double-crossing rat—"

Two men were running away and there was a huddle on the pavement. There had only been three after all! One ran crazily, with his arm dangling in a sickening way and the chauffeur was kicking at the huddle on the pavement.

"Let 'em go hold up, Miss, Madame," he told them excitedly. "Zis one is what you say knock' out. It arranges itself zat one now calls the police, hein?"

Tris asked frantically, "Did he hurt you? Judy—he'll never get up if he hurt you—"

"I'm—only scared." Her voice was like a sigh. "Take me away, Tris."

"Right." He got out of the cab, drew the chauffeur away. Judy could not hear what they said. The chauffeur shrugged, kept pointing at the huddle on the ground. Then Tris thrust money into his hand and the man did not protest any more.

When he climbed back he was muttering. "One comprehends. But yes, one wishes no more of zat one."

Tris cradled her in his arms, pressed her face down on his shoulder, lips against her temple. He said little lovely things; stroked her hair, running his fingers along her face.

But she thought of his thick, harsh voice when she cried "I'll get him for this—the rat—" And of the way he looked when he crouched with the pistol in his hand. She shivered.

He drew her wrap closer about her throat, rocking her back and forth. "Little sweet, little one—"

"What's it all about, Tris" You've got to tell me now. You've refused this. You wouldn't trust me. Oh, I know! That first day in the Public Gardens—well, you laughed at that. You said the sailor thought you were someone else. This wasn't true. You knew it wasn't true. I can't stand it, Tris."

His fingers were cold against her cheek. He seemed all at once infinitely remote. Cold and remote. He answered quietly

"You can't believe in me. Some are made this way, Judy. They stir trouble. Human storm centers. Maybe God knows why. All right if you can take it out in work. Settle down in one place, keep within bounds. I never could

"I love you. If you ask me to change everything—start a new life—I'll try. Do this for you I can't promise. The prodigal strain is in my blood. It's a fire that burns and burns and never gives me any rest. I wish it were different, but there it is.

"You see, I never had any real happiness until I knew you. I feel in what I've searched for without ever knowing what I wanted, the kind of love you have to give"

The sadness that was in him! Lonely and lost. Judy came very near to loving him then. Felt that she did love him. She pulled his head down, kissed him

"I have to know more about things, dear, my dear. Who is the sailor? The man we left in the road back there, Tris, I don't believe he is a sailor at all. He's never done hard work before. His hands show that. Why don't you give him to the police? Tell me—"

When he answered, after a long pause, he knew nothing she had not already guessed.

Who Is That Man?

"There are hazards in a life like mine. That rat is one. The police don't belong in this." His voice snapped on that. "Oh, I've done things, Judy. I don't say they were wrong, perhaps. Outside the law. Does—does it end everything?"

"No. Not that alone."

"Believe this, then, that I've never hurt anyone who couldn't stand hurting. And I've never been a quitter. Not even with you!"

The spidery man had turned traitor to Tris Something between them once, and now the other had come back to claim her. Judy would shield him because this was his code.

She murmured over and over, "It's all right—it's all right—"

Do You Know That—

COMPRESSION of natural gas to liquid is a rapidly growing industry, says the bureau of mines. Designed for consumers not on mains, the industry expanded 120 per cent in 1929.

One trip of a tri-motored mail-passenger transport over the Chicago-San Francisco route is the nation's longest airway, requires 1,400 gallons of gasoline.

At the beginning of 1930 there were 568 automobiles in Ethiopia, where five years before there were only a dozen, most of which were presents to the royal family.

Arthur Longbrake, who burned them up in 1910 with his sons, "Cutey, Who Tried Your Tee" now operates a shoe store in Mechanicsburg, Ohio.

Ohio's penal institutions will house 16,861 adult male prisoners by 1940 if the present rate of increase is maintained.

Daily air passenger service has been inaugurated between Monterrey, Mexico, and San Antonio, Tex., by a Mexican company with an American-made plane.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Mrs. Solomon Says—

MY SON, fear not, lest woman may become drunk with power, and seek to snatch man's sceptre and tyrannize over him.

For lo Woman may have ceased to rock the cradle and learned to run the flivver, but never will she seek to rule the world.

Nay, never shall Woman tyrannize over Man, even as he hath tyrannized over HER! For, verily, she may have cut off her hair and cast aside her corsets and her shrieking but still is she, at heart A TIM!

Go to, Never will a woman leave her husband ALONE evenings, while she goeth out to her club and her lodge meetings. For she knoweth better than to leave a man to his own devices. And she is aware that when she returneth he will not be watching the clock or putting the waterwaves in his hair!

Never will a woman keep her mouth closed and refuse to tell a man her secret thoughts. For, man hath thus tortured woman all his days! but BELIEVE ye woman a delight and that which is in her mind is soon out of her mouth

She will not urge him to stay at home and "putter around the house," even as he hath counseled her to do. For a man around the house all day is a trial to the spirit and a torment to the nerves. And, no woman can BEAR it!

She will not rave and cover him with wrath and contumely, when he bobbeth his bald pate. Nay, verily for hath she not spent threequarters of her life in inducing him to get a hair cut, when I needed it.

How then do men fear the tyranny of women?

For if in all these ways wherein man hath tormented her, she decideth to bully him, how then shall she "tyrannize" over him?

Her Ring Isn't a Secret

But With a Wedding Ring, Too, the Couple Had Better Tell Their Parents

By CAROLYN BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I Recently I bought an engagement and a wedding ring. Although we are not going to be married for some time, I wanted the two rings to be alike. Is it correct to let my fiancee and her people see the wedding ring now?

2 - Also must I ask her parents' consent now or when we have the wedding date set?

ENGAGED.

1—Yes, if you wish. This sort of thing now is thought of in the most simple and natural of terms, and no longer is there the secrecy that once was thought an important matter with the girl's parents as soon as ever you can. You should have done this when you asked the girl to marry you. How you begin your life as part of the family is very important, and a mutual and sensitive-minded young man takes his fiancee's family into his confidence at every step of his plans. Not to do so is to show a fundamental lack of taste and good manners and fine feeling.

Overcoming a Real Social Problem

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

Many people, when I meet them, say over and over again, "Now mom and me." "The mom and me" "Mom and me." What am I to do when they don't set any special time and I would so much like to go to see them?

C. L. H.

This is a very real and distinct social problem, and one which we all face at some time or other, and usually many times. The best thing to do, I think, is to make a party of your own—even a simple tea party or a tea-party "for two"—and invite the new acquaintance to come to tea. Then, if there is to be a real friendship, this will give it a charming beginning.

Acknowledging a Gift

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

When a person thanks me for a favor, or thanks for a gift, what should I say?

You are very welcome," or "It was such a pleasure for me to be able to do it," or, for a gift, "I am glad that you like it, Mary. That makes me very happy."

The Afternoon Bridge Hat

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

A" says it is not permissible to wear a hat to an afternoon bridge party in a private house "B" has seen several women wear hats to such a party and says it may be permissible. Please tell us which one is correct. PERPLEXED

B" is correct. It is considered in excellent form for a woman to wear her hat at such a party.

A Perplexing Dinner Hour

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN

Is it proper for the hostess to remain wearing clothes at a dinner given Sunday at 5:30 in the dining room of a small family hotel?

WONDERING

No, it is not correct to wear evening clothes before 6 o'clock at the earliest and later 8 o'clock. When a hostess designates 5:30 she does a very unkind thing to her guests To begin with, 5:30 is not a good dinner-hour, and guests invited to 5:30 dinner would certainly be perplexed as to what kind of attire to wear. Why doesn't the hostess nominate the usual dinner hour 7:30 or 8 o'clock? Then her guests will know what they are expected to wear.

Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.

You Can Tell True Love

Girl Who Has Too Much Doubt Should Wait for Man to Prove It

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

BEATRICE FAIRFAX will discuss a problem of heart and home at 6:25 p.m., over station WLEX.

Take His Word for It

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a constant reader of your column and think you give wonderful advice,

Beatrice Fairfax

and I do hope you will be able to help me.

I have met a nice young man and for three weeks now he has taken me out every night, always trying to please me. He has told me several times of his love for me and I do love him. Please tell me how I am to know he means it.

Now, Miss Fairfax, I am no petter, therefore please tell me do you think I have done wrong in letting this boy kiss me? Do you think he will lose interest in me? Do you think a kiss now and then with the one you love is anything?

ONE IN LOVE.

Dear One in Love—There is absolutely no way I can tell of whereby you can find out absolutely whether or not someone loves you. You just have to take their word for it. I believe it is a very rare case where a man makes love to a woman and declares his love for her if he doesn't mean it, at least temporarily. If the boy loses interest in you it will not be because of the kiss. Kissing is a natural and healthy expression of love and nothing to be ashamed of. Take his word for it that he loves you unless his actions become so unpleasant you would have difficulty in convincing yourself that he was a pest.

Mamie, Watch Your Step

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am a woman of 24 and very much in love with a man of 21. He insists that our ages makes no difference in his love for me. Do you think we should be happy if we married? I fear I could not hold him if a younger, prettier girl happened to please his fancy. Please advise me. MAMIE.

Dear Mamie: As you know, it is considered cradle robbing when a woman of your age marries a boy of 21. But that does not always hold. In your case I think the danger lies, not in the difference in your ages, but in the fact that the proposed husband hasn't had a chance to grow up. I think, my dear girl, that you should insist on postponing the marriage for say two years. If you are both genuinely in love you will be willing to wait. I have known extremely happy marriages where the wife was seven years older than the husband. And as for holding a husband's affection, an older wife has perhaps even an advantage over a younger one

No Silly Husband

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am a woman 48 years old My husband is 51. Recently I found out he is not true to me A girl of 20 whom he tried to "pick up" on the street came to tell me about it. Are all men like that? I have not told him I know this. He is very jealous of me. Should I get a divorce? We have seven children.

WORRIED WIFE.

Dear Worry: You are naturally upset, my dear Worried Wife, by what you have heard. Nevertheless, if it is a situation that you might to be able to handle without taking the extreme measure of divorce. A woman of your age, whose husband is truly interested in her in spite of his follies, and who has seven children doesn't tear the ground from under her feet except under extreme provocation which you haven't had. I suggest that instead you let your husband know what you have learned. He will, of course, feel foolish and repentant and it is quite possible that this will cure him of further follies

Husband Is Jealous

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am married and have been for more than 12 years. I have a problem I would like to have you solve for me. I have five children, the oldest 12 years old. I married when I was 18 years old and my husband was my first love. Now I realize I want to know is; have I any right to go to a dance with my husband's absence? Many times I stay at home all the time. My husband has been to dances when the children were small and I could not leave them but now the children are out of their babyhood and I can leave them with his mother. He backs out of taking me. He says it's no place for a married woman to go.

M. E. W.

Dear M. E. W.: I certainly would like to shake some reasonableness into that husband of yours. For downright selfishness and smallness he is the limit. I presume to me you've earned the right to a little innocent fun, and it's up to you to put your foot down right now on his jealousies and tantrums. You don't have to fight about it. Just be firm but quiet. If he won't stay with the children one night you can, and you can get a neighbor's girl to come in for three or four hours. I would be the last in the whole world to advise a woman to neglect her home and children, but you have been faithful and dutiful long enough without any too much appreciation. Now, say I, just step on it, and have a good time and you're still young enough to enjoy it.

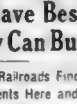
What Our Railroads Find; Developments Here and in Canada

—By B. C. Forbes—

New York, Sept. 5—The West as well as Canada knows how to make travel comfortable. I have never enjoyed more luxurious trains than on a 12,000-mile trip, just completed. Prosperity for prosperity our railways find that people want absolutely the best when they make long journeys. The fact that the Labor Day exodus from New York was tremendous suggests that depression is sitting lightly on this wonderful nation



B. C. Forbes

James Keeley, vice-president of the Pullman Company, gives me extraordinary facts illustrative of the public's love for the acme of comfort. The recently introduced plan for allowing one person to occupy a whole section at the reduced cost of the lower berth plus one-half of the upper, at once multiplied section sales sevenfold. Here is an interesting incident.

When Mr. Pullman, just after the Civil War, built the first sleepers approximating the modern style, the Michigan Central wanted to use them, but hesitated because it would require increasing the Chicago-Detroit rate from $1.50 to $2. So the superior car was put on the same trains with the old and the public allowed to decide. In a few weeks the old cars had been emptied into the new ones and had to be taken off. That experience is now being repeated in the demand for the single occupancy section.

A number of large corporations have notified their men that in the future they will approve, in expense accounts, the use of sections instead of lowers on the theory that increased efficiency results from the greater comfort.

"Our conductors," says Mr. Keeley, "are now handling over 40 times as many passengers, actually on trains, from Boston to sections as they did a year ago. All of which demonstrates that if you have something really superior to sell the public will buy precisely as it did 65 years ago."

Symbolic of the progressiveness of Pacific Coast railroads is a new lounge car placed in service by Paul Shoup's Southern Pacific between Portland and San Francisco. This car has been painted on the exterior with aluminum paint because of its unusual heat resisting qualities. Then, the windows are of emerald green glass, resistant to the passage of heat and glare and rendering a very restful effect upon the eyes. This new glass was used in these cars for the first time in American railroad car construction.

This car has a large solarium with luxurious chairs and davenports, a soda fountain, club compartment with built-in card tables, shower baths for men and women and a barber's shop. The general appearance is of a beautiful living room.

The Great Northern, created by Jim Hill, the empire builder, and now being skilfully developed by President Ralph Budd, backed by Arthur Curtiss James, reputedly the largest owner of railway stocks in the world, has also gone in for brand-new, superior equipment. Having built a passenger train new from locomotive pilot to the tail light and embodying luxuries not before imagined, the Great Northern has cut down the running time between Chicago and the Northwest enough to save a whole business day.

The other day the Pullman Company turned out four parlor cars of unparalleled magnificence. Two were put on between Seattle and Portland by the Great Northern the other two going to the New Haven for its extra-fare flyer between New York and Boston. (There are no extra-fare trains in the Northwest).

The Great Northern lately has been doing big things. It has spent $25,000,000 in rebuilding and electrifying thirty-five miles of line, including the longest railroad tunnel (eight miles) in the Western Hemisphere, through the Cascade Mountains, thus saving time and transportation cost. The company is now busy pushing its line into California, where in connection with the Western Pacific will give it entry into the San Francisco territory, and connection with the Santa Fe, which leads into southern California and Arizona. This represents victory in a battle waged since the days of E. H. Harriman, the most spectacular wizard the world has ever known.

Sir Henry Thornton, who has brought marvels with the Canadian National Railway System, has instituted a line of oracle steamships between Seattle and Canadian ports. Here too one found the most delightful appointments. From Vancouver to Toronto Sir Henry has put on the Confederate, a train not excelled in thoughtful conveniences and luxuries by any in the United States—indeed it impressed me as having a few wrinkles which our railway managers have not yet caught on to.

OWNERSHIP OF STOCK BY HELP IS GAINING

By FRANK H. SIMMONS

Investment through the medium of employee stock ownership is showing gains for 1930 to date. The Business Economic Digest tells us it is feared that stock valued at more than a billion dollars is today under subscription or owned by workers for various corporations in the United States. About a third of the workers in these corporations arranging for stock ownership by employes are stockholders under the various plans.

President Edward French of the Boston & Maine is likely to find the initial year of his regime marked by an accomplishment many would have deemed impossible a few years ago. The Boston & Maine is expected to show for 1930 a surplus over and above the requirements upon the common stock for the railroad carriers on the whole have been somewhat better showings this year than those in other sections of the country.

One stock market letter writer says the Wall Street bears fear that, if Gillette and Autocrop agreed to merger plans "other interests in the industry would protest to the Trade Commission." The big Boston company has never lacked strength in its local arm, and it is hardly likely any plan would be made that would lie outside the requirements of the statutes.

The current issue contains all of the features which have made the work known as the most comprehensive compilation data of interest to the manufacturer available. At the same time, through rearrangement of statistics and other material, the volume has been made slightly smaller in size consequently a saving of space has been made with no sacrifice of data. Clarity and legibility and has resulted in making it easier to find the information desired.

Nathan L. Amster, Boston and New York financial chairman of the stockholders' protective committee of the Manhattan Railway, which is leased to Interborough Rapid Transit, declares that the committee headed by President Dahl of Republic-Manhattan Treasury, will actually be able to vote over 200,000 shares of Interborough stock at the forthcoming meeting and thus have voting control. This committee, he states, will have many proxies in addition to those representing shares already deposited.

"I regard the entrance of the Dahl-Hayden-Wiggin coterie into the Interborough management—although they will probably elect only three directors to the board of 15—as of great benefit to Interborough security owners and a long step toward helping city officials to put through the unification plan which is deemed necessary," says Mr. Amster.

"Our committee representing Manhattan Railway stockholders is in perfect accord with the new movement by the Public Interests and we have been working with them in this direction for the past two years. Our committee, at the last annual meeting of Manhattan Railway had control of the voting power of this company, and has every reason to believe that this year it will represent a majority of the voting stock. If this proves to be the case there will be left no effective dissenting voice against unification."

Holyoke Loan Is Bid for in Boston

Holyoke awarded to Salomon Bros. & Hultzer at 2.12 per cent discount $200,000 loan dated Sept. 4 and due Nov. 7. Other bidders were Bank of Commerce & Trust Co., 2.199 per cent; Harris, Forbes Corp., 2.22 per cent; First National-Old Colony Corp., 2.23 per cent; and N. S. Bond & Co., 2.79 per cent.

Warren Dividends

Warren Brothers Co. declared regular quarterly dividends of 75 cents a share on the common, 25 cents a share on the first preferred and 29 1-6 cents on the second preferred, and 75 cents a share on the new convertible preferred all payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 16.

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

The old saying runs that "it's an ill wind that blows no good." The drop in milk production attributed to drouth conditions in certain localities is said to be helping Borden's and other condensed milk companies by increasing consumption. The low prices at which the product is selling, however, would not appear to spell exorbitant profits. Borden's has also been helped, however, by abnormally hot weather, which has increased its sales of ice cream.

New Pool in Transamerica

Revival of activity in Transamerica is understood to reflect formation of a new pool seeking to capitalize the extensive deflation which the stock has undergone, as well as the new plans gradually being disclosed.

American Can as Market Cue

Those who follow the American Can banking sponsors have been somewhat depressed by the stock's action. It has all of the requisites of a bull market leader, and until it displays evidence of assuming this role the stock will disappoint its followers.

New Group in Union Carbide

Union Carbide failed to hold its best price despite efforts of a new group which has just become active in the stock.

Foreign Power Foreign Receipts

Inability of the American and Foreign Power group to move their net ahead is due to recognition that the weakness in foreign currencies has immediate effect on the company's receipts. The issue has been pronounced under an attack led by William Danforth, the Boston "Bear."

Cash Register Liquidation

Strength in National Cash Register is attributed to manipulation based on desire to liquidate stock, according to report. It is said that one interest has a block of 25,000 shares to sell.

Case Threshing Net Is Saved

Weakness in Case Threshing Machine was caused by combined profit-taking and heavy selling by a leading bear trader. This company, according to a compilation, has paid out in dividends during the 10-year period 1925-1929, inclusive, only 16.7 per cent of its earnings.

Radio-Keith Cash Unlikely

Professional opposition to Radio-Keith is based principally on belief a dividend payment is likely this year. Buyers of the stock, however, have been loking mainly to the long-term prospects.

Accumulation in Kennecott

NOTWITHSTANDING the unfavorable conditions in the copper metal market, important accumulation is again evident in Kennecott Copper. This buying, however, is purely of an investment character and represents long pull accumulation. Interests close to the company feel that with the recent dividend reduction out of the way, the position of the company has been materially improved.

General Motors Well Bought

FAVORABLE showing of General Motors in a period when the automobile trade has been in the doldrums is attracting persistent investment buying. Operations of the company during the first half of the year were most encouraging, and interests closely allied with the company estimate that income in the second half will come up to expectations. This would bring earnings for the full year to about $4 a share. Consequently with the earning power of the company well demonstrated in periods of adversity, the current yield of more than 6 5 per cent is rather attractive.

Liquidation in Stand. of N. J.

INDICATIONS that wildcat oil producers in Oklahoma would attempt to abrogate the proration ruling decreed by the oil conservation body in that state are inducing quiet liquidation in Standard Oil of New Jersey. Should the independent producers prove successful in overruling the proration agreements it would result in a substantial increase in the production of crude oil. In important oil circles, it is estimated that the output would be doubled in the event their attempts are sustained by the Supreme Court. In view of the unsatisfactory condition of the oil industry at the present time, such a decision would prove most harmful as it would result in virtually unrestrained production.

Professionals on Sidelines

Recent confusing movements in the market have caused the majority of important professional operators to withdraw to the sidelines, pending the establishment of a more definite trend. Considerable disappointment is noticeable due to the failure of the market to cross the July highs, but in bull circles the belief persists that the market is consolidating its recent gains and will resume its upward trend in the immediate future.

On the other hand, however, those who have steadfastly adhered to the "bear side," maintain that trade conditions are not sufficiently encouraging to warrant sustained improvement in the market. In this connection, it is pointed out that as yet the seasonal recovery in industry has been barely noticeable, consequently operators are taking a position on the sidelines until the outlook becomes more clearly defined.

General Electric Refrigerator Sales

There has been a sharp increase in sales of electric refrigerators during August, it is reported that sales of refrigerators by General Electric in the first six months this year increased about 30 per cent over the 1929 period, whereas the total volume of the company's business was down 4 per cent. In a convention of General Electric distributors recently it was brought out that the refrigerator department of the company had passed the incandescent lamp department in volume of sales.

POND CREEK AT NEW HIGH IN BOSTON

Pond Creek Pocahontas was an active feature in today's trading on the Boston Stock Exchange, soaring to a new high for the year. The list as a whole was mixed, with changes ranging from fractions to nearly 7 points.

Boston & Maine preferred jumped over 6 points Brown & Co. preferred recovered part of a point loss in late trading. Torrington dropped a point, Gillette eased a like amount and Shawmut was around a point lower.

American Founders was slightly easier. Morganthaler added a point. Stone & Webster was up well over a point. Boston & Maine D stamped advanced 2 points. American Telephone 1¼ and General Electric was 1¼ higher.

Boston Elevated and Credit Alliance had fractional gains.

Of the 62 principal carriers reporting carloadings for two weeks ending Aug 16, half show a smaller decline from corresponding period in 1929 tha nthe 16.7 per cent for the country as a whole during the period.

Bangor & Aroostook is the only road to register a gain, being 2 10 per cent ahead of 1929. However loadings for the week ended August were 24.5 per cent greater than a year ago, offsetting the loss in the preceding week, which unfavorable comparison was due to potato crop movement beginning one week later than last year.

Following the sharp gain in American Glue common to 140 at Thursday, the stock was quoted around 140 bid this morning. Sales were subsequently recorded at 150, with the market currently 150@160.

Oil Industry Is in a Good State

New York, Sept. 5 (AP)—Statistical position of the oil industry, for the moment at least, is in the most healthy state attained this year, a current survey by Standard Statistics Company says. Production of crude is currently at the lowest point reached since 1928, and with proration in all active territories throughout the country, stocks of crude petroleum are being moderately reduced.

Fresh Financing Sought by Cities

New Bedford will receive bids until 11 a. m. Sept. 9 for purchase at discount of $400,000 loan, dated Sept. 9 and due Feb. 5, 1931.

County of Norfolk will receive bids until 11 a. m. Sept. 16 for purchase at discount of $40,000 hospital notes, dated Sept. 16 and due April 15, 1931.

Worcester will receive bids until 12 noon Sept. 8 for $600,000 notes dated Sept. 9 and due Feb. 18, 1931.

Bond Offerings in Week Are Lowered

New York, Sept. 5 (AP)—This week's bond offering totaled $67,159,000, against $67,907,000 last week and $8,976,000 a year ago.

First Peoples Trust

First Peoples Trust declared regular quarterly first preferred dividend of 87½ cents, payable Oct. 1

INSURANCE

Some Insurance Clauses Little Understood
Cost of Doubling Indemnity Is Small
Total Disability Protection Charge Light
How Delays Are Shown to Be Dangerous

—By Frank P. Loomis—

The double indemnity clause and the total disability clause, now being incorporated in practically all the modern life insurance contracts are very little understood by the average buyer of insurance.

By the payment of a small premium in addition to the regular rate of about $2 per $1000 of insurance, for buyers at the age of 35, the company agrees that in case of accidental death they will pay double the amount of the face of the policy.

For example, the average net yearly cost of a $10,000 ordinary life policy, at age 35, costs about $210. This policy would pay $20,000, in case of accidental death, under the "double indemnity" clause if the insured had paid the additional premium of $20.

By further additional payment of about $2 per $1000 insurance, or about $20 on a $10,000 policy, the company agrees under the "total disability" clause, that in case the insured becomes totally disabled by any reason, illness or accident, and unable to attend to business during that it will waive further payment of all future premiums and will pay the policy in full at maturity and in addition to this, while the insured is so totally disabled they will pay him a monthly income of $100 a month on a $10,000 policy.

There are many ways of dealing with those who do not recognize that delays are dangerous. Here are a few suggestions:

If you carried no fire insurance, but intended to insure your house next week and the house burned down tonight, what would you do?

Every year the life insurance companies refuse to insure the lives of hundreds of persons who apply for insurance. The majority of them could have obtained it had they applied for it a few months or a few years sooner. How do you suppose these people feel today?

There are scores of men in every community who need life insurance and have been urged to take it from time to time, but who have refused. And now they are uninsurable. If these same men were offered insurance now, do you think they would postpone action until a more convenient time?

Your wife may be superstitious or have some prejudice against policies of life insurance, or may think there are pressing obligations that should be met before the obligation to pay insurance premiums. Others are overwhelmed with distress and regret that they persuaded their husbands not to insure.

The very lowest priced life insurance, for protection only and for a limited length of time, is called Term Insurance. It can be purchased for one year, five, 10, 15 or 20 year periods. Term insurance is not advised except in such cases where temporary protection is essential. It is often carried to protect a mortgage on a home in case of death before the maturity of the same, or for temporary security against some special indebtedness.

There are no cash values or other such features as are given in other forms of higher priced policies. Term insurance, while low in cost and more or less only temporary protection, is simply a case of having to "die to win." However, when the need of the temporary protection is eliminated, the policy can be changed at any time to another form of insurance in the same company by paying the difference in premiums at the original date and age. The cost for the yearly term is about as follows:

Age 25	$11.82 per thousand
Age 30	$12.50 per thousand
Age 35	$13.65 per thousand
Age 40	$15.22 per thousand

SPECTATOR'S MARKET STUDY

By SPECTATOR

The stock market is in a critical stage. Failure to better the July "reaissance level" and the developing extra reactionary trend would mean that the market as a whole is not ready to undertake the recovery for which thousands of traders are anxiously waiting. The $8,000,000 increase in brokers' loans this week indicates comparatively unimportant switching around of security holdings and an inclination to await unmistakable signs on the financial horizon.

In an effort to determine the extent to which divided curtailment should be applied in a lean year, such as 1930, a Stock Exchange house has made an analysis of the earnings record of 23 leading corporations during the five-year period 1925 to 1929 inclusive. The companies selected are those usually represented in the percentage of earnings paid out in dividends during this half decade of expansion. The purpose of this survey is to show that by following a conservative policy in the past, dividends can rightfully be maintained throughout periods pending a recovery in business.

The list of stocks and the percentage of earnings paid out in each are as follows: National Biscuit, 86.3 per cent; Eastman Kodak, 84.5; Dupont, 83; American Tobacco B, 77.2; American Tel. and Tel., 74.6; Texas Gulf, 74.3; General Motors, 72.1; United Fruit, 69; Union Carbide, 57.2; Consolidated Gas, 57.2; Air Reduction, 56.2; U. S. CURB MARKET TURNS DULL ON RALLIES

New York, Sept. 5—Curb stocks firmed today, but demonstrations on the upside were feeble, reflecting week-end adjustments of speculative accounts. The market turned dull on the small rallies, which in a few active stocks reached the extent of a point or so.

Public participation was light, even in the investment shares. Utilities edged higher under the leadership of American Gas & Electric which moved up several points on short covering prompted by the firmer undertone. Electric Bond & Share and Central States Electric, both ex-dividend, made narrow gains. Brazilian traction encountered realizing.

American Cynamid "B" was well taken and added about a point to yesterday's advance. Mead Johnson, Ford of England, Lane Bryant and a few other specialties improved from a fraction to a couple of points, but the trading was thin. Oils were again dull. Cities Service crossed 29, but acted sluggish. Several of the prominent petroleum shares did not show on the tape during the earlier hours.

Goldman Sachs trading yielded more than a point at the opening in response to the dividend cut by a New York bank in which the company has a big interest, but quickly rallied above 20 for a net gain. Other investment holding company shares took inconspicuous parts in the day's business.

Call money renewed on the curb at 3 per cent.

GLUE BUSINESS TO BE SOLD

Subject to the approval of stockholders of the American Glue Co., a contract is been entered into with Richard Wilhelm of Newark, N. Y., an outstanding figure in the glue industry, who owns and operates a large plant at that place for the sale of the glue business of the American Glue Co., and including the following plants: Springdale, Pa.; Hammond, Ind.; San Francisco, Cal., and Brantford, Ontario, for $2,800,000 in cash.

Directors have already approved this sale and have called a special meeting of stockholders will be called to obtain their approval of the transaction.

In addition to the above purchase price, the buyer will also pay cash at the time of transfer for the inventory of raw materials, supplies and goods in process, and the finished goods inventory will be merchandised by the buyer for the account of the American Glue Co. Inventories will amount to approximately $1,800,000

This is the last operating unit of the American Glue Co, and it is understood that stockholders will be asked to take action in the near future on a complete liquidation of the remaining assets that are now operating.

The company will purchase its preferred stock up to and including Oct. 14 at $135 a share, plus accrued dividend.

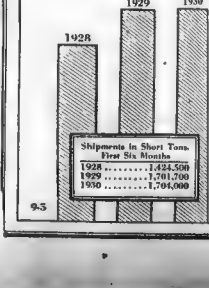
Structural Steel and Lumber Shipments

Chart shows the shipments of fabricated structural steel in the first six months of 1928, 1929 and 1930; and the shipments of softwood lumber in the first seven months of the same years. Sources: U. S. Bureau of the Census and the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association.

Fabricated Structural Steel

Shipments of structural steel are a good index to engineering construction—industrial, gas and power plants, bridge and railroad developments, hotels, apartments, and office and institutional buildings. In the first half of 1930 these shipments were larger than in any corresponding period, which indicates that the heavy construction branch of the building industry is having a very good year.



Softwood Lumber

Douglas Fir, Southern Pine, Western Pine, Calif. White Pine, No. Carolina Pine, Northern Pine, Calif. Redwood and Northern Hemlock

As the greater part of this softwood lumber is used by carpenters for structural purposes, these shipments indicate general building activity of all kinds throughout the country. They are 17% under 1929, due to a large extent to the decline in house construction this year, but they are higher than 1928, which is worthy of serious consideration.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Today's Complete Prices and Dividends

'SHORTS' COVER, LINES IN WALL STREET DEALINGS

New York, Sept. 5—After struggling with the stock market for two days and barely scratching its surface, bears decided today that for the moment it was too hard a nut to crack, and replaced their brisk upturn in share prices as they bought back the stocks sold short.

More optomistic reports regarding retain trade and maintenance of good investment demand for bonds and preferred stocks, were regarded as evidence that the public purse was still far from flat, and inspired renewed optimism in some speculative quarters. The turnover in stocks, however, remained light, as the upturn reflected an extreme scarcity of sellers, rather than any considerable number of buyers.

GOOD GAINS MADE

The advance was well maintained despite profit-taking, especially in the steels late in the final hour.

Utilities, which had lagged behind the industrials, amusements, merchandising shares and specialties, joined the rally and the food shares were also under accumulation.

U. S. Steel, American Can, Vanadium, American Telephone, American Water Works, National Biscuit, Standard Gas & Electric and Electric Power all gained 2 to 3 points, although there were some recessions from the tops.

A few volatile shares sold up 5 to more than 7. The close was strong.

Chrysler and Parmelee were strong, reflecting merger prospects, and several of the low-priced rubbers turned upward. Macy Worthington, Eastman, Auburn, Case and Diamond Match rose 4 to more than 6.

Radio and Columbia Graphophone were firm, reflecting the remarks of Lord Marks, chairman of Columbia at the annual meeting in London. He discouraged rumors of a merger of the two companies, but left the way open, stating:

"Naturally we are continually in contact with our competitors and ways and means of cooperation are continually being discussed."

Lord Marks was optimistic as to the company's prospects, pointing out that it had increased its profits in a period of world trade depression, and that a large demand had developed for its low-priced models.

UPTURN FOR CHAINS

Even the Curtiss-Wright shares were a little firmer, despite publication of the semi-annual report, showing a deficit of $3,351,681.

The report showed that the company had maintained a strong cash position, and Chairman Hoyt indicated that the management had determined to make this poor year a period of thoroughgoing housecleaning to put the company in shape to take advantage of better times.

While chain store reports appearing for August showed that it was the worst month so far this year, president Parson said that the month had recorded a turning point in to Woolworth Company's business which had gained substantially during the latter part. This bears out official reports which have come from merchandising circles to Wall Street.

Although F. W. Dodge's building contract reports for August failed to maintain the gains over July that is usual for August, the entire month, showed a drop of only 29 per cent from August, 1929, while July was nearly 46 per cent under July, 1929.

Grains were higher, wheat leading with an upturn of over a cent a bushel. Cotton futures worked 10 to 13 points higher.

The Federal Reserve's weekly statements showed that the month end money pinch had been easily met by members' borrowings rather than the systems open market operations A gain of only $8,000,000 in brokers' loans was about as expected. Call money held at 2½ per cent.

BURROUGHS REPORTS

Burroughs Adding Machine Co. today reported for the first half earnings equal to $6 cents a share on 5,000,000 shares, compared with $1.05 on the same share basis in the first half last year.

The company's balance sh: : as of June 30 showed cash and government securities of $13,124,894, compared with $21,515,929 at the end of June last year. Current assets as of June 30 were $35,863,072 and current liabilities $2,202,372, a ratio of more than 12 to 1.

McCrory Stores' August sales were $3,405,425, a decrease of 11.6 per cent from $3,853,000 July 31 last year. Sales for the first eight months were $26,936,196 against $28,178,216 for the corresponding period of 1929.

Unfilled orders of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company December 1 amounted to $16,217,090, compared with $18,899,000 as of August 1 and $17,835,000 July 1.

August sales of F. & W. Grand-Silves Stores were $2,217,133, a decrease of 7.69 per cent from $2,490,916 for August, 1929 Sales for the first eight months were $18,210,291, an increase of 8.8 per cent over $17,046,970 for the first eight months last year.

Pan American in Larger Earnings

Pan American Petroleum & Transport Co. reports for six months ended June 30 profit of $7,-883,361 after depreciation, depletion, amortization and intangible development costs, but before Federal taxes, against $3,985,715 in the first half of 1929.

Mexican Petroleum Co. reports for six months ended June 30 profit of $2,737,866 after depreciation, depletion, amortization and intangible development costs, but before federal taxes, against $2,327,720 the first half of 1929.

Bank Clearings in Week Are Lowered

New York, Sept. 5 (AP)—Dun's weekly compilation of bank clearings shows an aggregate of $7,205,868,000, a decrease of 33.9 per cent from a year ago. Outside of New York there was a decrease of 22.8 per cent.

Grant Sales for August Increase

New York, Sept. 5 (AP)—W. T. Grant Company reported sales of $5,384,603 for August, an increase of 9.29 per cent over $5,065,529 for the corresponding month last year. Sales for the eight months ended August 31 were $40,395,276, an increase of 10.27 per cent over $36,460,866 for the like period of 1929.

Auto Production Figures Are Given

New York, Sept. 5 (AP)—August automobile production in the United States and Canada totaled 240,100 cars and trucks against 272,551 in July and 512,842 in August last year, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce estimates.

SHOE BUSINESS PICKUP SEEN BY BRADSTREET

A pick-up in shoe production is looked for in September, with consequent effect on leather markets, says Bradstreet's weekly review.

"The wool market is quiet, but there is considerable interest evidenced by manufacturers in raw materials, and this is regarded as a prelude to good fall business," it said. "Principal activity has been a finer grade of domestic wools. Prices are firm, and have a tendency to strengthen.

"Dry goods and men's furnishing jobbers report no appreciable increase in sales. Men's clothing dealers report some activity for fall suits. Dress and cloak manufacturers and jobbers state that volume has shown a moderate increase.

"Department store and specialty shop sales show a slight decrease from last week.

"General volume in wholesale jewelry is 35 per cent less than the same period in 1929, and retail volume is 30 per cent less.

"Shoe manufacturers report markets continue quiet, with prices tending toward better business. Shoe manufacturers are looking for stimulus as yet in demand. Buyers continue to purchase on a hand-to-mouth basis, although retail stocks are reported very low."

Bond Market Has Another Upswing

New York, Sept. 5—Increasing scarcity of high-grade bonds and the recent absence of large offerings have reflected in another upturn in prices of domestic issues today. Volume of trading expanded moderately on the big stock exchange's bond division.

Numerous rails changed hands in sizeable blocks at small advances, and again there was a liberal scattering of new highs.

Curtiss-Wright Is Run at a Loss

New York, Sept. 5 (AP)—The Curtiss-Wright Corp., manufacturer of airplanes and motors, today reported net loss of $5,351,661 for the six months ended June 30. The company was organized a year ago as a holding concern for several organizations, including Wright Aeronautical Corp. and Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Co.

The balance sheet on June 30 showed current assets of $15,781,732 against current liabilities of $4,539,086. Unfilled orders on the same date were valued at more than $14,000,000.

Lucky Girl

pletely furnished. She explored it slowly and carefully room by room. "Some day I'm going to buy it. I was complete from the silver paper knife on the library table to the orchid enameled hangers in the guest room closet, and the six dozen linen sheets monogrammed A. D. F. There wasn't anything that she could add. There wasn't anything that she could conscientiously throw away.

Luxurious Room

Farnsworth had had her room decorated in the modern style. It was a symphony in cool silvery gray, with unexpected, rather startling touches of magenta and turquoise. A luxurious and beautiful room, but one that had no relationship or sympathy with the rest of the house. "Like me," she thought rather sadly, "all right, but not belonging here." She remembered and they thought of Cathie, a wife. She had telephoned to Patricia O'Connell and Bess Green and all the other girls she used to know and had sat in the drawing room beside the tea table for whole, miserable, never-ending afternoons waiting for callers who never came. She had begged me with tears in her eyes, to come and have luncheon—anything—and I answered "Later," ma always said. "Later, Cathie, when the honeymoon's over!"

More Like Stranger

Old Cheong laughed until his fat sides shook. It made her feel more like a stranger than ever. To think that she wasn't even to be told the servants' names!

"Would you like cocktail before cocktail this evening?" or "Would you like frozen custard for dessert?"

"Yes, that would be very nice," she always answered hurriedly, and Cheong's slant eyebrows would twitch ever so slightly at the corners. He knew, and Cathie knew that he knew that she would have said yes, if he had suggested fried mush.

"Well, this can't go on," she decided after a few more days had gone by, and she had not found anything to fill the hours. "I'll have to join women's clubs, or take up some kind of study or I'll go crazy . . . I wish I knew more people . . . it's funny Mr. Farnsworth's friends don't call on me. Maybe they're going to snub me because I was a stenographer. Well, I don't care, I'll make friends of my own, or look up my old ones . . ."

Illusion Fades

She had thought that being married would make everything different. She had thought of being wafted into a world of fashionable women, interesting men. She had had little pictures of herself receiving in the afternoons, pouring tea, meeting new people. Going out, rushing busily from one engagement to another, telling people like Edna Grover and Addie White, "Of COURSE I want to see you! I'm just as fond of you as ever only I never get a minute—"

But she was with hours and hours, and nothing to do with them. She had called on Edna and Addie and made them promise to come to see her, and they had come and sat stiffly in their best clothes hardly finding anything to say giggling nervously when Mr. Farnsworth's name was mentioned

The work of the house was done, as if by clockwork. Servants stepped softly through the rooms, and dusting or polishing floors. Cathie despaired of ever hearing their voices, there were so many of them. When she asked Cheong, the dictator who directed all things, he just laughed and said, "Him? Oh, you call him Charlie!"

"But surely they're not all named Charlie!"

Bond Market Has Another Upswing

New York, Sept. 5—Increasing scarcity of high-grade bonds and the recent absence of large offerings have reflected in another upturn in prices of domestic issues today. Volume of trading expanded moderately on the big stock exchange's bond division.

Numerous rails changed hands in sizeable blocks at small advances, and again there was a liberal scattering of new highs.

Curtiss-Wright Is Run at a Loss

New York, Sept. 5 (AP)—The Curtiss-Wright Corp., manufacturer of airplanes and motors, today reported net loss of $5,351,661 for the six months ended June 30. The company was organized a year ago as a holding concern for several organizations, including Wright Aeronautical Corp. and Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Co.

The balance sheet on June 30 showed current assets of $15,781,732 against current liabilities of $4,539,086. Unfilled orders on the same date were valued at more than $14,000,000.

Lucky Girl

pletely furnished. She explored it slowly and carefully room by room. "Some day I'm going to buy it. I was complete from the silver paper knife on the library table to the orchid enameled hangers in the guest room closet, and the six dozen linen sheets monogrammed A. D. F. There wasn't anything that she could add. There wasn't anything that she could conscientiously throw away.

Luxurious Room

Farnsworth had had her room decorated in the modern style. It was a symphony in cool silvery gray, with unexpected, rather startling touches of magenta and turquoise. A luxurious and beautiful room, but one that had no relationship or sympathy with the rest of the house. "Like me," she thought rather sadly, "all right, but not belonging here."

The work of the house was done, as if by clockwork. Servants stepped softly through the rooms, and dusting or polishing floors. Cathie despaired of ever hearing their voices, there were so many of them. When she asked Cheong, the dictator who directed all things, he just laughed and said, "Him? Oh, you call him Charlie!"

"But surely they're not all named Charlie!"

More Like Stranger

Old Cheong laughed until his fat sides shook. It made her feel more like a stranger than ever. To think that she wasn't even to be told the servants' names!

Each morning she came with great ceremony to ask her preferences in the matter of menus.

"Would you like cocktail before cocktail this evening?" or "Would you like frozen custard for dessert?"

"Yes, that would be very nice," she always answered hurriedly, and Cheong's slant eyebrows would twitch ever so slightly at the corners. He knew, and Cathie knew that he knew that she would have said yes, if he had suggested fried mush.

"Well, this can't go on," she decided after a few more days had gone by, and she had not found anything to fill the hours. "I'll have to join women's clubs, or take up some kind of study or I'll go crazy . . . I wish I knew more people . . . it's funny Mr. Farnsworth's friends don't call on me. Maybe they're going to snub me because I was a stenographer. Well, I don't

Phones Secretary

Later! How long did people think honeymoons last, anyway? Cathie wondered. Wondered too, what a real honeymoon would be like . . . with a man like Gordon Moore—not Gordon Moore specifically, of course . . . just anybody young.

No, this couldn't go on. She'd have to do something . . . make friends . . . Miss Darrow! Marsha Darrow in the office. Why hadn't she thought of her before? They had been good friends toward the last. Why this very minute Miss Darrow might be accusing her of snobbishness, thinking she didn't want to see anyone in the office now that she was married to the boss.

At Every Crossing the throbbing cars held in leash for the green light are USED CARS!
Perhaps it was only yesterday, a week ago, or a month ago that those cars were endlessly crossing the intersection. Now, at last, here you see them idle, unmoved by any emotion they have felt under the spur of "at the crossing." The remaining unused miles in a good used car today are long THOUSANDS of miles to the second owner for more miles per dollar than ever before. Here are the cars in this city's reliable automobile merchants today at bargains and on the easiest terms that ever are showing at low prices, convenient terms.

LARGEST EVENING
CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

Death Crossings Must Go

The Law Says So, and There Can Be No Excuses

Under authority of the new law, now effective, the State officials of Massachusetts can proceed with diligence and with enthusiasm—if they possess those qualities in the matter—to eliminate the dangerous grade crossings which have collected their regrettably large and unfortunate toll of auto deaths.

More than 1600 grade crossings clutter the highways of this Commonwealth. They are relics of an antiquated era of transportation. They are economic extravagances, impeding both railway and highway traffic and depreciating the value of adjacent properties. They stand in this modern economic life like the kerosene lamp or the hansom cab.

It is all well enough to scold our autoists with the constant warning to be on their guard. We litter the billboards with Satyr-like posters, with their gruesome skeletonized reapers, calculated to drive fear into their hearts and take the joy out of their lives. They are being cautioned repeatedly to beware the death-traps. Well, it is about time to remove the death-traps.

The Legislature and the State officials, moving with the speed and caution of the tortoise, could levy extortionate taxes upon the autoists with great celerity and could find new ways of putting them into jail, but their awesome regard for the political influence of the railroad lobbyists prevented them from removing the worst menace to the safety and lives of the autoists they were penalising.

Now, all excuses for further procrastination are gone. The railroads have been saved by the kindly Legislature fifteen per cent of the elimination costs and in this State at least they are back upon a solid financial footing which enables them to bear the cost in common with the State and the local communities which are taxed.

It may also occur to the gentlemen at the State House who are charged with the responsibility of prosecuting this work that the sooner they begin it the sooner the public will judge favorably of their earnest professions to relieve unemployment. Let the dirt fly. Every shoveful will be the sign of a new job for someone. It will be a certain sign that the campaign to save lives and stop auto accidents is more than a mere political slogan.

The Nation's Education

It Should Be a Department in the President's Cabinet

Opening of another school year finds the Federal Government still shirking its constitutional obligation to co-operate effectively with the several States in the promotion of education.

This duty can BEST be performed by the establishment of a Department of Education with a Secretary of Education in the President's Cabinet.

Pending before the Congress is a bill, introduced in the Senate by Senator Capper, of Kansas, and in the House by Representative Robsion, of Kentucky, which provides for the creation of this new and vitally needed department.

The Capper-Robsion bill consolidates in one department the educational activities of the Federal Government now scattered through several departments and independent agencies.

It authorized funds to enable the new department to conduct research in education and to distribute the information thus obtained to the several States.

It establishes a departmental conference on education to be made up of representatives from each of the executive departments.

It creates a national council on education to consist of the chief school officers of the States and Territories.

It leaves the control of education where it now rests and properly belongs—WITH STATE AND LOCAL AUTHORITY.

Control of education is a sovereign function of the States, and is guaranteed by Article X of the Constitution.

But the promotion of education is as much the duty of the Federal Government as it is of the several States.

Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln are among the great Presidents who have emphasized its importance as a national duty.

Calvin Coolidge was only applying their teachings to modern needs when, as President, he urged upon the Congress the establishment of a Department of Education.

The Hearst Publications, speaking for some thirty million readers, in every State in the Union, at the opening of the new school year, urge the Congress to pass the Capper-Robsion bill at the coming session and place Education ON AN EQUALITY with Agriculture, Commerce and Labor in the President's Cabinet.

Immigrants

We Want the Best Only

Crime and unemployment, both big questions, are also the two biggest arguments in favor of SELECTIVE immigration into the United States.

In the past, anybody could come here—and did. Later, we put bars up against the least desirable, and limited the desirable.

It is now time to ask ourselves why, in our immigration policy, we should not admit only the BEST.

We can use the best blood and best brains of Europe, if they want to come here.

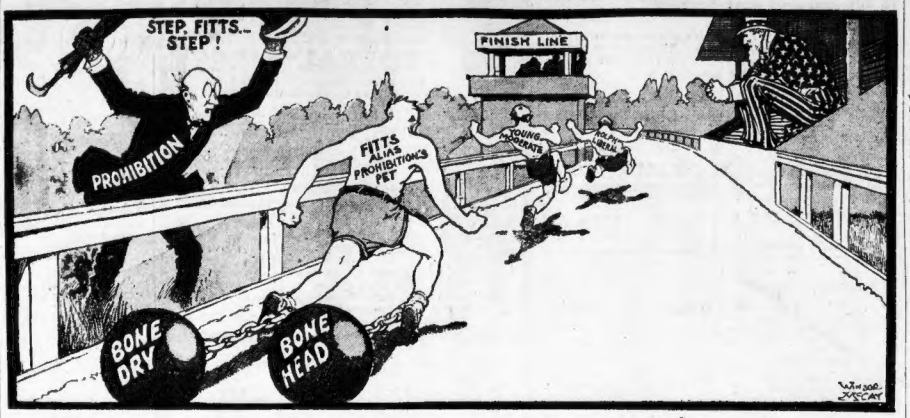
We cannot use the worst blood and worst brains of Europe or any other place. We have enough bad blood and bad brains of our own without importing more.

Our next door neighbor, Canada, wisely admits only those immigrants who will not swell the ranks of the unemployed or the criminal classes.

The United States can do the same by applying the principle of SELECTIVE immigration, admitting those foreigners who are needed in the nation's household, excluding those that are not.

LISTEN, WORLD!—On Magazine Page Today

THE RACE IS TO THE INTELLIGENT



THIS, ladies and gentlemen, who discuss the "wet" and "dry" question, is a picture that should enlighten us all.

You know that there has just been a great contest for the Gubernatorial nomination in California.

And there were three competitors.

FIRST, in his own esteem and LAST in results, was a Mr. Fitts. His name is justified by what the people of California have done to him.

Second, came Mr. Young, actually Governor of California, who was "'betwixt and between."

He thought PERHAPS he was dry and PERHAPS he was wet. He wasn't quite sure.

The people of California are quite sure, however. And, with Mr. Fitts, he is OUT OF IT.

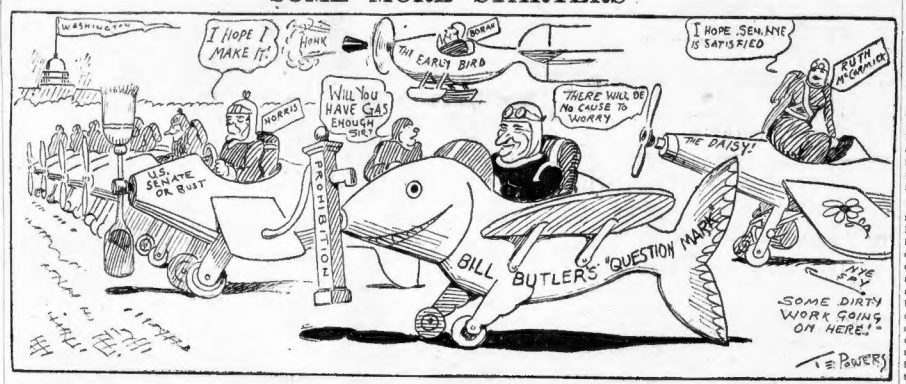
Third, came Mr. Rolph, Mayor of San Francisco and next Governor of California. Mr. Rolph knew EXACTLY what he believed, and exactly what the people of California want.

He is a liberal, and doesn't believe that gentlemen unable to keep sober without the help of a Volstead law and a constitutional amendment should be allowed to run the United States.

He won an overwhelming victory and will be the next Governor of California.

Those that belong to the "Bone DRY Bone HEAD" class please take notice.

SOME MORE STARTERS



THEY ARE OFF, or nearly. Some find it hard to get off the ground.

The bold and beautiful lady pilot from Illinois, Ruth Hanna McCormick, little knows the handicap she is carrying.

She doesn't know what we know, that big Republicans have decided not to admit her to the Senate even if she is elected.

The others you know, especially Senator Borah. Out in Idaho he can fly backward or forward, sidewise or up and down. Everybody is satisfied, nobody competes with him.

Norris will win, because Nebraska is an intelligent State.

Bill Butler's plane, like Mr. Coste's, is labeled "Question Mark," but not for the same reason. Wet yesterday, dry today, possibly a tailspin or new nosedive tomorrow. Might well be labeled "Chameleon," because it crawls, instead of flies, and changes its color without warning.

H. G. Wells -:- Says Humans Must Stop Growing, But a Fiddler Crab Can't Lay Off. -:- "Science of Life"

AND THE difference between the sexes is entirely brought about by one simple fact—that while both the female's claws and one of the male's grow at the same rate as the animal in general, the other male claw grows half as fast again. This claw and the rest of the body are like two sums of money put out to compound interest at different rates, the claw's rate being the higher, and so, as the animal increases in bulk, the proportionate size of the claw is bigger and bigger.

H. G. Wells

If growth were to go on long enough, then the large claw would eventually grow larger than the whole of the rest of the body. But before that, death in some form overtakes this over-balanced animal.

Fiddler-crabs, like all crusta cea, go on growing as long as they live. So a male fiddler-cran has no fixed or final shape, since it changes the relative size of claw and body as it grows. All that is constant is the proportion between the claw's rate of growth and that of the rest of the body.

A further interesting fact is that the male's big claw is growing fastest of all near its tip, the growth-rate grading down towards the body. As a result the claw changes the proportions of its parts as it grows.

This does not happen in the female's claws; not only are they growing as fast as the rest of the body, but all their parts are growing at the same rate. This local exaggeration of growth in a particular region, a "growth-center," seems to be universal for organs that grow faster than the body as a whole.

In ourselves and other higher vertebrates just the same difference in growth capacity exists between different parts. From birth onwards, for instance, our arms and our legs are growing faster than our trunk.

The difference between us and a fiddler-crab is that at a more or less definite time, growth is inexplicably arrested. Our proportions have been changing as steadily as those of the crab; but now change is stopped.

We have attained a more or less fixed final shape. If we could solve the riddle of that arrest and defer the time at which growth ceases, human beings would not simply be larger than they are; their proportions would be different; their shape would be changed.

SECTION 7.

AGE, RETROGRESSION AND REJUVENATION

The experiments of Steinach and others on gland-grafting and the exploiting of them by a certain section of the daily press have made rejuvenation a subject of general interest.

But too rarely has the public discussion of the matter treated it as more than a stunt, a nine-days' wonder, a subject of music hall jokes, or, even if it has got beyond this stage, done more than debate the bona fides of the experimentators and the genuineness of the facts.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—Thoughts while strolling: The historic Garrick goes burlesque. Shades of Mansfield and Modjeska! Who remembers when all Childs' looked alike? Fragrant odors from Italian cafes — suggesting black olives, salami, antipasto and curled red peppers. Yum, yum!

Gene Fowler, a Denver, Colorado, boy who made good in the city. Never saw a fat head waiter. Arthur Hammerstein wears blue collars, too. Those Turkish towel bath robes get a play. A socialist lecture bureau. Earl Carroll's young brother, Norman, who manages Earl's affairs.

A saddle shop selling out—the auto, hooray, has come to stay. Perfume—"to fit one's astral personality." Jack Kennedy, the restaurant keeper. Brilliant finger tips and lips but dull minds. Spooky tea rooms in black and orange and a candle glow. With fortune telling booths.

High nosed ladies who attend noonday lectures and listen to talk of the abstract, concrete and higher things. Tullio Carminata, the actor, no worse for his slapping. Non-fattening candy. Still crowding the photomaton parlors—sophisticated old Broadway.

The fellow who poses as Alfred Lunt. Bugs Baer in front of Friars Sea food cafe windows of crawling things. The Casino Theater site now has a high building. On its stage the Floradora sextette became famous. And "Erminie" made its record run. Herb Roth's hippo shoulders.

Herald sq., once a high spot, now sedate. The group that clots about the fire under little tar wagons. Carlo Tresca, the anarchist. Whose name somehow fits him. Gymnasium schools with outside barkers. Seedy salesmen of 10-cent song books—one the image of Roger Wolfe Kahn.

He-man luncheon places in West 30's. Where loft workers go. And idle in front afterward, puffing black cigars. Yiddish noonday extra—head-lining Soviet news from Moscow. White-bearded patriarchs. Rosy cheeked Jewish girls. Bolsheviki Boulevard!

I stopped at Lafayette and Canal for a shine at "Silk Hat Tony's." Despite the inferno of heat, Tony, in tail coat and silk hat, carried on all summer. A magazine recently flushed him out for publicity and Tony had to put on helpers, also clad in high hats and tails. If business keeps up he will open a chain of "Silk Hat Tony" parlors soon. His costume grew out of an election wager and attracted so much attention he kept wearing it. Tony rattles off a list of distinguished patrons and while a good shiner, seemed to me a little weak around the heels.

The ghosts of horse car lines remain on several downtown streets. The lines were abandoned but it was cheaper to leave the rails standing in double scars, a memento of a fading generation.

In a health magazine office they practice what they preach. At certain hours, a gong sounds and workers jump from desks to go through exercises. You almost expect a smutty joke and a black-out.

A 42d st. newsdealer surprises new customers by handing them the paper they desire before it is named. A simple trick. He watches their eyes. In every instance the gaze lingers on the paper they want.

I feel masterful this evening. In my eyes shines a mocking gleam. Quietly, but in a forceful way, I convinced a Schrafft waitress the establishment's culinary department could supply Ham Hawaiian, a dish of the house not on the menu. There were whispered conferences among departmental heads, hurried dispatching of messengers through swinging doors, but it was procured. Ham Hawaiian is a slice of fried ham and a slice of canned pineapple. Had it been a grown male waiter, instead of such long-winded arguing, he would have received a fat whack in the mush. I'm still pretty mad.
